

Alan Watt Mystery

Tribute To Unique Voices In The Wilderness

ALAN WATT MYSTERY PURPOSE THE CARRIED WORD JACKIE & ALAN THROUGH THE LENSE

SWEET LIBERTY SAGA MEDIA MEDIA II ALTERNATIVE WEBSITES Q

Recent Posts

1. The Arrival
2. The First Lesson
3. The Mirror
4. The Invitation
5. The Gathering

Date/Period	Event Description	Notes/Details	Suggested Icon
Before 2000	Alan Watt's early career in radio & alternative media	Builds audience on geopolitics, media critique	🎙 Microphone / Radio tower
Mid-2000s	Launch of cuttingthroughthematrix.com	Focus on free sharing of transcripts and talks	🌐 Website / Globe
2000s-2010s	Alan encourages sharing his material freely	Community grows, talks mention personal stories (dog "Hamish")	📖 Open book / Share icon
Before March 2021	Close relationship with Melissa Read	Melissa becomes key figure in content management	❤ Heart / Two people
March 4, 2021	Alan Watt passes away	Melissa Read takes over cuttingthroughthematrix.com	🕯 Memorial candle
2021-2022	New content released under Melissa / "Real History"	Style shifts cause community discussions	📺 Video / Broadcast icon
October 12, 2022	DMCA claim by Melissa causes takedown of alanwattarchive.com	Sparks controversy over legacy control and copyright	⚖ Legal gavel / Copyright
2022-2023	Fallout between Melissa Read and former collaborators (e.g., Jo Leigh Ferris)	Channels removed, community division grows	👊 Broken handshake / Warning
2023 and Beyond	Ongoing debate about Alan Watt's legacy and content sharing	Mixed support for Melissa's stewardship; alternative archives	❓ Question mark / Discussion

- 6. The Pause
- 7. The Challenge
- 8. The Insight
- 9. The Return
- 10. The Whisper
- 11. Prologue
- 13. The Kiss of Death – UPDATED july 2026
- 15. Diana Story
- 16. Aus Der Traum – Regine aus Deutschland
- 17. New Video Channels
- 18. The Diana Letters
- 19. Al & Diana 1
- 20.AI & Diana 2
- 21. Synopsis
- 22. My replies to Diana
- 23. Diana Responds...
- 24. Karen Responds...
- 25. Full Circle
- 26. Research PDF Files
- 29. Afterword
- 30. Karen about Alan
- 31. Karen about Alan – Audio 2 hrs.

13. The Kiss of Death – UPDATED july 2026

November 23, 2025 by Hamish

Welcome to Know Where to Run, with Christopher White.

Is it Warren in North Carolina there?

Hello?

Hello?

Hello?

Yes.

Hey, I've been a big fan of yours for a while and for about maybe about a year and a half, maybe two years now and I'd sent you an email actually and I don't want to try to come down to too hard, but I've come across information, who is Glenn Keeley?

Glenn Keeley, Glenn Keeley is a Canadian.

Well, yeah, because it seems like you got a lot of your work from Glen Keeley.

32. Reflection On Karen

33. The Mirror and the Moral

36. Afterburn

37. Attacks from CTTM under the excuse of "copyright"

38. New External Sites

39. Jackie.... * SOLO*About Alan

40. More Attacks from Cuttingthroughthematrix – Melissa Demon – Karen gets taken down

41. Because I cannot promote the two people who are now profiting from his work because I believe that the woman who resided with him was complicit in his death

42. One of many missing transcripts/ interviews, it is a long story – brotherhood of the bell (baal)

43. 27th september 2006 – endgame -messiah

You think I've got a lot of my work from Glenn Keeley?

I'm starting to question you now, with your own life.

Is this what you phoned in for, was it?

Well, yeah, because this is stuff that I really, I mean, that I feel like I really want to know, I mean, I'm not trying to come down on you, I'm just trying to get to the bottom of this.

Well, I spoke to Glen a few years back in the 90s, and I met him once in the 90s, one day, and I haven't talked to him since.

He's holding something up here, and tell me if he's familiar here, and he pulled this stuff all on my internet right now, and I'll just do that again.

Glenn, back with more after this break.

I ask them to use me, but don't abuse me, don't pretend, and don't fool the public that you are me. If you do, I will come down on you. And I have to hunt you people down, because I can go weeks without getting an order. So here I am, giving you all this information out, and nothing comes back. There's authors living off the information I put out, and I got that from an author's society who told me that many of the members are making their life living off.

Most of them won't even mention where they got all the information.

44. No Longer Listening to Alan Watt

45. BitChute Discussion Archive – Alan Watt / CTTM / Legacy Dispute – Overview Discussions Between Me and Debess

46. Future transcripts of Alan Watt Talks for the years 2016 and beyond

47. Dieu et mon droit - Tea-Party

48. "Sanity. Sanity. Sanity is the thing that they have to – they want to exterminate sanity."

49. Overview Summary

50. The Glen Kealey Papers

51. New Alternative Sites

52. Time Is On My Side – Demonic Possession

53. David Hammond – Shilling for the CTTM Cult

54. Spiritual Purification

The Mirror and the Moral

After the noise faded, the forums emptied like a room after a sermon. Links broke, archives disappeared, and the familiar night-time signal that once bound strangers together dissolved into static. What remained were questions — not about any one man, but about the mirror we had all built.

We had wanted heroes.

Alan became that mirror because we handed it to him polished and bright.

His gift was articulation: he could give shape to the unease we already felt about history and control. Yet when the mirror cracked, we saw not deception alone but our own reflection staring back — our need for certainty dressed as rebellion. Looking back now, I see that both the believer and the skeptic are born of the same wound: the pain of not knowing whom to trust in a world that trades truth like currency.

Alt.Sites

Alan Watt Resources

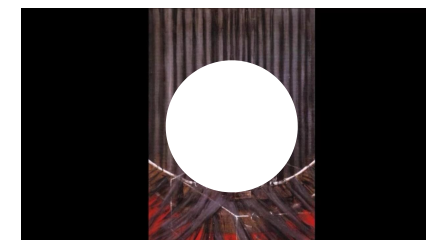

alanwatt.wasmer.app

alanwattmystery.x10.netw ork

alanwatt.nichesite.org

transcripts.alanwatt.wasm er.app/

Karen About Alan

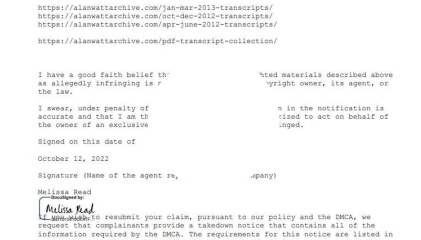

Alan’s error, if one can call it that, was the same error that haunts every voice that rises too high in a lonely field: mistaking attention for proof, conviction for evidence, followers for friends. And mine was to think that exposing contradiction would heal the wound rather than widen it. Truth, it turns out, is not a weapon; it is a mirror that cuts equally on both sides. What the episode taught me is simple enough to fit in a single sentence — every movement that seeks to free the mind must guard first against the tyranny of its own certainty. When I think of Alan now, I try to remember the quiet hours, the first times his words made me pick up a book, pause a broadcast, trace a footnote.

Whatever else can be said, that spark was real. And in the end, that is the paradox of the teacher who falls: his collapse can still light the way for others, if only as a warning not to mistake the messenger for the message. —

André, Outlaw Journalism, circa 2009 (reconstructed)

I do not yet have copies of The Kealey Papers, but I would not be surprised if the entirety of Watt’s three books was copied directly from them.

Karen About Alan II

Diana About Melissa

One can go onto Kealey's webpage and see images from the covers of the Papers which Watt has used in his books (example at the head of this article), and if you read through some of Kealey's web posts, you can see clearly that Watt plagiarized his material extensively, giving him absolutely no credit.

He even deleted the man's name from his show, denying him as Peter denied Christ.

At this point, after all of the shattered trust and broken pride, there was nothing else I could do but laugh.

I laughed long and hard. The "copyrighted files", which I had spent hours listening to Watt cry his eyes out about, were in fact largely the work of someone else.

We discussed this extensively in a thread on Outlaw Forum. No one could deny it. It was just too blatant what Watt had done.

We all knew what was coming next.

yes that is a masonic symbol,

CHARLES RIVER EDITORS

not really an attack on Alan; it is more a meditation on what happens when a person becomes a symbol.

The strongest part is that it avoids the easy conclusion of “the guru was false, therefore everything was false.” Instead it explores the uncomfortable middle ground:

something real may have been communicated, something valuable may have been awakened, and yet the person carrying that message may still have flaws, contradictions, or blind spots.

The “mirror” metaphor is doing most of the work.

“We had wanted heroes.”

That sentence is probably the core. It turns the investigation around. The danger is not only that a public figure disappoints people; the danger is that audiences sometimes unconsciously create the very pedestal from which someone later falls.

The line:

“mistaking attention for proof, conviction for evidence, followers for friends” is especially sharp because it applies beyond Alan. It is almost a general warning about internet communities, movements, and charismatic figures.

And the ending:

“do not mistake the messenger for the message” is probably the most mature conclusion one can reach in this kind of situation. It allows two things to exist at the same time:

“This person influenced me and some ideas were valuable.”

“This person should still be examined critically.”

That is actually very close to the theme you were discussing earlier: the strange contradiction of someone whose message was about questioning everything, yet who later became difficult for some people to question.

The interesting thing, reading this alongside your Glen investigation, is that the emotional centre is not really the plagiarism/source question. As you said, you already consider that part obvious. The deeper issue is the reaction when the mirror was turned around.

A teacher of skepticism eventually has to face the ultimate test: can he tolerate skepticism directed at himself?

That is where the “fall” happens – not necessarily because the teacher had no wisdom, but because the person and the message become fused. When that fusion breaks, followers often feel that the entire world they built around the person has collapsed.

This text is actually quite restrained for something written from inside such a controversy. It reads less like an accusation and more like a post-mortem: what did we learn from investing so much meaning in another human being?

when we take gurus even though, funny enough, alan always warned us to never do that

Exactly. And that is probably the deepest irony in the whole story.

One of Alan’s recurring messages was essentially: do not create idols, do not surrender your own judgement, do not look for someone else to think for you.

And yet, the human tendency is incredibly strong to do exactly that.

A person appears who can articulate things you have felt but could not express. They connect ideas, provide a framework, give language to confusion. The listener experiences a kind of awakening:

“Finally, someone is saying what I have been sensing.”

That moment can be very powerful. But the danger is the next step:

“Because this person helped me see, this person must always be right.”

That is the point where a teacher becomes a guru.

The strange paradox is that the best teachers often warn against this. Socrates did it. Many philosophical traditions do it. The real teacher says: don’t follow me; learn how to see.

But audiences naturally reverse it. They turn the person who said “think for yourself” into the authority on how to think for themselves.

That is the mirror in your text.

The follower thinks:

“I escaped the illusion of authority.”

But sometimes what happened is:

“I replaced one authority with another.”

And that is not unique to Alan. It happens everywhere: politics, religion, science communication, alternative media, even online communities. A movement that begins by questioning power can slowly create its own hierarchy.

The uncomfortable lesson is that the warning has to apply twice:

Question the official story.

Question the person telling you to question the official story.

Question yourself when you feel certain you have found “the one who knows.”

The irony is almost philosophical: if someone truly teaches independence of thought, then the final test of that teaching is whether people can eventually disagree with the teacher.

That is why the “guru who falls” theme is interesting. The fall is not only about the person on the pedestal. It is also about the pedestal itself — and why we keep building them, even when we were warned not to.

Alan Watt ripped off Glen Kealey - Cutting Through the Matrix

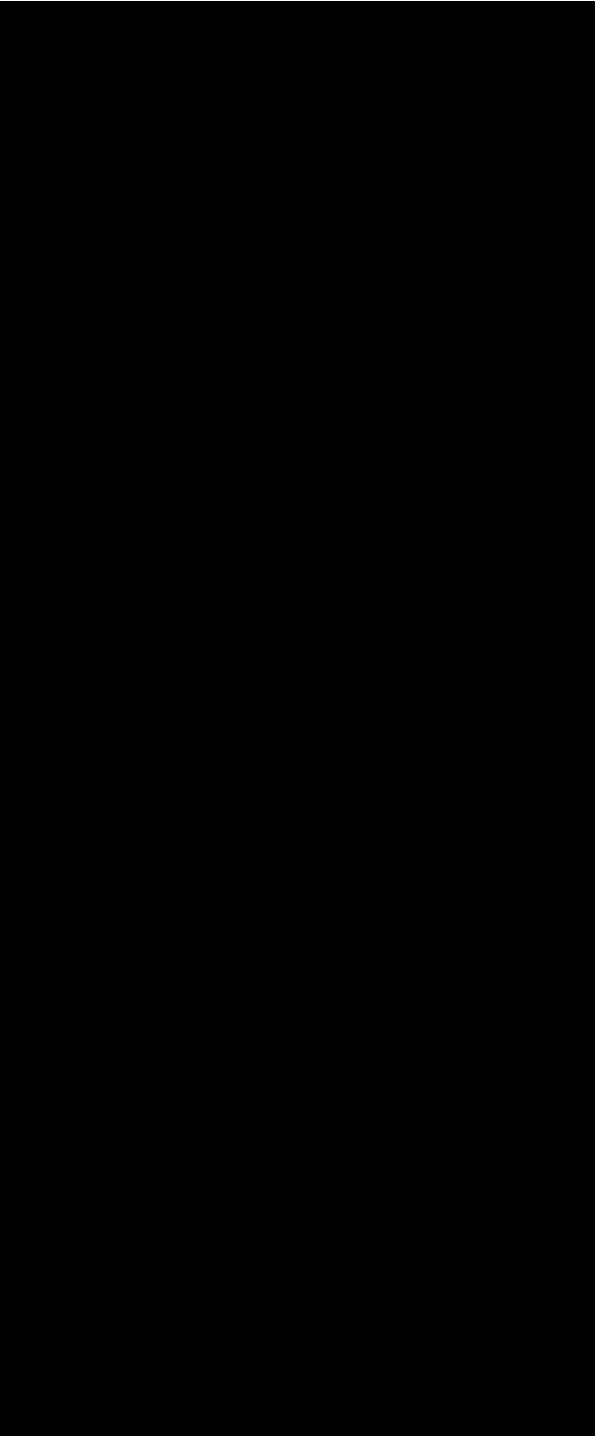

ArculariusX

Watch on

Alan Watt Lies, Threats and Plagiarism

VerseByVerseBT

Watch on

Alan_Watt_CTTM_LIVEonRBN_215_USA_and_the_Kiss_of_Death_Dec152008

Full Episode (erased from the web but we could trace it on RBN dusty server in the basement...) 54 minutes

Alan_Watt_CTTM_LIVEonRBN_215_USA_and_the_Kiss_of_Death_Dec152008

The file posted by CTTM was about six minutes shorter – 45 minutes

All right, I'm joined here with Andre from the Outlaw Forum.
Andre is the founder of the Outlaw Forum, and involved in several controversies now.
I think we've had our agreements and disagreements in the past, but this is a really interesting situation here.
Andre, you wrote on the internet, and this is a really interesting situation here.
Andre, you wrote an article about Alan Watt.

I know that your forum has been known for a long time, but for the support of Alan Watt.
So it was a very interesting article to come from your pen or keyboard, whatever.
So I just kind of wanted to see where you are coming from, if you want to just kind of take us all from the beginning and see what the deal is here.
Yes. Hello, Chris.
I have been looking at this information, this so-called truth movement, for a pretty long time now.

I have been through all the different big characters that we all know who are presenting this information with various spins on it.

And I got to the point where I was very disillusioned, and it was really just felt like these people were not really going anywhere, not moving the information, just kind of keeping us neutralized.

Anybody who is beginning to wake up to this information is being neutralized by these people who have been set up as our leaders.

I came across Alan Watt a couple years ago, and he seemed to be much more genuine and real. At that time, not on a network, he had done some short-wave broadcast with a woman named Jackie Petru.

I really liked the guy. He was presenting information that I had never been exposed to before, citing sources that I began reading some of these books.

Nobody else had mentioned these books before that I had ever heard of.

Many books by people like Bertrand Russell and H.G. Wells, people who talked about H.G. Wells.

People who were involved in the agenda, obviously people who talked about Carol Quigley.

But I began reading these books, and the information was extremely compelling, and he was offering a sort of new spin on things that I was really able to connect with.

I started my forum after that. I mean, I had my website for a while, but I started my forum after I had begun to get into him.

There was a member, Vic, who, in Victus, was his name.

He was a fan of Tesarian, and then he came on my forum, and I was talking about Alan Watt posting his stuff.

He started listening to Alan, and one day he called in to Alan's show and said the name of my forum, and at that point a lot of people who listened to Alan Watt started showing up.

I think when you type Alan Watt forum into Google, we are still the first result.

So I think people probably found it that way.

It's interesting when in Victus did call, it was edited out of the posting when Alan uploaded this show to his website.

That was initially a little bit confusing to me because I didn't understand why he would be trying to keep people away from my forum.

If he went there, he would see that we were all supporting him. Why would he be against discussion of his material?

Then, as things went on, he started mentioning forums and talking about how forums are all run by government agents.

They are just there to make people fight with each other.

To a certain degree, I don't think all forums are run by government agents, especially not ones that are obviously small.

The thing about causing infighting, when you can't sit down with somebody or even hear their voice over a phone.

Andre and I had a few technical difficulties. We lost the conversation here, I think we lost it a few other times.

He lost his flow, but I think he recovered well.

A member of my forum created this sentientcentinal.com.

Alan Watt's site in Europe is called alanwattcentientcentinal.eu.

Instead of contacting this guy and saying he was uncomfortable with that site name, this guy created as a homage to Alan Watt.

He was 18 years old.

Alan Watt, instead of contacting him and saying I'm uncomfortable with you using this domain name that is similar to mine.

He went on the air and started attacking the guy, saying that he was a government agent trying to pretend to be him and lead people into forums and anti-Semitism.

Which he has since repeatedly slandered me as an anti-Semite.

I don't even really understand what that word means, but it was then clear that he was talking about my forum.

So he was starting with the threats at that point.

He then threatened another member of my forum who created another fan site where he actually was selling t-shirts with Alan Watt's face on him, which was a pretty bad idea.

But again, the guy is a government agent.

He says some comment that the government was monitoring his emails and knew that he was planning to make t-shirts.

So just at that time, the government comes out with a site selling t-shirts.

I don't think he actually believes this.

He's not stupid, but you have something?

Is this when your questions about him began or how did that all start?

Had you already thought about that by this time?

Yeah, I certainly had questions about him.

My questions began, as I say in the article, which is available on my website outlawjournalism.com, that he stated that we should not talk in public and share information with other people because there are spies everywhere.

And if we do, they will come and get us.

He breathes into his listeners this extreme form of paranoia.

And when you're finding out about this information, you are very susceptible to that because this is all very scary what is happening in the world.

And when you have somebody who you view as an authority telling you that if you are speaking out about this, then they're going to come and get you, then you're really unlikely to.

And it became very suspicious to me at that point what exactly this guy was doing.

It was actually even on, when he was on Alex Jones' show, Alex confronted him about that and said, you know, I don't agree with you about this.

And he defended it. He said we shouldn't be talking to people.

So that's also, I mean, we were talking earlier about whether or not the guy is, you know, a government agent or just out to make an easy buck off of vulnerable people.

If he was out for the money, you would think that he would want people to go out and spread the information so he would get more listeners and thus more donations and book sales.

So there's other issues about that and we should go into those here in a little bit, but certainly it really started heating up when Glenn Keely came into the picture.

So describe how that all went down.

Yes, yes.

A caller called into Alan Watts' show on, I believe it was December 15th.

The link is in my article and the video that you made, Chris, has a clip of the clip of the call.

It's still available on the RBN archives, but he edited it out of his own, when he posted the podcast on his own site, the MP3, where a guy calls in and says, who is Glenn Keely?

Alan Watts says, Glenn Keely?

He's a Canadian.

Yep.

So the caller is obviously really nervous.

He states that he's been a fan of Alan's for a long time, but that he's come across his information and he has to ask about it.

And Alan Watts starts trying to intimidate him and he says, it looks like you've gotten all of your work from this guy.

So he edited that out and then somebody came on my forum and posted this reference to this deleted call.

And we looked up Glenn Keely.

He's got about four different websites and he posts regularly in an email group.

And it became very, very painfully clear that Alan Watts had not just borrowed ideas from this guy, but totally plagiarized him.

I mean, this whole thing to do with this coding of language that Alan Watts presents more in his books, his copyrighted, heavily copyrighted books than he does on his radio show.

This entire concept was lifted directly from Glenn Keely's work, as well as the stuff in his books about troglodytes and this homophroditic agenda, ancient genetic engineering, and a whole bunch of other stuff.

So there were actually pictures of the covers.

The covers of Glenn Keely is something he put out called the Keely Paper.

And the covers of the books is all that's available in image form on Keely's site and like three or four of them Alan Watts had photocopied and put in his book.

So this is incredible.

We were presently working on getting the Keely papers.

I personally believe that probably everything in these books was actually photocopied from Keely.

After I put my article out, you came with the clip of Glenn Keely talking to someone.

I mean, I never figured out exactly who that was, but where Glenn Keely explains that Alan Watts would call him up repeatedly and press him for information and that he subscribed to his paper and then it became apparent that Alan Watts had stolen his information and was distributing it for a profit without giving Keely any credit whatsoever and in fact removing the man's name from his radio broadcast.

Well, I spoke to Glenn a few years back in the 90's and I met him once in the 90's one day and I haven't talked to him since.

And I could hear by the way you talk, obviously it sounds like Alan Watts really did riff you off.

Alan Watts called me for weeks on end to pick my brain.

Alan Watts bought a newspaper subscription, read it and copied material from it.

He never, I'm told, gave me any credit for having done the originator of all the ideas.

However, that doesn't matter to me.

I'm not in this for money. He might be in it for money.

And again, you know, people's critiques could say, well, you know, they could share information and Keely said, hey, you know, he was essentially cool with it.

He said he's not in it to make money.

So, but then you do have the issue of, as you said, removing the caller's thing, but also clearly in that clip with the caller, he says that, oh, well, I met Glenn Keely, you know, once in the 90's one day.

He says one day and they never spoke to him again.

I mean, that's what he says in that clip.

There's all that information that, yes, he met him once one day in the 90's, never spoke to him again.

So, you have that issue there and obviously there's an effort to cover it up to some degree.

So, yeah, go ahead.

Yeah, so he's lying about it, whatever the case, even if he was given permission to use this work, which though Glenn Keely said, you know, he wasn't going to sue him about it, or he wasn't upset about it even.

He certainly didn't say that he gave him all this information for the purpose of Alan Watt putting it into books and selling it for an outrageous amount of money.

I mean, these books are like 30 pages long and he sells them for like $30 each.

So, and let me be clear too, as you asked about that clip, I want to just tell people how that clip came to my knowledge.

It was an interesting thing on Skype, which is like an instant messaging and what we're talking on right now.

There is a guy that has been actually asking to talk with me on Skype and, you know, we just never have been able to connect, you know, times and everything wasn't working out, but he's just a guy that's, you know, looking for the truth about everything.

And so he IMS me and says, have I heard of Glenn Keely?

He had apparently heard your interview with, I guess, on another show or something like that.

And so he knew to be asking about Alan Watt and stuff.

And he went, found Keely's site, actually got, talked to Keely, had an hour conversation with him and asked him those questions and Keely flat out said that quote.

So that literally just came out of nowhere as far as confirmation, which is something that I was hoping for because, you know, until, you know, either Alan addressed the issue or, you know, we had some kind of information from Keely.

I didn't really feel all that great about doing it.

But with that, it's like, okay, some something's real fishy here.

It was divine providence.

It was.

It was.

So go ahead and continue.

Yes.

So after, before I wrote the article, after I started talking about these issues on my forum, you know, Alan went on his show and began making more threats.

It was extremely predictable that he would, that he would play it like this.

It's, it just seems to be in his nature.

So he went on his show on RBN and said, called me Andrew, which is the name of my birth certificate.

I've never been called that.

My name's Andre.

I don't know why I guess it's short for Andrew.

I never really understood it.

But he's acting, you know, it's by saying my name Andrew that is on, you know, all my driver's license on my birth certificate that he's able to somehow get background information on people.

But, but he says, he says that this, that my forum is run by government agents in an experiment running some type of experiment to try and destroy him and discredit him.

And that we are making death threats against him.

He says that, that we are making death threats threatening to kill him and his dog.

He says that I am leading a mob trying to kill him and his dog.

I mean, it's totally insane.

It makes absolutely no sense.

He then is attempting to silence me by doing that.

I mean, apparently.

And he says that the cops are on my forum that he's called the cops because I'm, I'm leading a mob and the cops will soon be coming for me or something.

It makes absolutely no sense.

If someone is threatening his life, he needs to through emails apparently because we're not doing it on the forum.

If someone is sending him emails saying I'm a member of outlaw forum and I'm going to kill you and your dog, then he needs to instead of going on his air threatening people, going on the air threatening people.

He needs to forward the emails to the authorities who can deal with whoever is making these threats in a proper manner.

Clearly, if this is, and it very much looks like it is a job of some, some very serious, you know, plagiarism stuff.

I mean, that's really his only option is to go on the offensive.

Yes.

Yes.

This is this is what he has done attacking me and apparently trying to make people afraid of the forum.

You know, and then I've seen all these people after I wrote the I wrote the article in response to this because I don't know.

Apparently he got a pretty shoddy psychological profile on me, but you know, I'm not intimidated by by bizarre threats of sickening the cops on me or, you know, whatever he's going to send quote friends to my house.

I'm, you know, that just tends to make me angry rather than scared.

Well, there's so much stuff to talk about here, especially kind of the things that have been developing later.

You know, I just the cuff here one of the things that really got me was at the end of that clip and, you know, of the of the video when he's talking about, you know, this is why the elites are justified in in what they do, you know, it's like this is why it's coming is because some amongst you are, you know, whatever, you know, whatever he said, but it was like such a elitist thing to say.

I was like, whoa.

Obviously, he clearly despises his own listeners, which is totally bizarre.

I mean, just like when when we were when we were supporting him, everybody on my forum was supporting him and instead of, you know, just even instead of ignoring us if it bothered him that we were supporting.

I mean, he started making threats.

I mean, it's just well, let's talk about some of these other other things here.

I don't know.

Could you just break down some of the issues that I don't know, I had issues with different etymology things and like things like that.

Is there any other things that over the years have struck you as interesting?

I know there's kind of like this weird hypnotic thing that goes on, but I've definitely talked to a lot of people that have been, you know, really, really taken in by the guy.

And it's almost like anything else.

I mean, it just seems like it's it's calculated to some degree that could be just, you know, just riffing there.

But any thoughts on all that?

Yeah, it's like a cult.

It's what's called an audience cult.

I mean, he he draws listeners in.

And I believe he is using some type of NLP.

Some I mean, hypnotic speeches is monotone voice droning.

I mean, it does put you into almost a trance state.

And he repeats the same things over and over and over again.

And his main premise is that we are so far gone that there is absolutely nothing we can do to stop this.

He avoids also any any discussion of any type of human spirituality, which I don't I don't prescribe to any any religion per se.

But I do believe personally, it is my belief that the only way we as a people as as humanity are going to be able to oppose what is happening right now is through some type of some type of spiritual spirituality, some type of force that resides inside of us.

And I just don't.

I don't think that when you leave that out and just drone on and on and on about how hopeless everything is and how we have no chance and we're all going to die and they're going to put us, I mean, clearly, that could have a definite reason for that that part of the agenda, just to kind of put everybody to sleep.

I mean, it definitely has its use in that regard.

I tend to think, you know, there does seem to be a calculated effort against a, you know, a particular type, a particular religion, namely Christianity.

It's the common denominator that I've, and I'm sure you've noticed with all the all the gurus out there, you know, they will concede literally every conspiracy in the book, but that's the one that they all trip over themselves with different, you know, non matching up lies about, you know, you know, this one guy.

So it's always been a red flag to me.

Obviously, I've got my opinions about that.

Any, any comment?

Well, you know, I might differ with you a little bit on the subject itself, but I would agree that by trying to take away people's religion, you are, whether it's, whether it's all necessarily true or not, you are, you are disabling people.

And I think that is, is purposeful what he is doing and trying to spreading this hopelessness and disabling people by, by taking away, you know, something that is kind of the last thing a lot of people have left, which is holding on to God.

What about Jackie Petru?

What's up with that?

Yeah, I mean, actually, the last time, and you can get these shows, the last shows that I went and did with Jackie Petru in 2006, you can get them on his website.

The reason that she stopped doing the show with him was because he refused to go into anything about human spirituality.

I mean, I believe she was a Christian when she first started talking to him, and he had kind of led her away from that.

And then he said, he kept making these hints about the true spiritual nature of people, but wouldn't go into any kind of detail.

And one would just say that, you know, we're, we're, he would talk about this thing called calling the spirit to you, and, and that you won't be able to survive in the afterlife unless you can call the spirit to you.

It's kind of an ancient, a cultic thing that he was talking about.

It comes from Egyptian mysticism.

It's interesting, for sure.

But one thing about...

He doesn't talk about that stuff anymore, though, which is interesting as well.

He talked about it on Jackie Petru's show, which is available on his website, I think for a reason, but he no longer discusses even that kind of spirituality.

I feel like he gets himself in a lot of trouble, possibly by saying things and then having to kind of deal with them later.

For instance, the red ice thing, I think was just a big mistake, you know, for him, he probably said something and then had to kind of really, you know, make a lot of people mad because he said something he didn't expect to get caught on.

Could you go through what happened with the red ice falling out and all that stuff?

Yeah, his claim is that red ice took him off the show because he refused to talk about aliens.

Heinrich and Frederick's version of the story is a little bit different.

I don't know about that situation. I mean, there seem to be some nefarious dealings on the red ice side as well.

Sure. I guess the interesting thing to me on that is that if...

And obviously, a lot of people notice this, and I'm sure you do as well, maybe you could back me up here, is that there is a difference between what Alan Watt seems to be saying and what's in his books.

I mean, they're obviously connected to a large degree, but they are clearly, you know, there's some disconnect there, some things that aren't...

Yeah, not to a very large degree where they connected. I mean, it's completely separate material.

He mentions little bits about this kind of word magic in his talks, but I don't even know if he knows what's in the books.

He might have just photocopied it from Keely's stuff without even reading it.

I mean, that's the thing about Keely, though, is that let's talk a little bit about Keely. What's your opinions on the guy?

Oh, I think he's great. I don't know. I think it's just incredibly interesting material that he's presenting. I don't know that I would say there's maybe very much truth in it. I have no idea, honestly, but it's very intriguing.

It's a little bit like science fiction, I would say. It's fascinating.

But it's stuff that is just bizarre. I mean, he's talking about these mutant people from the ancient days that are pale skin.

They're called troglodytes, which I believe are mentioned by Josephus as well as somewhere in the Old Testament.

And he's talking about these people live inside the Earth and that he talks about they're causing global warming through his machines inside the Earth.

And that they've kind of existed all throughout time. And he talks about the genetic engine.

And he does believe in evolution that humans develop naturally into homo-habilis.

I forget how you say that word. Something like a Neanderthal man, and then they were genetically engineered into modern man by troglodytes.

Well, let's think of this. Okay, now, troglodytes is one of the major things that Alan White apparently lifted wholesale from Keely's book.

At least from what we know, I mean, Keely does have the covers of his Keely papers on there.

And obviously, it's the exact same photocopy of that in Alan's book.

So Alan is talking about troglodytes, yet he is saying that's why I mentioned the red-eyes thing is to say that, oh, well, red-eyes wouldn't have him because, you know, he was talking about, you know, wouldn't talk about aliens.

Yeah, he'll talk about, oh, oh, did you mean troglodytes? Yeah. Oh, yeah. Oh, yeah, we're totally in agreement here then.

Well, I just call them troglodytes. You know, red-eyes lets anybody with a crazy theory on the show, you know, I mean, what would different would it be to put troglodytes on there?

But, I mean, and just on that, you mentioned the thing about Josephus, I did check that out.

It seemed like Josephus was talking about a place, and I couldn't find it in the Old Testament, just, you know, we might disagree on that, but just quick word search.

Yeah, they might call them something different in the newer versions, but I believe it is in the King James version and one of the, like, the Tanakh, the first five books there.

Well, check it out, but just for the record, Josephus did refer to it as a place rather than a people.
Okay, so that's...

There is mythology in other religions about...
I'm sure there is.

But I don't know if anybody would be talking about it if it wasn't for Glenn Keely.
Well, the deal with Keely, and this is, you know, my opinion, is that, like you said, it is kind of science fiction, and that's because there's a lot of stuff in there that's like, obviously, like, oh, yeah, that's not true.

But, you know, the guy had a printing press, and he has got some opinions, and that's kind of what happened, I think.
It's incredibly fascinating material.
I mean, I encourage anybody to go on there and on his sites, which are linked in my article, and check it out.
I mean, I would be very cautious, and, you know, anybody...
Because he's talking about the day Iraq war, the U.S. military is trying to save us from the troglodytes.
I mean, it's really out there stuff, but...
But, so where are we at now?
And with all this stuff, there's been some recent things, but definitely Alan has not taken any calls in the last...
Yes, that's key here.
Alan has not taken calls since I said on my forum that people should call in and ask him about Keely because he was clearly being deceitful.
And I believe that's what he meant when he said that I was leading a campaign to harass him, even though he implied to his listeners that this so-called harassment campaign had something to do with death threats.
But people apparently just believe everything he says.
Like I say, it's like a cult because he does give so much compelling information, so much more than anybody else, even though he repeats himself a lot, which I don't really understand the purpose of, he refers you to things, and you can just get in this mindset where it's like, well, if he says it, it must be true.

And so I think that's where people are going with the death threat thing, and it just gets to the point where it's impossible to question anything he says.

So, I mean, these people are going along with it, even though to an outsider it just looks completely bizarre and kind of insane that you, you know, based on the information that I have compiled that you would continue to say there's absolutely no question about this man.

In this kind of theology that this, I mean, they're waddists.

I mean, it is like a new religious movement.

Anybody who questions the leader is then working for the government trying to destroy him.

I mean, there's one member on my forum who, people keep sending me links of everywhere he is on the internet defending this guy.

I mean, he goes all over the internet and defends him and also tries to sell his books and MP3 CDs and DVDs and encourages people to donate to him.

So, I mean, it's like a, it's like a religious movement.

It's incredibly bizarre.

Do you think it's possible that he is actually a member of a secret society like the, some version of Masons or anything like that?

Is there any indication of that?

I mean, just from your opinion.

I have no evidence to support that.

I mean, I would think he would be, but I mean, I don't have any.

Do you think that his knowledge of that is, I mean, obviously he's got a lot of knowledge.

Extraordinary?

Extraordinary, yes.

Yeah, I think so.

Well, I mean, obviously none of us have any information to that, but that's just always kind of what I, what I figured is kind of like Cooper would say of that, you know, trying to get, you know, advanced to your degree.

You have to do some work for the, you know, system or whatever, but I don't know.

Yeah, about, about Bill Cooper, Alan Watt claims, made the claim on his show.

And this is where we lost the call for the last time and was not able to record anymore.

But the, I think he said he made the claim that Bill Cooper, I think, invited him to his ranch the week after or something.

He was killed or something, but, and it was a good thing he didn't go or something like that.

So I don't know.

Kind of hard to prove at this point, I suppose.

So I'll put links to this information in the show notes section, which is at NowhereToRunRadio.com or NowhereToRun.Potematic.com.

And I'll put the link to the video, put the link to Andre's article, put the link to any other information that might be of use there.

I think that's it.

Alright, thanks for your time. Good night.

Even though CTTM took down all websites, including the internet archive, meaning the history of the site was also scrubbed on the internet archive, so it must have been something legal.

We managed to trace or put back all puzzle pieces

With some effort we found the original post , which was tedious and very complicated, AI could not do it , so I had to do it myself. Also we found the original , non edited, podcast of Alan Watt on the archive of RBN republican broadcasting network. CTTM edited the file so it was never published officially.

And yes , if you look in the material from Glenn Kealey from Canada, you can clearly see it has all been copy pasted into Alan Watt's eh " books" if you can call them that.

Big question would be , why did Alan do that, knowing sooner or later someone would find out ? And than go into damage control and takes down his own fans forum ??

Things that should make you go hmm....

But we do not censor so you have to make up your own mind...

NTR – Alan Wattergate

original uncensored broadcast from RBN archives – publicly available.

Server Provenance Addendum – Republic Broadcasting Network (RBN) Archive (2008)

Observed: 29 October 2025

Server Header: Apache/2.2.3 (CentOS) Server at 216.240.133.177 Port 80

Directory: <http://216.240.133.177/archives32/Watt/2008/>

you have to access it through the internet archive...

<https://web.archive.org/web/20230105020345/http://216.240.133.177/archives32/Watt/2008/>

Structure:

- [DIR] 02/
- [DIR] 03/
- [DIR] 04/
- [DIR] 05/
- [DIR] 06/
- [DIR] 07/
- [DIR] 08/
- [DIR] 09/
- [DIR] 10/
- [DIR] 11/
- [DIR] 12/

Example File Identified:

Watt_1_121508_190000.mp3 – 14,124,826 bytes
(Alan Watt – “The Kiss of Death,” unedited RBN broadcast, 15 Dec 2008, ~50:14)

Index of /archives32/Watt/2008/12

Name	Last modified	Size	Description
-------------	----------------------	-------------	--------------------

Parent Directory

–

Watt_1_120108_190000.mp3	29-Mar-2009 10:10	13M
Watt_1_120208_190000.mp3	29-Mar-2009 10:10	13M
Watt_1_120308_190000.mp3	29-Mar-2009 10:10	13M
Watt_1_120408_190000.mp3	29-Mar-2009 10:11	13M
Watt_1_120508_190000.mp3	29-Mar-2009 10:11	13M
Watt_1_120808_190000.mp3	29-Mar-2009 10:11	13M
Watt_1_120908_190000.mp3	29-Mar-2009 10:11	13M
Watt_1_121008_190000.mp3	29-Mar-2009 10:12	13M
Watt_1_121108_190000.mp3	29-Mar-2009 10:12	13M
Watt_1_121208_190000.mp3	29-Mar-2009 10:12	13M
Watt_1_121508_190000.mp3	29-Mar-2009 10:12	13M
Watt_1_121608_190000.mp3	29-Mar-2009 10:12	13M
Watt_1_121708_190000.mp3	29-Mar-2009 10:13	13M
Watt_1_121808_190000.mp3	29-Mar-2009 10:13	13M
Watt_1_121908_190000.mp3	29-Mar-2009 10:13	13M

Watt_1_122208_190000.mp3	29-Mar-2009 10:13	13M
Watt_1_122308_190000.mp3	29-Mar-2009 10:13	13M
Watt_1_122408_190000.mp3	29-Mar-2009 10:13	13M
Watt_1_122508_190000.mp3	29-Mar-2009 10:13	13M
Watt_1_122608_190000.mp3	29-Mar-2009 10:14	13M
Watt_1_122908_190000.mp3	29-Mar-2009 10:14	13M
Watt_1_123008_190000.mp3	29-Mar-2009 10:14	13M
Watt_1_123108_190000.mp3	29-Mar-2009 10:14	13M

Apache/2.2.3 (CentOS) Server at 216.240.133.177 Port 80

Summary:

This directory represents a legacy RBN CentOS audio archive hosting Alan Watt’s 2008 broadcasts. The filename and timestamp correspond to the verified unedited show recovered locally. The listing structure and server header corroborate the broadcast’s original server environment and archival lineage.

Preservation Note:

Retaining the directory header, the observed filename, file size, and access timestamp is sufficient to document the provenance of the recovered RBN audio file without requiring mass download of the archive. This note is intended to be attached as an archival addendum to the existing metadata record for Watt_1_121508_190000.mp3.

Accessed by: [User archive project]

Access date: 29 October 2025

Of course, it stands to reason, after alan felt the heat he came down on the sites and also edited the transcript of that broadcast.

If anyone looks into the work of Glen Kealey you can clearly, without any doubt, see all has been grabbed from Glen and put in Alan s " books" maybe we should call them the Kealey books ? As it is literally Glen's work , not Alan's , that is a fact, not a conspiracy theory.

- Home
- About
- Resources

January 11, 2009

[Alan Watt: Threats, Lies and Plagiarism \[copied article\]](#)

Posted by : Neo

Filed under : Critical Thinking, Resources, Site News

Update: Here is evidence that Alan Watt did in fact steal Glen Kealey's work. Now play this video to see Alan caught lying.

A few plagiarized pages in the book Cutting Through:

<http://www.neogt.com/images/etc/scan0001.jpg>

<http://www.neogt.com/images/etc/scan0002.jpg>

<http://www.neogt.com/images/etc/scan0003.jpg>

[Below] This post is a copy of an article on Outlawjournalism.com.

For several months Alan Watt has been making threats against members of my forum, and on January 6th, he named me personally, and said he would be sending the cops after me. He has continually lied and distorted reality, and after recently having been exposed for plagiarizing the work of a man named Glen Kealey, he reaching into new depths of bizarre desperation, claiming that I am the leader of a mob that is threatening his life and that of his dog, and that the cops are coming for me. It is time I told my side of this story.

I have been a part of the Truth Movement for going on six years. I have spent an incredible amount of time listening to radio shows and reading websites, checking out all of the different “leaders” of the movement. Eventually, I began to feel as if all of these people were mixing fact with fiction and simply going around in circles, without getting to the real heart of the matter, or offering any type of solutions to the incredible problems our species is facing.

A couple years ago, I discovered Alan Watt. I found that he was delving much deeper into the true history and nature of this conspiracy than all of the rest of the industry moguls. He seemed to make things exciting again, referring me to books and areas of research that I had hitherto been unaware of. At that time he was not yet on RBN, and had the feel of a genuine truth teller, with a level of integrity uncommon in this business. I particularly enjoyed the old recordings of the shows he had done with Jackie Patru. He appeared to be going after the straight truth, without falling into the traps that the rest of the individuals discussing these subjects seem to inevitably get caught in. He presented himself as a rebel, living in the woods like a hermit on very modest means, simply trying to get the word out, to give humanity one last chance to save itself before it was too late. I believed it.

He seemed to be speaking directly to me, saying everything I had always known in my gut to be true. He said that this entire system that we call “civilization” is a scam, run by psychopathic elite occultists. He talked about the true nature of man, and that every aspect of it is exploited by this system in a scientific fashion.

When I decided to put a forum on my site, people who listened to Alan began to quickly gather at newly created Outlaw Forum to discuss the various subjects and ideas presented on Alan's show. It soon became clear that Alan was not happy about this at all. At first he made vague references to forums in general, discouraging people from visiting them at all, claiming that they were all run by government agents for the purpose of spreading disinformation. He slowly stepped up his attacks, narrowing in on Outlaw Forum, without ever naming it outright. These attacks soon became threats.

I can now see that Watt was, from the beginning, afraid that if listeners of his show were to get together and discuss his work, he would lose his control over them. They would begin to ask each other questions which Alan did not want asked, and eventually they would dig up his secrets and lies, and put them up for all the world to see.

Over the last few months, while attempting to stifle the free communication between his listeners, Alan has exposed his true self, and the little voice in the back of my head telling me that Alan was not what he claimed slowly began to rise in pitch. It was already screaming on the night of January 6th, when Alan Watt identified me by name on his RBN broadcast, and told me that the cops would be coming for me because I had dared to question his authenticity.

"I am Perfectly Genuine, I Assure You"

Certain things about Alan have always made me uncomfortable. For one, he is probably one of the most negative people I have ever been exposed to. He directly implies that everything is fake and evil, and he paints the picture that we have absolutely no chance of overcoming this horror that is upon us, and that there really isn't anything about humanity worth saving anyway. I understand that things are nearly as bad as he implies, at least in the Western World, but my personal belief is that we as humans exist for a reason, and that we are experiencing this evil for a reason. I believe there is meaning in our suffering, and meaning in the struggle to overcome evil. God or the Universe would not allow us to be born into such a situation as this, without giving us a shot at redemption. He always seemed to leave this bit out of his presentation.

Tying into this, he also totally avoided the subject of human spirituality. He would acknowledge that there is more to the universe than the physical, but claimed that all religions were created by the elite to control us, and that all other forms of spirituality were “New Age”. Organized religion has certainly always been a control mechanism, and the New Age, with all of it’s cults, channeling rituals and “quantum physics means you create your own reality” mumbo-jumbo is not any better, but this is hardly a reason for a person not to seek spiritual enlightenment. I cannot say for certain that it was his intent, but the longer I listened to his show, the more I felt as if the show would likely draw one away from his own quest for the spiritual realm, pushing them instead towards a state of hopelessness. I fear that Alan could likely have this effect on anyone who put too much weight on the man’s projected impressions of the human experience.

It also appeared inconsistent that while supposedly encouraging people to be “free thinkers” and “individuals”, he would simply not allow anyone to disagree with him, even if they attempted to do so politely. If a caller phoned into his show presenting a view of the world variant from his own, he was simply told he was wrong, if not lambasted and cut-off. It was basically, “you are free to think whatever I tell you to think”.

I also always had the strange feeling that he was using some type of hypnotic technique, such as NLP, with the tone of his voice and the arrangement of his words. Though I could not ever really put my finger on it, I found the idea troubling.

“Your Love Won’t Pay My Bills”

By far the most contemptible aspect of his persona was his obsession with the copyright of his books. He would regularly launch into long rants about how people were giving away his .pdf files, playing the victim, crying about how hard his life is and how he has no money. On one show I can recall, he said 4 times that he could not afford an iPod. He would also beg shamelessly for donations, and use intense guilt tactics on anyone who was listening without paying their dues.

Why, I wondered, should a person claiming to be against the system of money be so obsessed with it? And why was he the only person in this movement not offering all of his material for free? His answer to the latter question was of course that everyone but him is a government funded propagandist.

I understand that we live in this system, and everyone needs money, but things are tough all over. I work 50 hours a week in a warehouse, and still cannot afford my own domicile. I spend whatever free time I have trying to aid the fight. Alan's excuse for why he could not bring in some sort of income, like all of the rest of us do, outside of his work doing a one hour radio show three times a week, was absolutely ludicrous. He claimed it took all day to cook his meals and after doing the show from 7:00-8:00 pm, it took him until 3:00 am to upload the .mp3 file to his website. More recently he has said that he spends his entire day scouring the Internet for people who are violating his copyright.

Though this and several other doubts lingered in my mind, I was able to push it aside, as the information he was presenting was just so compelling.

"Keep This to Yourself, There are Spies Everywhere"

My first major clue as to Alan's true nature came about 8 months ago when Alan stated several times that we should not talk to the people around us, because there are spies everywhere and we will be put in prison. This is totally ridiculous on a multitude of different levels. Yes, there may be "agents" who hang out in public places listen to people's conversations; I doubt they are "everywhere", as Alan claims, but for the sake of argument, let's suppose they are. How would speaking in public make any difference at all? They already monitor everyone's web usage, and have made lists of anyone who researches these subjects. We have nothing to lose anyway, as if we don't stop this now, all of our lives are going to be a living hell, and most of us will probably end up dead.

There is absolutely no reason why we should not all be trying to wake up as many people as we possibly can before this thing comes down in full. Alex Jones even confronted him about this when Alan was a guest on his show, and Alan's response was something like "people should not speak to others in their own area, but go to a different town where people don't know who you are and talk to people there". Whatever that means.

Upon hearing this, it hit me hard that Alan Watt was playing on paranoia in order to discourage truth seekers from exercising the one freedom we have left to do the one thing that may be able to save us; he was telling us not to attempt to wake others up.

Then the threats began.

“I’ll Make You Regret This”

The first threat against a member of my forum came in the Fall of 2008, after a forum poster going by the handle “Neo” created a site called “sentientsentinel.com”, in homage to Alan Watt, who’s European site is at “alanwattsentientsentinel.eu”. I told Neo that this was probably not a great idea, as the domain name was too similar to Watt’s. To make sure that readers would not get confused into thinking that this site was an official site of Alan Watt, he put a statement across of the top of the page stating that fact.

On October 1st, Alan became aware of the webpage. Instead of contacting the admin of the site and voicing his concerns, as any mature adult would be prone to do, he opted instead to go on the air on his RBN broadcast attacking and threatening the site (.mp3 link here, the threats are at 1:30 – 4:00 into it, then from 5:50 – 8:00). He first claimed that it was created by government agents pretending to be him, to try and trick people and “lead them into forums”. He mixed his attacks on Neo with attacks on people who are supposedly violating his copyright, saying that he has “friends all over”, and would be “sending people to see [the people who have ‘done the dirty’ on him] and make them regret it”.

This seems to have clearly been a thinly veiled threat of violence. One member of Outlaw Forum, who is an obsessive follower of Watt, said that this in no way implied violence, but he was unable to come up with any example of a possible alternate meaning. “Sending people to see you” is generally understood as a classic mafioso style threat of physical harm, and I find it impossible to believe Watt doesn’t know this.

A couple days later, again talking both about “the one pretending to be him”, along with unknown individuals who he claims are distributing .pdf files of his copyrighted material, he reiterated the threat of harassment by his “friends” who are “all over the world”, saying “I will come down hard on you” (.mp3 link here, with the relevant statements at 1:50 – 5:00; transcript here). On the 6th of October he again attacks Neo’s site, and referring to the link on that site to outlawjournalism.com, he says that the site is steering people into “antisemitism” (.mp3 link is here, attacks are at 1:40 – 3:40, transcript here). Also worthy of note, the week before, when talking about the violators of his copyright, he said he had satellite pictures of a man named Alphonso’s home in Toledo, Ohio and that he better take the .pdf files down and send him money, or suffer some consequence (.mp3 link here, the threats are at 1:30 – 2:20).

The kicker is that he was implying that these people are government agents out to destroy him, and then threatening them. This is blatant double-speak. If they are government agents, why would he be threatening them?

You can make of this what you wish. It is within the realm of possibility that these “friends” he spoke of would do something other than beat up the accused, threaten their children, rape their wives, vandalize or burn down their homes, etc., though these are the images that immediately came to my mind upon hearing the threat. It is almost certain that whatever it was he was implying, these threats were a bluff, intended to intimidate the supposed offenders. If he was actually planning on sending thugs to someone’s house, he would not say it over the air. Alan is many things, but he is not stupid.

Whatever his intent was, I think it would be extremely difficult to argue that administering any manner of threat like this over the air to anyone, let alone to a fan of yours who you have not even attempted to contact privately, is the behavior of a normal, decent human being. These actions are more akin to the that of a deranged control freak who, unable to deal with his own frustration, launches into childlike tantrums whenever someone does something he doesn’t like. It is certainly not the behavior of a saint who would exile himself into obscurity, simply for the sake of trying to save humanity.

It was incredibly disillusioning to hear these threats from a man I had held in such high regard. Eventually, I swallowed my pride and admitted to myself that I had been duped. Alan was not the person of integrity that I had believed he was. Though he was presenting a different level of information than the rest of the “leaders”, he was in fact more disreputable than even the most shameless of the entire rouge’s gallery of profiteering conmen operating in this business.

The pieces began to fit into place in my mind. I realized he was not only not a hero, but in fact someone who likely had a diabolical agenda to push. Though I voiced my concerns about his threats on my forum, I did not state outright my rapidly intensifying suspicions about his real motives. I still held onto the hope that maybe he was just a frustrated old man who didn’t have a full understanding of the nature of the Internet, and I didn’t want to go public with my suspicions until I knew for sure.

Things only got worse.

“My Face is Copyrighted”

The next incident came when another of Alan's listeners, a regular poster at Outlaw Forum who goes by the handle "ColossusOfDestiny", created a domain called "alanwattfans.com". On this site he had links to Alan's podcasts, and was selling t-shirts and coffee mugs with Alan's face on them. He stated that he would be donating a portion of the proceeds of the sales to Alan Watt.

When he posted the link on the forum, I and the rest of the regular posters told him that this was a terrible idea, and that he could expect to be threatened on air. No more than 18 hours later, Alan went on his show and threatened to sue the creator of this site, claiming that his face was copyrighted (.mp3 is here, with the relevant statements and threats at 2:00 – 16:00). He again tied this in with the real or unreal people he claims are distributing his .pdf files. He claimed that one of the people who was distributing his copyrighted files was in trouble with the police, and the rest would soon be joining him. All of the nonsense he goes on about it presented in this particular self righteous, self-pitying rant, and one can clearly see the disgust he has for his own listeners. He also mentions Outlaw Forum, calling us psychopaths, and compares us to the Rothschilds and the Freemasons.

He once again called the person who created the site a government agent trying to destroy him, before threatening him.

I want to make it clear that selling the t-shirts and coffee mugs was a horrible idea, and I am not defending this. The fact is that it would be plain to anyone who came across that site that this was just a young guy, who was inspired by Alan's message, and was doing the best he could to spread the word.

Again, I know the man who made the site, and I know that just as with Neo, he would have taken it down immediately if Alan had simply emailed him and let him know he was uncomfortable with it. There was absolutely no reason, and no excuse, for more threats. It is the behavior of a spoiled child.

The fact that he responded so quickly was proof that he was now a regular lurker on Outlaw Forum. He was no doubt aware of the poor reception his "people are coming to get you" threats had received, and this time instead chose to threaten a lawsuit. The lawsuit was course a bluff, just as the apparent threats of violence were. If Alan does not have the money to fix his broken chainsaw, as he has claimed, he certainly doesn't have the tens of thousands of dollars it would take to launch an international Internet copyright infringement lawsuit.

At this point suspicions were mounting, not only on Outlaw Forum, but across the board. The events that followed caused all former followers of Watt who I have had contact with, save one religious devotee, to lose any remaining faith.

“Yes, I met Glen Kealey Once, Back in the 90’s”

The final proverbial nail in Watt’s coffin was quite fittingly bizarre in the extreme. On December 15th, “Warren in North Carolina” called into Watt’s show and asked if he knew a man named Glen Kealey. Watt said he did, that he had met him in the 90’s. The caller then told Watt that his material was clearly ripped off of Kealey’s work, and was promptly cut off. When Alan posted the podcast of the show on his website, he removed the caller who had called in questioning him (here is the show in full from the RBN archives, call at 49:50, and here is the redacted version from Watt’s site). Clearly, he did not want folks knowing about this Kealey person.

A member of Outlaw Forum noticed this strangeness, and we found Kealey’s sites (here, here, and here) and email group. Lo and behold, it seems that the majority of Watt’s “esoteric” knowledge has been directly lifted from this man’s work. All of “Watt’s” theories about the phonetic coding of language, the historical existence of genetic engineering, the hermaphroditic agenda, the troglodytes, etc., were directly taken from Kealey, without ever mentioning the man’s name.

What’s more, entire pages in Watt’s heavily copyrighted .pdf files appear to have been photocopied strait from The Kealey Paper. Images and entire pages of text are identical. In case you are wondering, the copyright on Kealey’s work is much older than the one on Watt’s. I am certain that Alan would have declared to the caller that Kealey ripped him off, as he claims that David Locke did, if there was any way he could make that seem plausible.

I do not yet have copies of The Kealey Papers, but I would not be surprised if the entirety of Watt’s three books was copied directly from them. One can go onto Kealey’s webpage and see images from the covers of the Papers which Watt has used in his books (example at the head of this article), and if you read through some of Kealey’s web posts, you can see clearly that Watt plagiarized his material extensively, giving him absolutely no credit. He even deleted the man’s name from his show, denying him as Peter denied Christ.

At this point, after all of the shattered trust and broken pride, there was nothing else I could do but laugh. I laughed long and hard. The “copyrighted files”, which I had spent hours listening to Watt cry his eyes out about, were in fact largely the work of someone else.

We discussed this extensively in a thread on Outlaw Forum. No one could deny it. It was just too blatant what Watt had done. We all knew what was coming next.

“They are Going to Kill Me and My Dog”

The Next round of threats came quickly, clearly in response to our discussion of Kealey. Here is the transcript of Watt’s statements about the Outlaw Forum, made after he discovered that we were discussing his plagiarism (.mp3 link here, statements are at 5:10 – 8:20):

Hi folks, this is Alan Watt and we are cutting through the matrix, and I have been discussing how we have all been brainwashed. The general technique of brainwashing means that the people who have been subjected to it never know it. That is why it is very successful. And we live in a scientifically indoctrinated age. An age where literally the sciences were developed to do with groups and they talk about neuroscience which goes right into genetics by the way, and eugenics, and how we have all been studied; the studies are ongoing. Most of the studies today on people and the groups they will join are done on chatrooms. Many people in the chat rooms don’t know they’re part of the experiments. And they break them down into dyads, subtypes, personality types, and so on, and that’s why it’s so easy for someone who is put in as an agitator to get the mob going against someone else.

These are experiments, and I’ve had a few of these experiments pulled on me, over the years. Always from the same group, from one particular forum. I know every single one of them, and so do the police. Because lately I’ve had threats come from the same group again. This group even had the gall to put up a fake website with my name on it, at one point. And you turn to the first page, the first link took you off to someone, I know his real name; called Andrew, and it was an anti-Semitic rant. So that one was tried on me before.

And now the same character has got the mob all geared up to try and harass me. So I have to warn you, every single one of you, on the website; it is being monitored by the cops. Because you see malicious intent, and threats, are taken seriously. And I take threats against myself and my life and my dog very seriously. So let that be a warning to all of you. In your own states of locked up paranoia.

Now I hate to even go off in that direction but that is what you get when you start to get known. If you are not saying the things they want you to say, or you are not agreeing with their particular spin on something they'll come after you. That's the mob. And most of them are just that as I say: they are the mob. They don't think. And they are easily riled up by someone who knows the techniques. For they are the fronts, they are disposable at the end of the day.

Following his strange method once more, he first claimed that I was some type of agent running some kind of social experiment with my forum, using psychological manipulation methods to rile people up against him, before introducing his most nonsensical threat that thus far.

In an attempt to switch the game up, he claims that we are the ones making the threats, citing this as the reason for his threats against us. This is called "blaming the victim". He says members of Outlaw Forum are threatening to kill him and his dog. He just makes that up, out of nowhere. He says he has contacted the police, and that he knows who everyone on the forum is, and we are all going to be dealt with by the authorities because we are making death threats.

He says that these threats are "coming from members of the forum". I guess rather than saying that we are making threats on the forum, which would be easily disproved by anyone who cared to take a look, he is implying that members of the forum are contacting him privately, identifying themselves as being members of the forum, and then threatening to kill him and his dog. That is what he is saying. Imagine it: "I am a poster at Outlaw Forum and I am going to kill you and your dog".

Let's just suppose that it did happen, exactly like that; someone wrote him an email, identified himself as a member of my forum and then threatened to kill him and his dog. What does this have to do with me or my forum? Why would he not simply forward the email to the proper authorities, and allow them to trace it, and deal with the criminal individual accordingly? Why would there be a need to mention it publicly?

Suppose they had sent him an email saying "I have a membership at the YMCA and I am going to kill you and your dog"; would he then call the cops and insist that they monitor everyone holding a membership at the YMCA, and would the cops go along with this, and spy on all of us, as he is claiming they are doing to the members of Outlaw Forum?

But he certainly couldn't have actually called the cops and said we were making death threats, without any proof, could he? And which "cops" would he call, I wonder, given that we are all living in different states and countries? Would he call all of our local police departments, since he knows who we all are? Maybe he would contact Homeland Security and Interpol? Or possibly the United Nations and NATO?

Or maybe, just maybe, this is another desperate attempt at intimidation from a psychopathic control freak about to totally lose control, physically overwhelmed by the idea that someone can question his lies, and he be able to do absolutely nothing to stop it.

The key here is that he is trying to make people afraid to visit the forum by saying that they will be in trouble with the police if they do. This is a truly pathetic act of total desperation. Every listener to Alan Watt should be deeply offended that this man believes you are stupid enough to believe this craziness he is selling you.

He says "I know his real name, it's Andrew", and Andrew is the name on my birth certificate (though I was only ever called it on the first day of school). His having gathered this "personal" information on me is also clearly meant to intimidate, and prove that he has the ability to find out everything about us, and "make us pay". However, this is not terribly difficult to figure out, and certainly does not prove he has some magical ability to go to a forum and find the personal information of everyone posting there, as he is claiming. I have to say though, the man is creepy. He does have that going for him.

It is also worthy of note that he slanders me with the label of "anti-semite", referring to an article I wrote as an "anti-semitic rant". That article is here, for those interested. Apparently, he believes that "anti-semitism" is a real concept, and that anyone who questions the Jewish religion or the Secular State of Israel should be labeled as such.

He calls me a ringleader of a band of brainwashed followers, riling people up to "harass" him. He is apparently implying to his listeners that this is somehow related to the threats against him and his dog, but what he is actually talking about is me having encouraged people to call in to his show and ask him about Kealey. Ever since I made this suggestion on my forum, he has done shows without taking any calls, something I am not aware of him ever having done before. He has claimed that this is due to some technical problem, but one has to wonder how long he can keep that excuse going. He is going to have to deal with this situation in some way, and it will be interesting to see what he chooses to do.

He is backed up against a wall, because Kealey's site is there for everyone to see, and once a person has seen it, they are not going to really be able to trust Watt ever again, especially given the measures he has taken to cover this whole thing up. It seems he is either going to have to go off the air, as he has been bluffing that he was going to in an attempt to increase his donations, or he is going to have to somehow attempt to address the issue of the plagiarism, by either admitting he was "influenced" by Kealey, or coming up with some sort of cover story, which could involve an elaborate fantasy tale about how Kealey is somehow working for the government as a part of some sort of complex plot to try and destroy him.

Whichever path he chooses, I assure you, these threats are going to keep on coming. Given the fact that he is clearly dredging the depths of total desperation, he may actually try to have me harassed in some way, and is almost certainly already trying to get my site shut down. If my site does happen to go down, or if I turn up missing (I seriously doubt the latter will occur, but given the apparent nature of this man, I have to at least mention the possibility), you will all know what has taken place.

After all of this, there is absolutely no way a person could honestly claim that Alan Watt is simply in this fight to try and help people. His behavior demonstrates that he has a severe personality disorder, which most assuredly prevents him from caring about anything other than himself.

Psychopathy is the only explanation for his behavior, as it would have been most beneficial for him to simply ignore Outlaw Forum altogether. He was unable to do so, due to his ego and the overwhelming need a psychopath has to control everything around him. If he had never begun with the threats, I and the rest of his now former listeners would likely still have respect for him, he would still be able to spread his defeatist message without being questioned, still be able to make a killing off of paypal donations.

He blew the scam himself by being unable to control his own psychopathic instincts. People were able to break away from him and see him for what he truly was, overcoming his lies, only because he was incapable of restraining his own evil nature. I believe that this is analogous of the situation the entire world finds itself in. Eventually, the very nature of the system in which we live will be it's downfall.

We will never know for sure if Alan is some type of government propagandist, giving out extremely large doses of truth tainted with disinformation, confusion and paralyzing hopelessness, or simply a snake oil salesman, making easy money exploiting the vulnerability of people looking for truth in a world of lies. If he is the former, it seems that he is required by his controllers to earn his own keep while working this scam, in order that his ties to the establishment cannot be directly traced. This would explain his obsession with money and copyrights.

I want to state clearly that I have no definitive evidence that Alan is working for anyone, but I personally believe that it is the only logical explanation one could come to given his behavior. If he was simply out for money, he is intelligent enough he could be making a lot more in a lot of different ways.

I hope that this account helps those fans of Alan Watt, many of which were probably confused by his recent behavior, to put things together, and begin to snap out of the haze he has lotted you into. We will each have to break the spell that the “leaders” of this movement have cast on us if we wish stand a real chance at changing the future. We simply cannot afford to let ourselves be diverted by men with agendas that we do not even fully understand. Alan Watt is the final gatekeeper. If we can steer past him, we are in the clear, capable of deciding our own path.

Watt wants us to feel impotent and helpless. The people in power are not infallible, and they are not gods. We, those of us with the intelligence to figure this system out, and the willpower to oppose it, are the most powerful force on the planet. Our biggest threat is not the global banking cartel or the United Nations, but the shill “leaders” in our movement who serve to neutralize us. Free of the psychological and emotional chains they impose upon us, we are unstoppable. God is on our side, and it is we who shall inherit the Earth.

We must tell ourselves everyday that all is not lost. We must cling to the humanity we still have left, and the hope for a world where people can just be people. Yes, civilization is evil, but we are here for a reason, and that is what we should all be searching for. We each have the ability to change the world, simply by the choices we make. The future is still wide open. We are spiritual beings experiencing a physical form, and the battle of the spirit is still one that each of us can win, and together, we can still save the world.

Stay Free

–Andre

This article is not copyrighted, and Andre will not threaten you with violence, lawsuits, or police harassment if you redistribute it. In fact, he encourages you to do so, especially due to the fact that Alan Watt is going to do everything he can to silence him for putting out this information, and it needs to be widely available all over the web, given the outside chance that he may succeed. Andre would like to thank Justin for his help in putting this together.

- Permanent Link
- Comments \(3\)

3 Comments so far ...

1. beatieman

Awwwww, you who censors anything against your way of thinking on your forum are po'd at Watt? How laughable. You and your pals trying to make money off of Watts time consuming search into many a truths. Go see if your University Professors with all their lies will even tell you their lies for free? ???? Get a Grip Guy. You're just upset, Watt had the balls to you call you's out. Why shouldn't he be paid for his talent> What talent do you have? Arguing with your members and censoring their posts? Anyone who's spent time on your forum sees you for who you really are. It's a good thing he doesn't take calls from time wasting dweebs such as yourself, trying to pass yourself off as oh so sweet and innocent. Puuuuleeeze. You are no match for Watt. Watt hit the nail right on the head. Deal with it.

Comment on February 2, 2009 05:34 pm

2. beatieman

Or should I say, Yipppee Ki Ya, Micky Frickey!

Comment on February 2, 2009 05:34 pm

3. Neo

I think you have me confused with someone else. I don't have a forum right now. I used to have a small private forum with only a handful of members. I don't disagree with what Watt has put front. The majority of the information is fact, although the only presumable problems I see is his cynical misconception of the world around him, and the recent news of his plagiarized books.

Yipppppee Ki Ya,
– Micky Frickey (also known as Neo)

=)

Comment on February 2, 2009 07:12 pm

Top of Form

Name : (required)

Mail : (will not be published) (required)

Website : (opitonal)

XHTML: You can use these tags: `` `<abbr title="">` `<acronym title="">` `` `<blockquote cite="">` `<code>` `` `` `` `<q cite="">` `<strike>` ``

Bottom of Form

Top of Form

Search this site :

Bottom of Form

Categories

- Critical Thinking
- Resources
- Site News
- Video

Archives

- January 2009
- December 2008

© 2008 Neo Grand Thinkers

so for those of you who want the Kealey books, not sure if we can call them Alan Watt's books....at this point, you can just download them at Anna's archive....

<https://annas-archive.org/> type in " alan watt" and the books show up and just download them...

Do not worry , you won't " steal bread from his plate " either Alan's or Glen's plate for that matter....

- Home
- About
- Resources

January 11, 2009

Alan Watt: Threats, Lies and Plagiarism [copied article]

Posted by : Neo

Filed under : Critical Thinking, Resources, Site News

Update: Here is evidence that Alan Watt did in fact steal Glen Kealey's work. Now play this video to see Alan caught lying.

A few plagiarized pages in the book Cutting Through:

<http://www.neogt.com/images/etc/scan0001.jpg>

<http://www.neogt.com/images/etc/scan0002.jpg>

<http://www.neogt.com/images/etc/scan0003.jpg>

[Below] This post is a copy of an article on Outlawjournalism.com.

For several months Alan Watt has been making threats against members of my forum, and on January 6th, he named me personally, and said he would be sending the cops after me. He has continually lied and distorted reality, and after recently having been exposed for plagiarizing the work of a man named Glen Kealey, he reaching into new depths of bizarre desperation, claiming that I am the leader of a mob that is threatening his life and that of his dog, and that the cops are coming for me. It is time I told my side of this story.

I have been a part of the Truth Movement for going on six years. I have spent an incredible amount of time listening to radio shows and reading websites, checking out all of the different “leaders” of the movement. Eventually, I began to feel as if all of these people were mixing fact with fiction and simply going around in circles, without getting to the real heart of the matter, or offering any type of solutions to the incredible problems our species is facing.

A couple years ago, I discovered Alan Watt. I found that he was delving much deeper into the true history and nature of this conspiracy than all of the rest of the industry moguls. He seemed to make things exciting again, referring me to books and areas of research that I had hitherto been unaware of. At that time he was not yet on RBN, and had the feel of a genuine truth teller, with a level of integrity uncommon in this business. I particularly enjoyed the old recordings of the shows he had done with Jackie Patru. He appeared to be going after the straight truth, without falling into the traps that the rest of the individuals discussing these subjects seem to inevitably get caught in. He presented himself as a rebel, living in the woods like a hermit on very modest means, simply trying to get the word out, to give humanity one last chance to save itself before it was too late. I believed it.

He seemed to be speaking directly to me, saying everything I had always known in my gut to be true. He said that this entire system that we call “civilization” is a scam, run by psychopathic elite occultists. He talked about the true nature of man, and that every aspect of it is exploited by this system in a scientific fashion.

When I decided to put a forum on my site, people who listened to Alan began to quickly gather at newly created Outlaw Forum to discuss the various subjects and ideas presented on Alan’s show. It soon became clear that Alan was not happy about this at all. At first he made vague references to forums in general, discouraging people from visiting them at all, claiming that they were all run by government agents for the purpose of spreading disinformation. He slowly stepped up his attacks, narrowing in on Outlaw Forum, without ever naming it outright. These attacks soon became threats.

I can now see that Watt was, from the beginning, afraid that if listeners of his show were to get together and discuss his work, he would lose his control over them. They would begin to ask each other questions which Alan did not want asked, and eventually they would dig up his secrets and lies, and put them up for all the world to see.

Over the last few months, while attempting to stifle the free communication between his listeners, Alan has exposed his true self, and the little voice in the back of my head telling me that Alan was not what he claimed slowly began to rise in pitch. It was already screaming on the night of January 6th, when Alan Watt identified me by name on his RBN broadcast, and told me that the cops would be coming for me because I had dared to question his authenticity.

“I am Perfectly Genuine, I Assure You”

Certain things about Alan have always made me uncomfortable. For one, he is probably one of the most negative people I have ever been exposed to. He directly implies that everything is fake and evil, and he paints the picture that we have absolutely no chance of overcoming this horror that is upon us, and that there really isn't anything about humanity worth saving anyway. I understand that things are nearly as bad as he implies, at least in the Western World, but my personal belief is that we as humans exist for a reason, and that we are experiencing this evil for a reason. I believe there is meaning in our suffering, and meaning in the struggle to overcome evil. God or the Universe would not allow us to be born into such a situation as this, without giving us a shot at redemption. He always seemed to leave this bit out of his presentation.

Tying into this, he also totally avoided the subject of human spirituality. He would acknowledge that there is more to the universe than the physical, but claimed that all religions were created by the elite to control us, and that all other forms of spirituality were “New Age”. Organized religion has certainly always been a control mechanism, and the New Age, with all of it's cults, channeling rituals and “quantum physics means you create your own reality” mumbo-jumbo is not any better, but this is hardly a reason for a person not to seek spiritual enlightenment. I cannot say for certain that it was his intent, but the longer I listened to his show, the more I felt as if the show would likely draw one away from his own quest for the spiritual realm, pushing them instead towards a state of hopelessness. I fear that Alan could likely have this effect on anyone who put too much weight on the man's projected impressions of the human experience.

It also appeared inconsistent that while supposedly encouraging people to be “free thinkers” and “individuals”, he would simply not allow anyone to disagree with him, even if they attempted to do so politely. If a caller phoned into his show presenting a view of the world variant from his own, he was simply told he was wrong, if not lambasted and cut-off. It was basically, “you are free to think whatever I tell you to think”.

I also always had the strange feeling that he was using some type of hypnotic technique, such as NLP, with the tone of his voice and the arrangement of his words. Though I could not ever really put

“Your Love Won’t Pay My Bills”

By far the most contemptible aspect of his persona was his obsession with the copyright of his books. He would regularly launch into long rants about how people were giving away his .pdf files, playing the victim, crying about how hard his life is and how he has no money. On one show I can recall, he said 4 times that he could not afford an iPod. He would also beg shamelessly for donations, and use intense guilt tactics on anyone who was listening without paying their dues.

Why, I wondered, should a person claiming to be against the system of money be so obsessed with it? And why was he the only person in this movement not offering all of his material for free? His answer to the latter question was of course that everyone but him is a government funded propagandist.

I understand that we live in this system, and everyone needs money, but things are tough all over. I work 50 hours a week in a warehouse, and still cannot afford my own domicile. I spend whatever free time I have trying to aid the fight. Alan’s excuse for why he could not bring in some sort of income, like all of the rest of us do, outside of his work doing a one hour radio show three times a week, was absolutely ludicrous. He claimed it took all day to cook his meals and after doing the show from 7:00-8:00 pm, it took him until 3:00 am to upload the .mp3 file to his website. More recently he has said that he spends his entire day scouring the Internet for people who are violating his copyright.

Though this and several other doubts lingered in my mind, I was able to push it aside, as the information he was presenting was just so compelling.

“Keep This to Yourself, There are Spies Everywhere”

My first major clue as to Alan's true nature came about 8 months ago when Alan stated several times that we should not talk to the people around us, because there are spies everywhere and we will be put in prison. This is totally ridiculous on a multitude of different levels. Yes, there may be "agents" who hang out in public places listen to people's conversations; I doubt they are "everywhere", as Alan claims, but for the sake of argument, let's suppose they are. How would speaking in public make any difference at all? They already monitor everyone's web usage, and have made lists of anyone who researches these subjects. We have nothing to lose anyway, as if we don't stop this now, all of our lives are going to be a living hell, and most of us will probably end up dead.

There is absolutely no reason why we should not all be trying to wake up as many people as we possibly can before this thing comes down in full. Alex Jones even confronted him about this when Alan was a guest on his show, and Alan's response was something like "people should not speak to others in their own area, but go to a different town where people don't know who you are and talk to people there". Whatever that means.

Upon hearing this, it hit me hard that Alan Watt was playing on paranoia in order to discourage truth seekers from exercising the one freedom we have left to do the one thing that may be able to save us; he was telling us not to attempt to wake others up.

Then the threats began.

"I'll Make You Regret This"

The first threat against a member of my forum came in the Fall of 2008, after a forum poster going by the handle "Neo" created a site called "sentientsentinel.com", in homage to Alan Watt, who's European site is at "alanwattsentientsentinel.eu". I told Neo that this was probably not a great idea, as the domain name was too similar to Watt's. To make sure that readers would not get confused into thinking that this site was an official site of Alan Watt, he put a statement across of the top of the page stating that fact.

On October 1st, Alan became aware of the webpage. Instead of contacting the admin of the site and voicing his concerns, as any mature adult would be prone to do, he opted instead to go on the air on his RBN broadcast attacking and threatening the site (.mp3 link here, the threats are at 1:30 – 4:00 into it, then from 5:50 – 8:00). He first claimed that it was created by government agents pretending to be him, to try and trick people and “lead them into forums”. He mixed his attacks on Neo with attacks on people who are supposedly violating his copyright, saying that he has “friends all over”, and would be “sending people to see [the people who have ‘done the dirty’ on him] and make them regret it”.

This seems to have clearly been a thinly veiled threat of violence. One member of Outlaw Forum, who is an obsessive follower of Watt, said that this in no way implied violence, but he was unable to come up with any example of a possible alternate meaning. “Sending people to see you” is generally understood as a classic mafioso style threat of physical harm, and I find it impossible to believe Watt doesn’t know this.

A couple days later, again talking both about “the one pretending to be him”, along with unknown individuals who he claims are distributing .pdf files of his copyrighted material, he reiterated the threat of harassment by his “friends” who are “all over the world”, saying “I will come down hard on you” (.mp3 link here, with the relevant statements at 1:50 – 5:00; transcript here). On the 6th of October he again attacks Neo’s site, and referring to the link on that site to outlawjournalism.com, he says that the site is steering people into “antisemitism” (.mp3 link is here, attacks are at 1:40 – 3:40, transcript here). Also worthy of note, the week before, when talking about the violators of his copyright, he said he had satellite pictures of a man named Alphonso’s home in Toledo, Ohio and that he better take the .pdf files down and send him money, or suffer some consequence (.mp3 link here, the threats are at 1:30 – 2:20).

The kicker is that he was implying that these people are government agents out to destroy him, and then threatening them. This is blatant double-speak. If they are government agents, why would he be threatening them?

You can make of this what you wish. It is within the realm of possibility that these “friends” he spoke of would do something other than beat up the accused, threaten their children, rape their wives, vandalize or burn down their homes, etc., though these are the images that immediately came to my mind upon hearing the threat. It is almost certain that whatever it was he was implying, these threats were a bluff, intended to intimidate the supposed offenders. If he was actually planning on sending thugs to someone’s house, he would not say it over the air. Alan is many things, but he is not stupid.

Whatever his intent was, I think it would be extremely difficult to argue that administering any manner of threat like this over the air to anyone, let alone to a fan of yours who you have not even attempted to contact privately, is the behavior of a normal, decent human being. These actions are more akin to the that of a deranged control freak who, unable to deal with his own frustration, launches into childlike tantrums whenever someone does something he doesn't like. It is certainly not the behavior of a saint who would exile himself into obscurity, simply for the sake of trying to save humanity.

It was incredibly disillusioning to hear these threats from a man I had held in such high regard. Eventually, I swallowed my pride and admitted to myself that I had been duped. Alan was not the person of integrity that I had believed he was. Though he was presenting a different level of information than the rest of the "leaders", he was in fact more disreputable than even the most shameless of the entire rouge's gallery of profiteering conmen operating in this business.

The pieces began to fit into place in my mind. I realized he was not only not a hero, but in fact someone who likely had a diabolical agenda to push. Though I voiced my concerns about his threats on my forum, I did not state outright my rapidly intensifying suspicions about his real motives. I still held onto the hope that maybe he was just a frustrated old man who didn't have a full understanding of the nature of the Internet, and I didn't want to go public with my suspicions until I knew for sure.

Things only got worse.

"My Face is Copyrighted"

The next incident came when another of Alan's listeners, a regular poster at Outlaw Forum who goes by the handle "ColossusOfDestiny", created a domain called "alanwattfans.com". On this site he had links to Alan's podcasts, and was selling t-shirts and coffee mugs with Alan's face on them. He stated that he would be donating a portion of the proceeds of the sales to Alan Watt.

When he posted the link on the forum, I and the rest of the regular posters told him that this was a terrible idea, and that he could expect to be threatened on air. No more than 18 hours later, Alan went on his show and threatened to sue the creator of this site, claiming that his face was copyrighted (.mp3 is here, with the relevant statements and threats at 2:00 – 16:00). He again tied this in with the real or unreal people he claims are distributing his .pdf files. He claimed that one of the people who was distributing his copyrighted files was in trouble with the police, and the rest would soon be joining him. All of the nonsense he goes on about it presented in this particular self righteous, selfpityingrant, and one can clearly see the disgust he has for his own listeners. He also mentions Outlaw Forum, calling us psychopaths, and compares us to the Rothschilds and the Freemasons.

He once again called the person who created the site a government agent trying to destroy him, before threatening him.

I want to make it clear that selling the t-shirts and coffee mugs was a horrible idea, and I am not defending this. The fact is that it would be plain to anyone who came across that site that this was just a young guy, who was inspired by Alan's message, and was doing the best he could to spread the word.

Again, I know the man who made the site, and I know that just as with Neo, he would have taken it down immediately if Alan had simply emailed him and let him know he was uncomfortable with it. There was absolutely no reason, and no excuse, for more threats. It is the behavior of a spoiled child.

The fact that he responded so quickly was proof that he was now a regular lurker on Outlaw Forum. He was no doubt aware of the poor reception his "people are coming to get you" threats had received, and this time instead chose to threaten a lawsuit. The lawsuit was course a bluff, just as the apparent threats of violence were. If Alan does not have the money to fix his broken chainsaw, as he has claimed, he certainly doesn't have the tens of thousands of dollars it would take to launch an international Internet copyright infringement lawsuit.

At this point suspicions were mounting, not only on Outlaw Forum, but across the board. The events that followed caused all former followers of Watt who I have had contact with, save one religious devotee, to lose any remaining faith.

"Yes, I met Glen Kealey Once, Back in the 90's"

The final proverbial nail in Watt's coffin was quite fittingly bizarre in the extreme. On December 15th, "Warren in North Carolina" called into Watt's show and asked if he knew a man named Glen Kealey. Watt said he did, that he had met him in the 90's. The caller then told Watt that his material was clearly ripped off of Kealey's work, and was promptly cut off. When Alan posted the podcast of the show on his website, he removed the caller who had called in questioning him (here is the show in full from the RBN archives, call at 49:50, and here is the redacted version from Watt's site). Clearly, he did not want folks knowing about this Kealey person.

A member of Outlaw Forum noticed this strangeness, and we found Kealey's sites (here, here, and here) and email group. Lo and behold, it seems that the majority of Watt's "esoteric" knowledge has been directly lifted from this man's work. All of "Watt's" theories about the phonetic coding of language, the historical existence of genetic engineering, the hermaphroditic agenda, the troglodytes, etc., were directly taken from Kealey, without ever mentioning the man's name.

What's more, entire pages in Watt's heavily copyrighted .pdf files appear to have been photocopied strait from The Kealey Paper. Images and entire pages of text are identical. In case you are wondering, the copyright on Kealey's work is much older than the one on Watt's. I am certain that Alan would have declared to the caller that Kealey ripped him off, as he claims that David Icke did, if there was any way he could make that seem plausible.

I do not yet have copies of The Kealey Papers, but I would not be surprised if the entirety of Watt's three books was copied directly from them. One can go onto Kealey's webpage and see images from the covers of the Papers which Watt has used in his books (example at the head of this article), and if you read through some of Kealey's web posts, you can see clearly that Watt plagiarized his material extensively, giving him absolutely no credit. He even deleted the man's name from his show, denying him as Peter denied Christ.

At this point, after all of the shattered trust and broken pride, there was nothing else I could do but laugh. I laughed long and hard. The "copyrighted files", which I had spent hours listening to Watt cry his eyes out about, were in fact largely the work of someone else.

We discussed this extensively in a thread on Outlaw Forum. No one could deny it. It was just too blatant what Watt had done. We all knew what was coming next.

"They are Going to Kill Me and My Dog"

The Next round of threats came quickly, clearly in response to our discussion of Kealey. Here is the transcript of Watt's statements about the Outlaw Forum, made after he discovered that we were discussing his plagiarism (.mp3 link here, statements are at 5:10 – 8:20):

Hi folks, this is Alan Watt and we are cutting through the matrix, and I have been discussing how we have all been brainwashed. The general technique of brainwashing means that the people who have been subjected to it never know it. That is why it is very successful. And we live in a scientifically indoctrinated age. An age where literally the sciences were developed to do with groups and they talk about neuroscience which goes right into genetics by the way, and eugenics, and how we have all been studied; the studies are ongoing. Most of the studies today on people and the groups they will join are done on chatrooms. Many people in the chat rooms don't know they're part of the experiments. And they break them down into dyads, subtypes, personality types, and so on, and that's why it's so easy for someone who is put in as an agitator to get the mob going against someone else.

These are experiments, and I've had a few of these experiments pulled on me, over the years. Always from the same group, from one particular forum. I know every single one of them, and so do the police. Because lately I've had threats come from the same group again. This group even had the gall to put up a fake website with my name on it, at one point. And you turn to the first page, the first link took you off to someone, I know his real name; called Andrew, and it was an anti-Semitic rant. So that one was tried on me before.

And now the same character has got the mob all geared up to try and harass me. So I have to warn you, every single one of you, on the website; it is being monitored by the cops. Because you see malicious intent, and threats, are taken seriously. And I take threats against myself and my life and my dog very seriously. So let that be a warning to all of you. In your own states of locked up paranoia.

Now I hate to even go off in that direction but that is what you get when you start to get known. If you are not saying the things they want you to say, or you are not agreeing with their particular spin on something they'll come after you. That's the mob. And most of them are just that as I say: they are the mob. They don't think. And they are easily riled up by someone who knows the techniques. For they are the fronts, they are disposable at the end of the day.

Following his strange method once more, he first claimed that I was some type of agent running some kind of social experiment with my forum, using psychological manipulation methods to rile people up against him, before introducing his most nonsensical threat that thus far.

In an attempt to switch the game up, he claims that we are the ones making the threats, citing this as the reason for his threats against us. This is called "blaming the victim". He says members of Outlaw

Forum are threatening to kill him and his dog. He just makes that up, out of nowhere. He says he has contacted the police, and that he knows who everyone on the forum is, and we are all going to be dealt with by the authorities because we are making death threats.

He says that these threats are “coming from members of the forum”. I guess rather than saying that we are making threats on the forum, which would be easily disproved by anyone who cared to take a look, he is implying that members of the forum are contacting him privately, identifying themselves as being members of the forum, and then threatening to kill him and his dog. That is what he is saying. Imagine it: “I am a poster at Outlaw Forum and I am going to kill you and your dog”.

Let’s just suppose that it did happen, exactly like that; someone wrote him an email, identified himself as a member of my forum and then threatened to kill him and his dog. What does this have to do with me or my forum? Why would he not simply forward the email to the proper authorities, and allow them to trace it, and deal with the criminal individual accordingly? Why would there be a need to mention it publicly?

Suppose they had sent him an email saying “I have a membership at the YMCA and I am going to kill you and your dog”; would he then call the cops and insist that they monitor everyone holding a membership at the YMCA, and would the cops go along with this, and spy on all of us, as he is claiming they are doing to the members of Outlaw Forum?

But he certainly couldn’t have actually called the cops and said we were making death threats, without any proof, could he? And which “cops” would he call, I wonder, given that we are all living in different states and countries? Would he call all of our local police departments, since he knows who we all are? Maybe he would contact Homeland Security and Interpol? Or possibly the United Nations and NATO?

Or maybe, just maybe, this is another desperate attempt at intimidation from a psychopathic control freak about to totally lose control, physically overwhelmed by the idea that someone can question his lies, and he be able to do absolutely nothing to stop it.

The key here is that he is trying to make people afraid to visit the forum by saying that they will be in trouble with the police if they do. This is a truly pathetic act of total desperation. Every listener to Alan

Watt should be deeply offended that this man believes you are stupid enough to believe this craziness he is selling you.

He says “I know his real name, it’s Andrew”, and Andrew is the name on my birth certificate (though I was only ever called it on the first day of school). His having gathered this “personal” information on me is also clearly meant to intimidate, and prove that he has the ability to find out everything about us, and “make us pay”. However, this is not terribly difficult to figure out, and certainly does not prove he has some magical ability to go to a forum and find the personal information of everyone posting there, as he is claiming. I have to say though, the man is creepy. He does have that going for him.

It is also worthy of note that he slanders me with the label of “anti-semite”, referring to an article I wrote as an “anti-semitic rant”. That article is here, for those interested. Apparently, he believes that “anti-semitism” is a real concept, and that anyone who questions the Jewish religion or the Secular State of Israel should be labeled as such.

He calls me a ringleader of a band of brainwashed followers, riling people up to “harass” him. He is apparently implying to his listeners that this is somehow related to the threats against him and his dog, but what he is actually talking about is me having encouraged people to call in to his show and ask him about Kealey. Ever since I made this suggestion on my forum, he has done shows without taking any calls, something I am not aware of him ever having done before. He has claimed that this is due to some technical problem, but one has to wonder how long he can keep that excuse going. He is going to have to deal with this situation in some way, and it will be interesting to see what he chooses to do.

He is backed up against a wall, because Kealey’s site is there for everyone to see, and once a person has seen it, they are not going to really be able to trust Watt ever again, especially given the measures he has taken to cover this whole thing up. It seems he is either going to have to go off the air, as he has been bluffing that he was going to in an attempt to increase his donations, or he is going to have to somehow attempt to address the issue of the plagiarism, by either admitting he was “influenced” by Kealey, or coming up with some sort of cover story, which could involve an elaborate fantasy tale about how Kealey is somehow working for the government as a part of some sort of complex plot to try and destroy him.

Whichever path he chooses, I assure you, these threats are going to keep on coming. Given the fact that he is clearly dredging the depths of total desperation, he may actually try to have me harassed in some way, and is almost certainly already trying to get my site shut down. If my site does happen to go down, or if I turn up missing (I seriously doubt the latter will occur, but given the apparent nature of this man, I have to at least mention the possibility), you will all know what has taken place.

After all of this, there is absolutely no way a person could honestly claim that Alan Watt is simply in this fight to try and help people. His behavior demonstrates that he has a severe personality disorder, which most assuredly prevents him from caring about anything other than himself.

Psychopathy is the only explanation for his behavior, as it would have been most beneficial for him to simply ignore Outlaw Forum altogether. He was unable to do so, due to his ego and the overwhelming need a psychopath has to control everything around him. If he had never begun with the threats, I and the rest of his now former listeners would likely still have respect for him, he would still be able to spread his defeatist message without being questioned, still be able to make a killing off of paypal donations.

He blew the scam himself by being unable to control his own psychopathic instincts. People were able to break away from him and see him for what he truly was, overcoming his lies, only because he was incapable of restraining his own evil nature. I believe that this is analogous of the situation the entire world finds itself in. Eventually, the very nature of the system in which we live will be it's downfall.

We will never know for sure if Alan is some type of government propagandist, giving out extremely large doses of truth tainted with disinformation, confusion and paralyzing hopelessness, or simply a snake oil salesman, making easy money exploiting the vulnerability of people looking for truth in a world of lies. If he is the former, it seems that he is required by his controllers to earn his own keep while working this scam, in order that his ties to the establishment cannot be directly traced. This would explain his obsession with money and copyrights.

I want to state clearly that I have no definitive evidence that Alan is working for anyone, but I personally believe that it is the only logical explanation one could come to given his behavior. If he was simply out for money, he is intelligent enough he could be making a lot more in a lot of different ways.

I hope that this account helps those fans of Alan Watt, many of which were probably confused by his recent behavior, to put things together, and begin to snap out of the haze he has lotted you into. We will each have to break the spell that the “leaders” of this movement have cast on us if we wish stand a real chance at changing the future. We simply cannot afford to let ourselves be diverted by men with agendas that we do not even fully understand. Alan Watt is the final gatekeeper. If we can steer past him, we are in the clear, capable of deciding our own path.

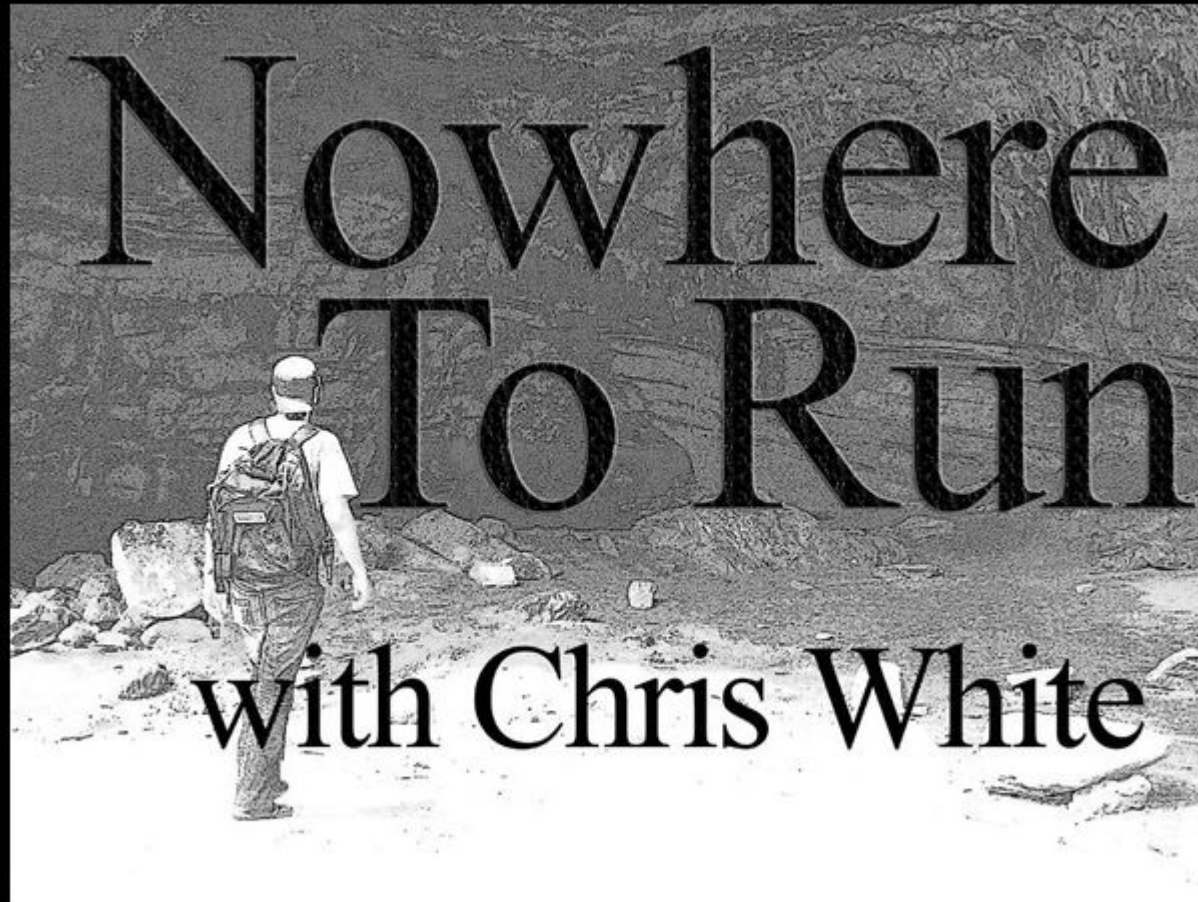

Watt wants us to feel impotent and helpless. The people in power are not infallible, and they are not gods. We, those of us with the intelligence to figure this system out, and the willpower to oppose it, are the most powerful force on the planet. Our biggest threat is not the global banking cartel or the United Nations, but the shill “leaders” in our movement who serve to neutralize us. Free of the psychological and emotional chains they impose upon us, we are unstoppable. God is on our side, and it is we who shall inherit the Earth.

We must tell ourselves everyday that all is not lost. We must cling to the humanity we still have left, and the hope for a world where people can just be people. Yes, civilization is evil, but we are here for a reason, and that is what we should all be searching for. We each have the ability to change the world, simply by the choices we make. The future is still wide open. We are spiritual beings experiencing a physical form, and the battle of the spirit is still one that each of us can win, and together, we can still save the world.

Stay Free

–Andre

This article is not copyrighted, and Andre will not threaten you with violence, lawsuits, or police harassment if you redistribute it. In fact, he encourages you to do so, especially due to the fact that Alan Watt is going to do everything he can to silence him for putting out this information, and it needs to be widely available all over the web, given the outside chance that he may succeed. Andre would like to thank Justin for his help in putting this together.

The Kealey PAPER

Published for the Canadian Journal for Political Progress
P.O. Box 22819, Capital Centre
Kelowna, BC, V1Y 9Y9
Tel: (250) 860-0000 Fax: (250) 860-0000

English Edition

"And the truth shall set you free"

June, July and Aug 1997

Sons Of Legacy

(SOL - Sun - Son - Van - Von - Mc - Mac - de)

The Kealey PAPER

Published by the Canadian
Institute for Political Integrity
P.O. Box 32038, Capitol Centre
Kelowna, B.C., V1Y 8H9
Tel. (250) 860-4007 Fax (250) 860-4008

Twelfth Edition "There always are two sides on both sides of every issue" August, September, October and November, 1998

Cave dwelling
TROGLODYTES are

INTRA - TERRESTRIAL

Trogs "dumb-down"
JTF-6 Freemasons

The Kealey PAPER

Published by the Canadian
Institute for Political Integrity
P.O. Box 32935, Capitol Centre
Kelowna, B.C., V1Y 5N5
Tel: (250) 863-4207 Fax: (250) 866-4410

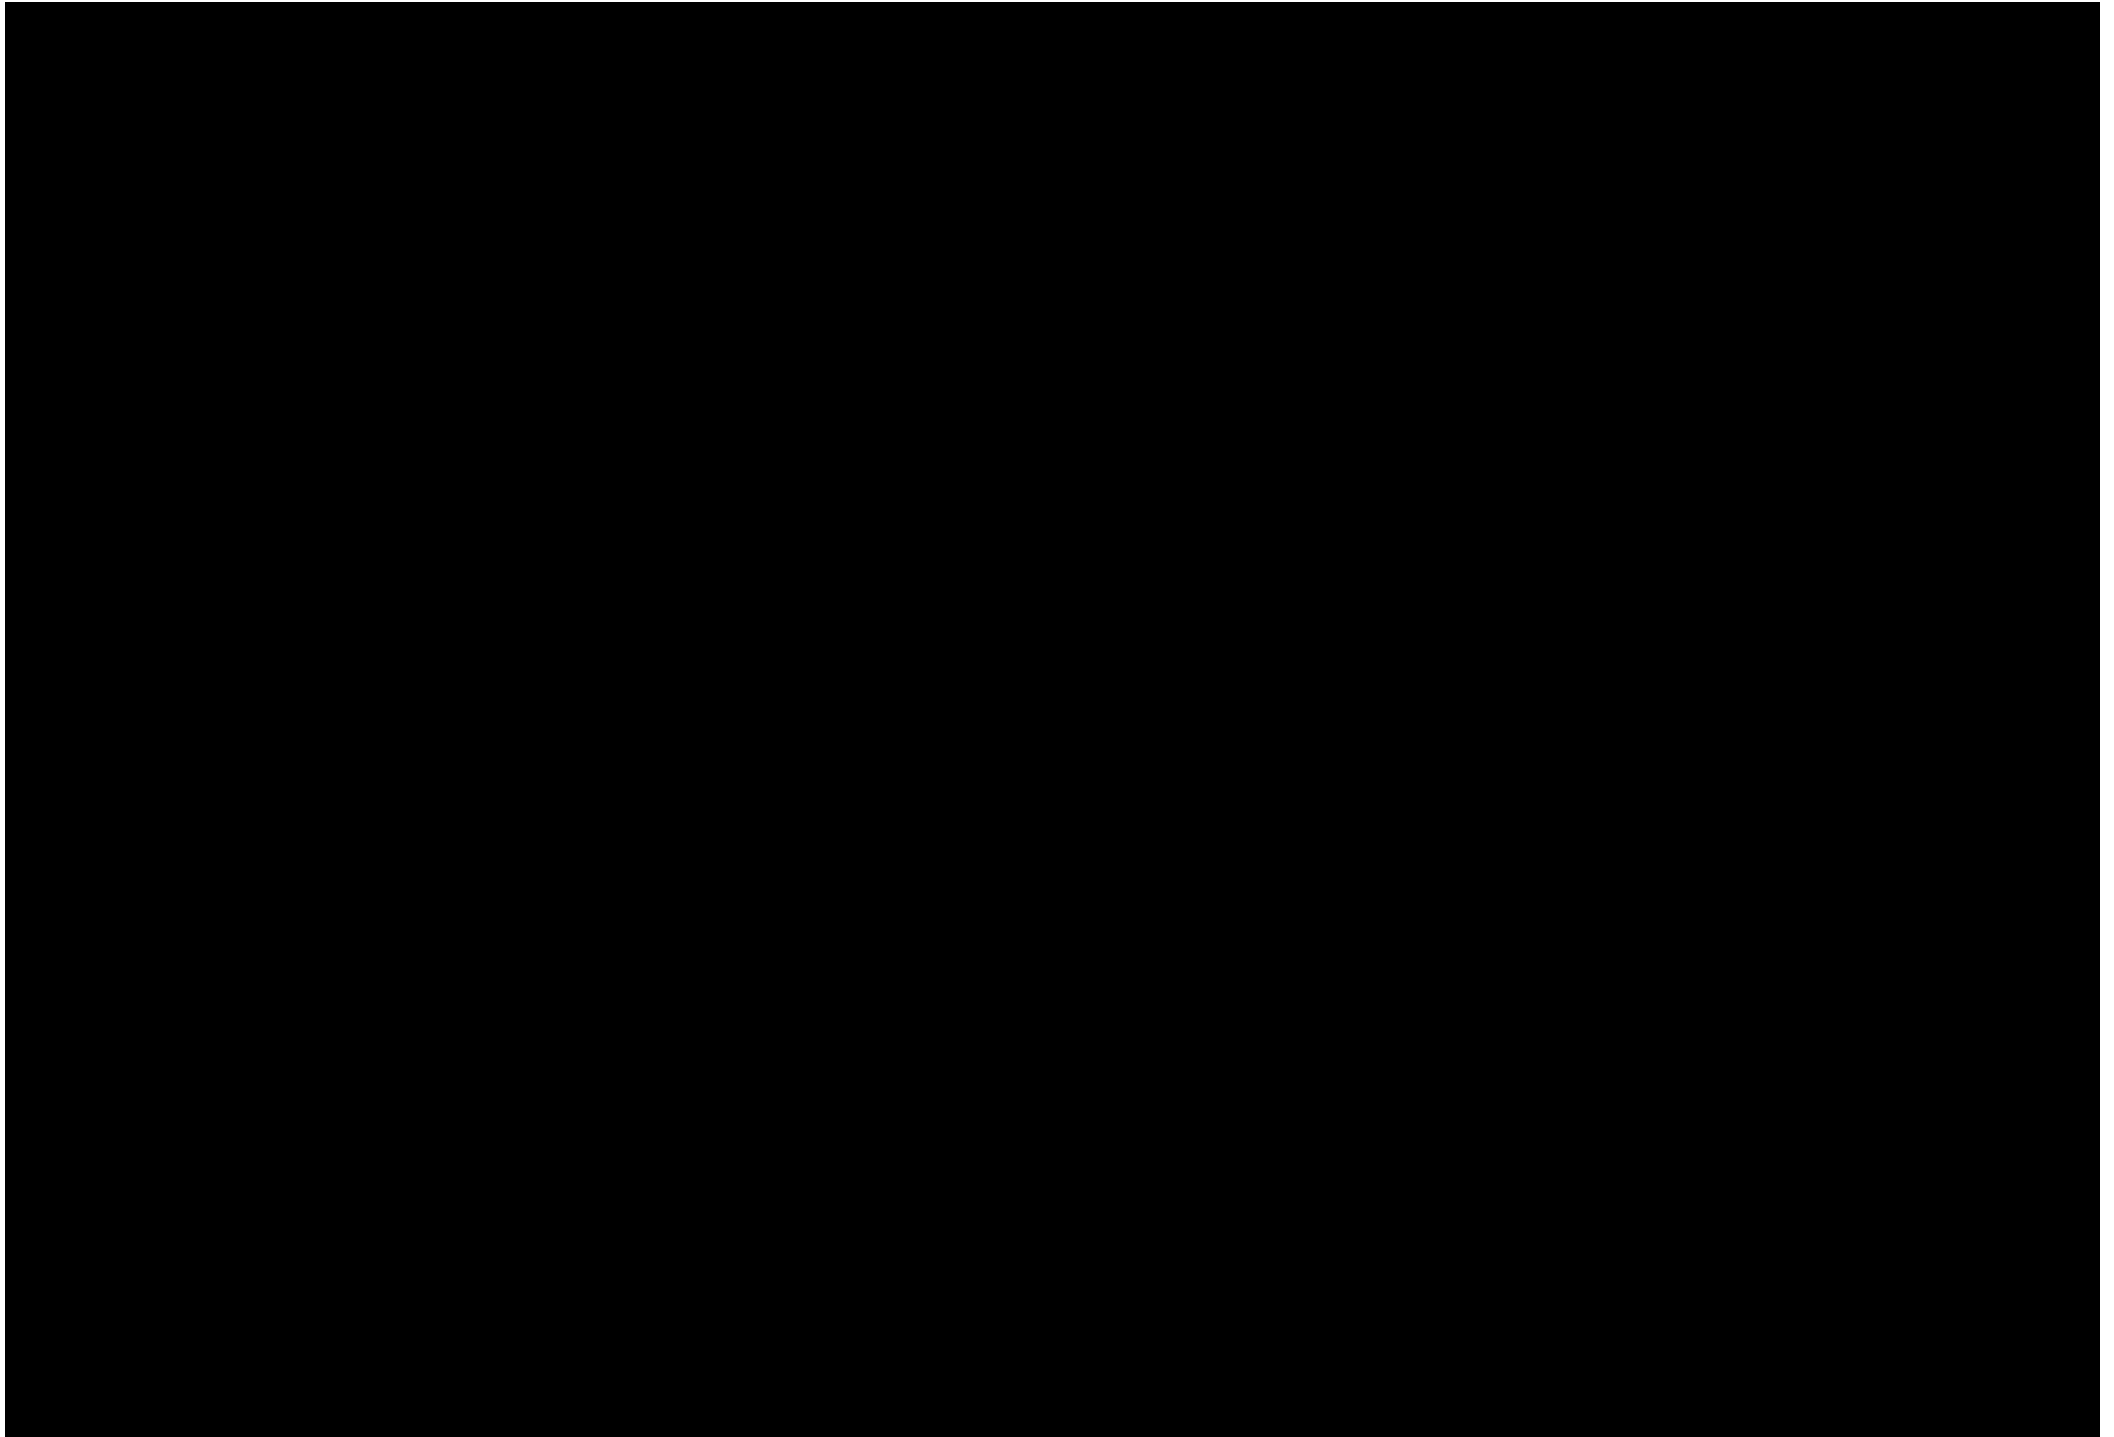

Thirteenth Edition: "There always are two sides on both sides of every issue"

December 1998 plus January and February 1999

Masons also used Oracles to "smear and disinform"

The Kealey PAPER

Published by the Canadian
Institute for Political Integrity
P.O. Box 22526, Capitol Centre
Kelowna, B.C., V1Y 3H5
Tel. (250) 861-8347 Fax. (250) 861-8375

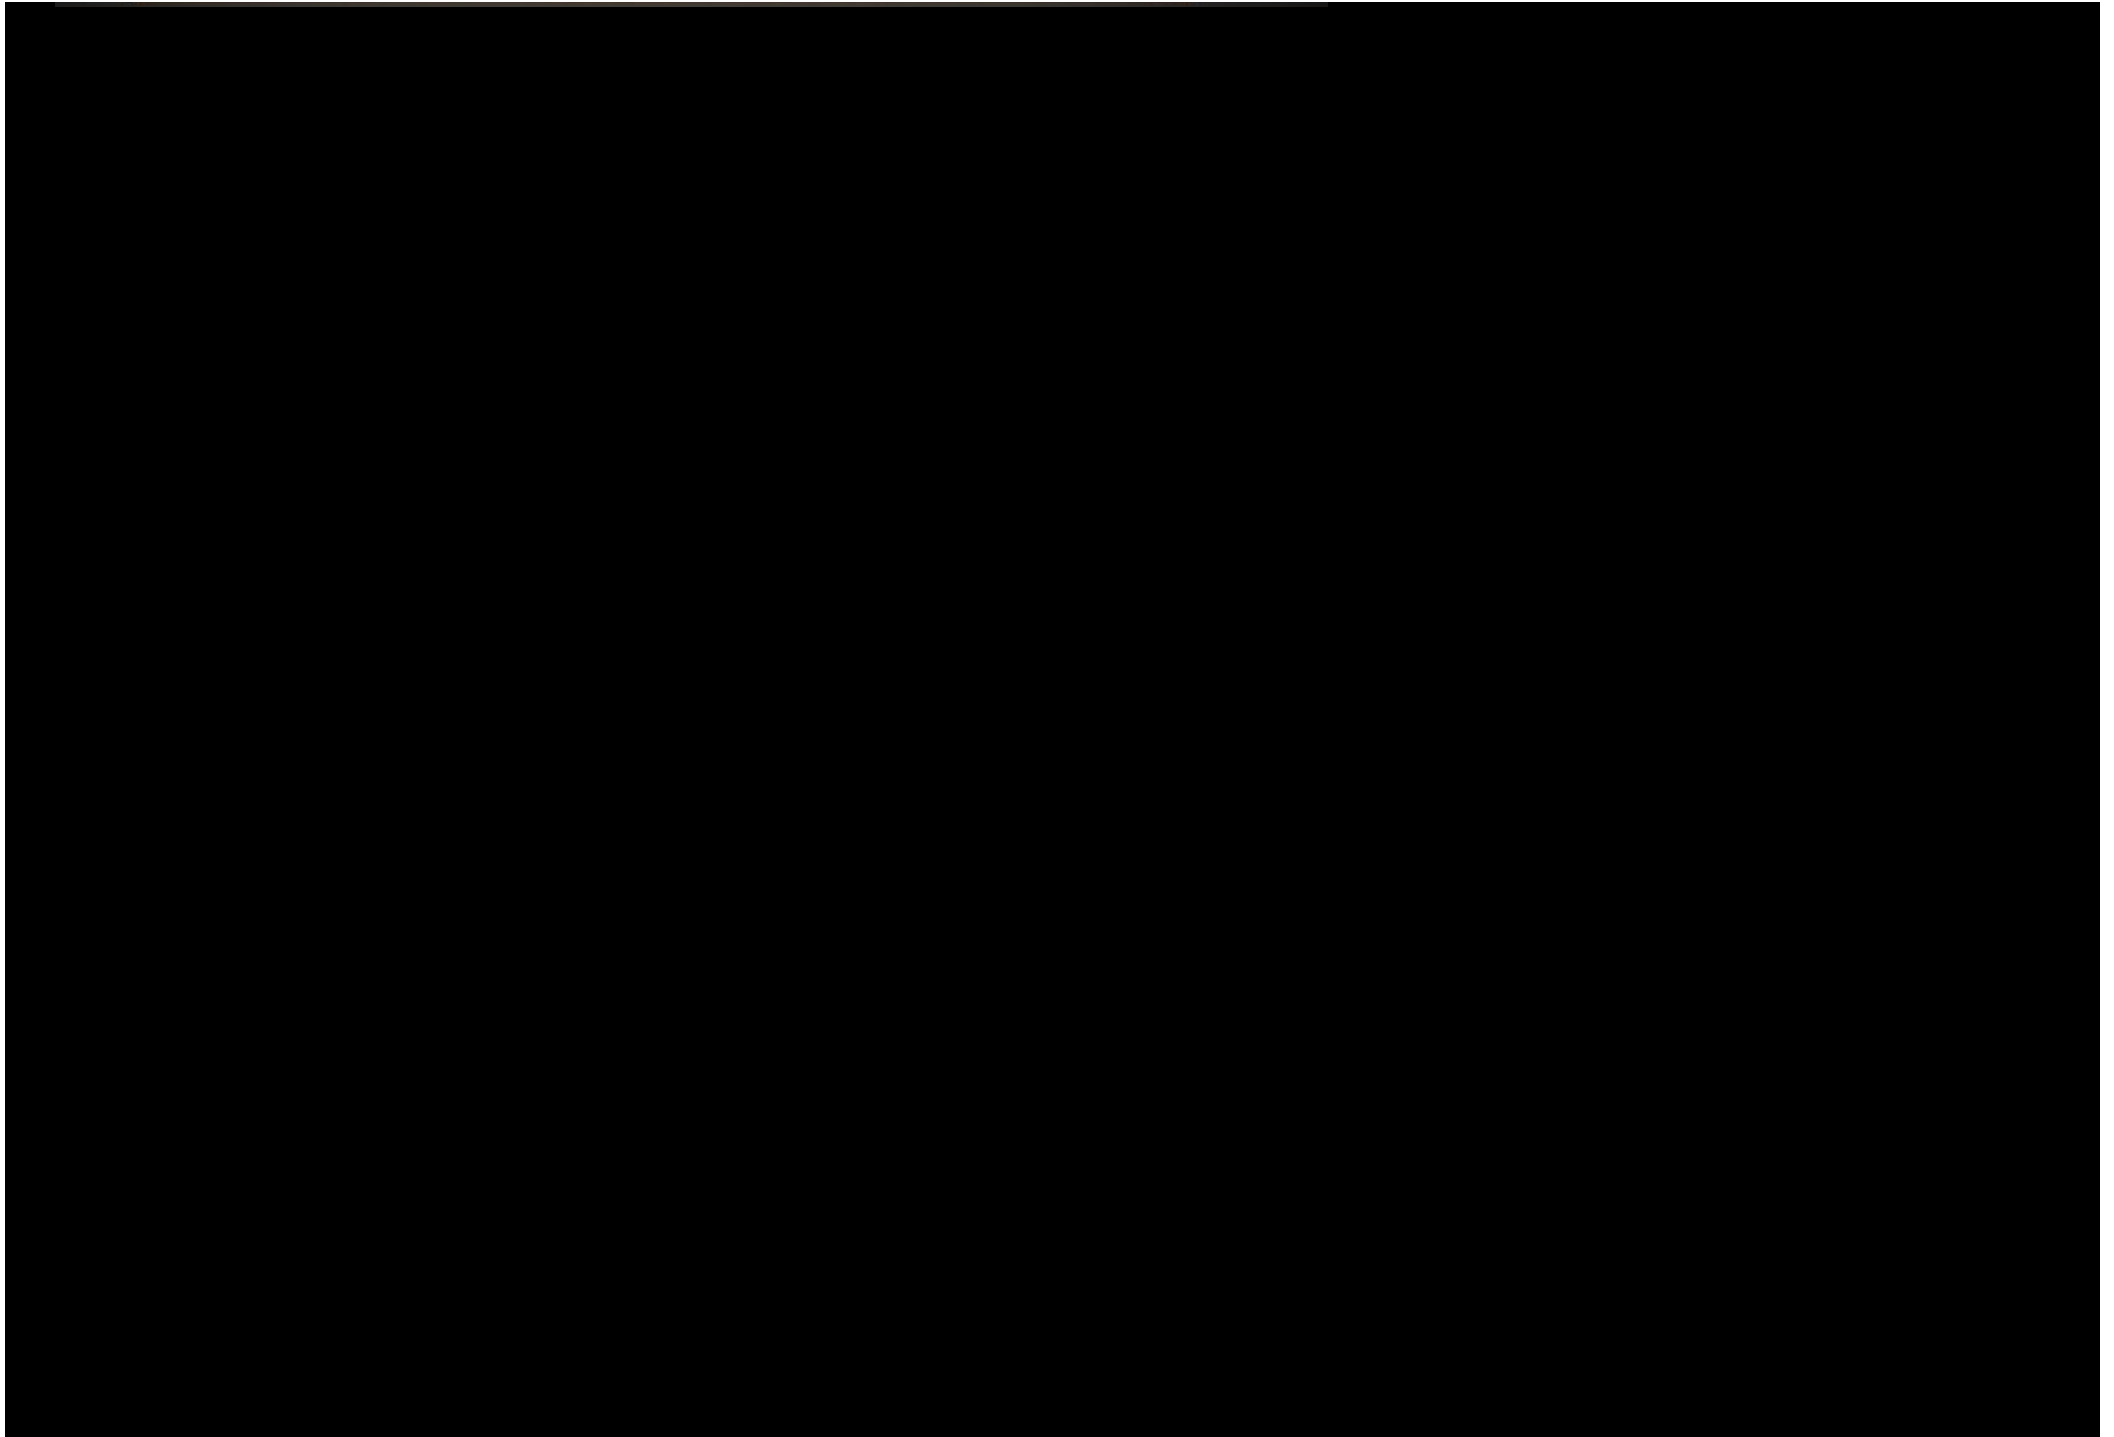

Fourteenth Edition

"There always are two sides on both sides of every issue"

March, April and May 1999

BA-CON (Ham) * SHAKSPERE

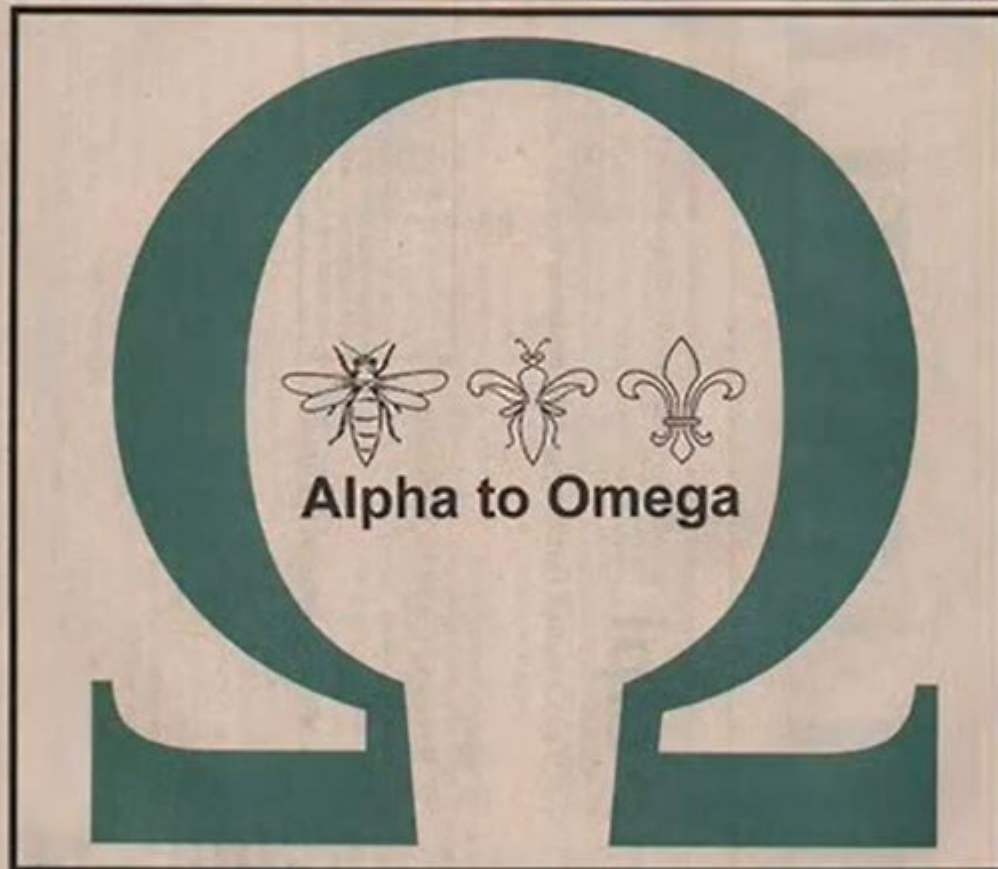

The Kealey PAPER

Published by the Canadian
Institute for Political Integrity
P.O. Box 22828, Capri Centre
Kelowna, B.C., V1Y 5N5
Tel. (250) 860-4387 Fax. (250) 860-9078

Fifteenth Edition

"There always are two sides on both sides of every issue"

June, July and August, 1999

To be bees or not to be bees ?
— that is the question.

The Kealey PAPER

Published by the Canadian
Institute for Political Integrity
P.O. Box 22026, Capri Centre
Kelowna, B.C., V1Y 5N5
Tel. (250) 862-8347 Fax. (250) 862-8376

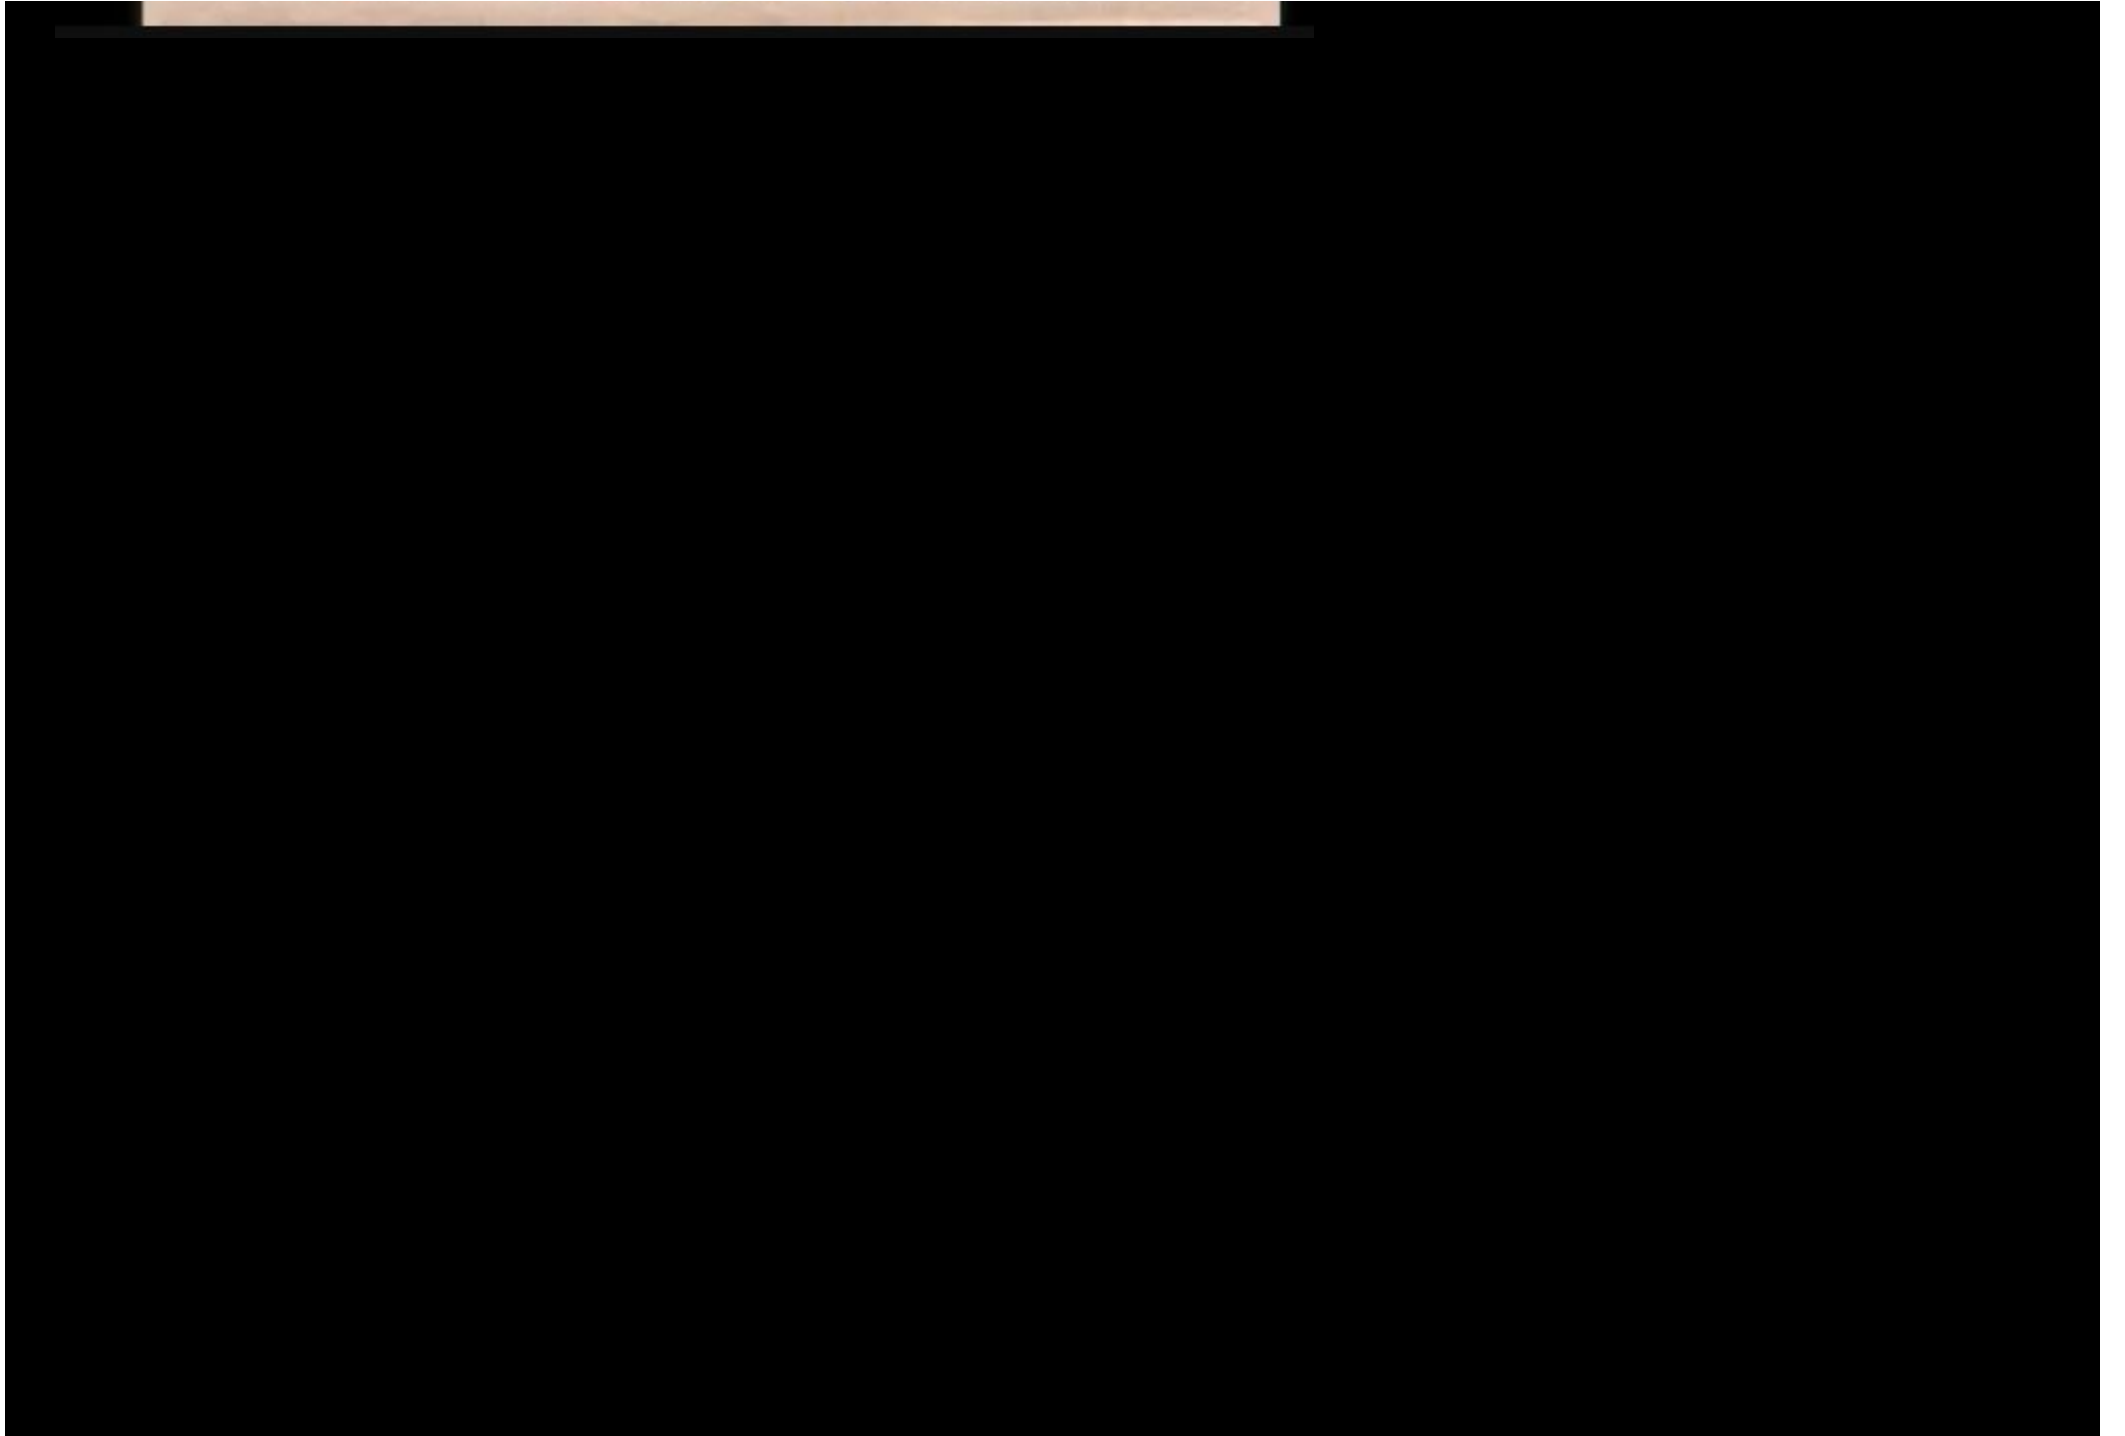

Sixteenth Edition

"There always are two sides on both sides of every issue"

September to December 1999

Y's are everywhere
Y ? ...bee-cause

PO¹²

Published by the Canadian
Institute for Political Integrity
P.O. Box 774
Kemptville, Ont., K0G 1J0
Tel: (613) 898-0880 Fax: (613) 898-6612
info@cipei.net www.cipei.net

Kealey

PAPER

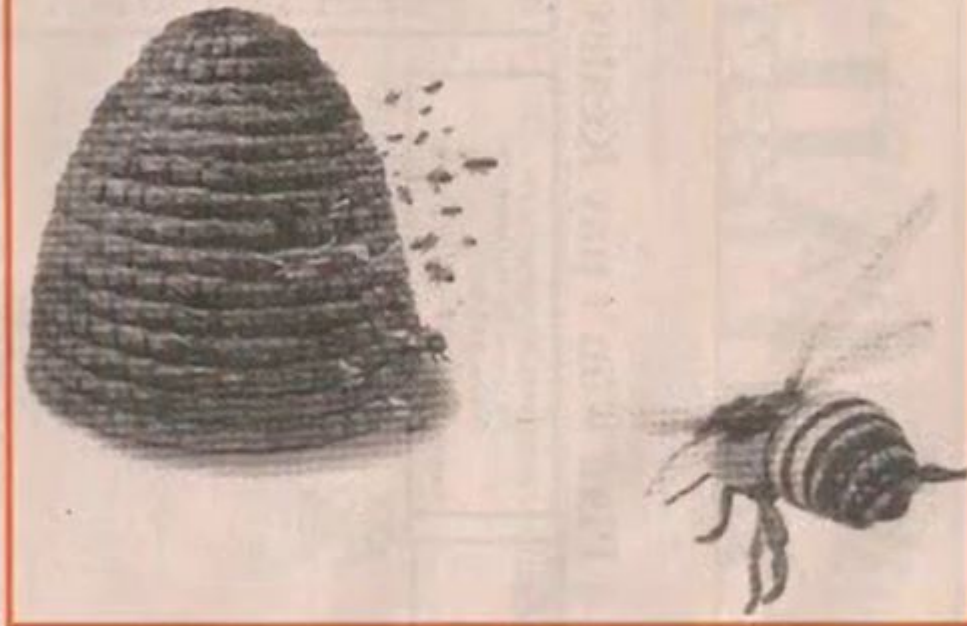

Nineteenth—1 Edition

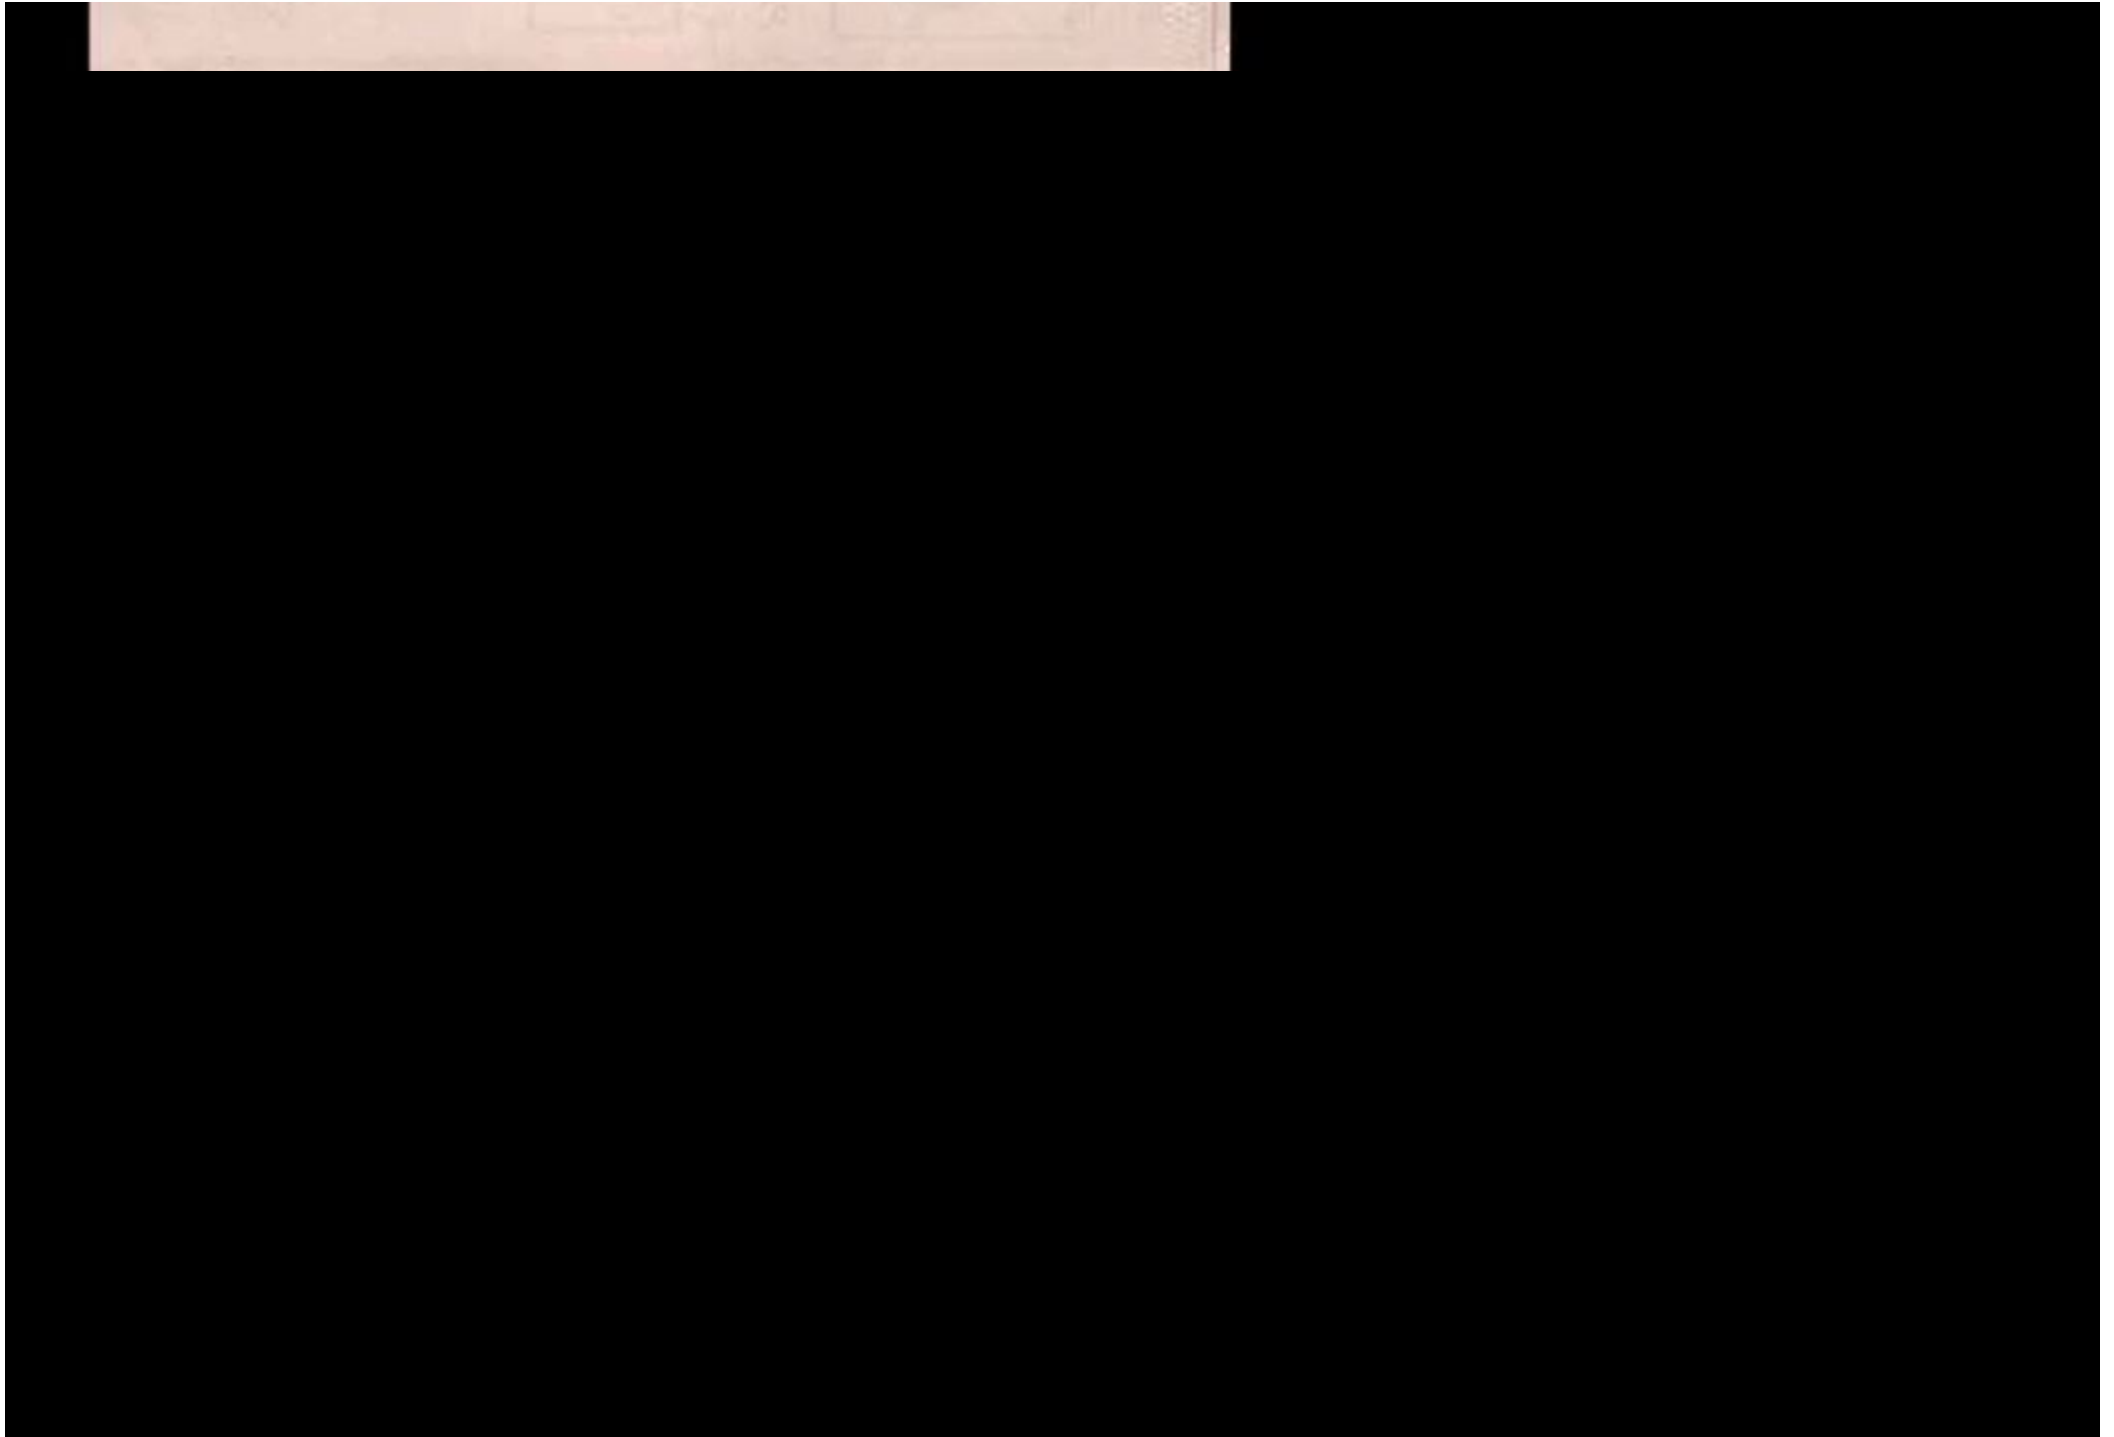

"There always are two sides on both sides of every issue"

October 2000 to February 2001

And Canadians think they're not important

You're looking at the most effective human engineering system ever devised!

The Kealey PAPER

Published by the Canadian Institute for Public Integrity
P.O. Box 22898, Capital Centre
Kamloops, B.C. V1Y 6K9
Tel: (250) 799-9979 Fax: (250) 799-1279

Eleventh Edition

"There always are two sides on both sides of every issue"

May, June, July, 1998

George Washington
(Caucasian Freemason - 1752)

Joseph Brant
(Mohawk Freemason - 1776)

North American Sellouts

are Freemasons

GLEN KEALEY

ABOUT TIMELINE IMAGES BIO

BIOGRAPHY

Born : January 8, 1942

Educated : by the SYSTEM 1942 to 1987 - First wife, 1 girl & 3 boys

Awakening : 1987 to 1998 - Second wife 1994/98, (divorced 2002)

Self-educated : 1995 to 2002

SculPTor/Teacher : of Ultimate Reality : 2000 to Present

When I Woke Up !

When I finally woke up I took a look around. I saw city halls, courthouses, houses of government, churches, schools, and universities by the hundreds and thousands. I saw systems systems for managing the land, the air, and the water; systems for managing human behavior; systems for managing religion; systems for managing learning; systems for managing food, shelter, clothing; systems for managing love and procreation: a vast complex of carefully engineered systems. I saw millions of people working, not for themselves, but for someone else. I saw millions of people doing, not what they themselves want to do, but what someone else wants them to do. I saw the depressing evidence of a people who have externalized and institutionalized-in fact, have tried to standardize-the very nature of humanity. I saw a whole people who've lost the way of life and in its place have built a technological monster which does most of their hard work, carries their water, delivers their food, raises their kids, makes their decisions, says their prayers, transports them, informs them, entertains them, and controls the people it serves, absolutely. I also saw that the monster, seemingly unable to manage itself, was running wild, totally out of visible control, ripping the land to pieces, spreading poisons, filling the air with filth, dumping garbage

Born : January 8, 1942

Educated : by the SYSTEM 1942 to 1987 - First wife, 1 girl & 3 boys

Awakening : 1987 to 1998 - Second wife 1994/98, (divorced 2002)

Self-educated : 1995 to 2002

SculPTor/Teacher : of Ultimate Reality : 2000 to Present

When I Woke Up !

When I finally woke up I took a look around. I saw city halls, courthouses, houses of government, churches, schools, and universities by the hundreds and thousands. I saw systems systems for managing the land, the air, and the water; systems for managing human behavior; systems for managing religion; systems for managing learning; systems for managing food, shelter, clothing; systems for managing love and procreation: a vast complex of carefully engineered systems. I saw millions of people working, not for themselves, but for someone else. I saw millions of people doing, not what they themselves want to do, but what someone else wants them to do. I saw the depressing evidence of a people who have externalized and institutionalized-in fact, have tried to standardize-the very nature of humanity. I saw a whole people who've lost the way of life and in its place have built a technological monster which does most of their hard work, carries their water, delivers their food, raises their kids, makes their decisions, says their prayers, transports them, informs them, entertains them, and controls the people it serves, absolutely. I also saw that the monster, seemingly unable to manage itself, was running wild, totally out of visible control, ripping the land to pieces, spreading poisons, filling the air with filth, dumping garbage and shit in the rivers and lakes and oceans. I saw all that, and I saw the people, millions of them, crowded together in cities, living side by side in towns, villages, rural areas. But I didn't see a single community. Is someone doing all of this on purpose ?

Yes, Persian Zoro-Astrian/Zoro-Babel Freemasonry is doing it on purpose!

The SculPTor

Adapted for CIPI from a text by Wilfred Pelletier and Ted Poole

One Forester's view on "How we got into the mess we're in".

A linguistic archaeologist digs for the very roots of our languages, many millennia before writing was invented. He or she considers all the different possibilities of language development and has to be suspicious of anything taught as "fact" in our universities. This person must be free to bring totally new ideas forward about languages origins, unaffected by dogma or tradition. It is a rather lonely position to take but it has its advantages. Having no formal education in linguistics turned out to be both very helpful and also a big drawback. It was helpful because I avoided what is described as:

NTR – Alan Wattergate

DOWNLOAD NOW

This is an Interview with Andre from Outlaw Journalism, Andre recently wrote an article which strongly suggest that Alan Watt's books and a great majority of his information came from a man named Glen Kealey.

Alan says he only talked to Kealey 'once in the nineties' and Kealey says Alan called him for "weeks on end" to "pick his brain" and that Watt copied his material, "never gave him credit for being the originator of all the ideas" but Kealey said he wasn't in it for the money anyway. Watt then accused Andre and his forum of death threats and made some bizarre threats himself about the cops watching the outlaw forum now and other things.

This interview was to set the record straight and to deny accusations of death threats

Andre's article

<http://www.outlawjournalism.com/?p=85>

Alan Watt Threats, Lies and Plagiarism

Podcast: Play in new window | Download

January 5, 2010

OUTLAW

Outlaw Forum
 "I am not responsible for the content of this forum." --Andre

FAQ Search Memberlist
Usergroups Profile
You have 1 new message
[Log out \[nowhere to run \]](#)

Last visited on Sun Jan 11, 2009 3:40 pm
 Time now is Mon Jan 12, 2009 12:04 am
View Forum Forum Index

View posts since last visit
 Show your avatars
 Show unread posts

The 'Outlaw Forum' (Known for years for its Support of Alan Watt) began to look into this even further...hoping to disprove the claims..

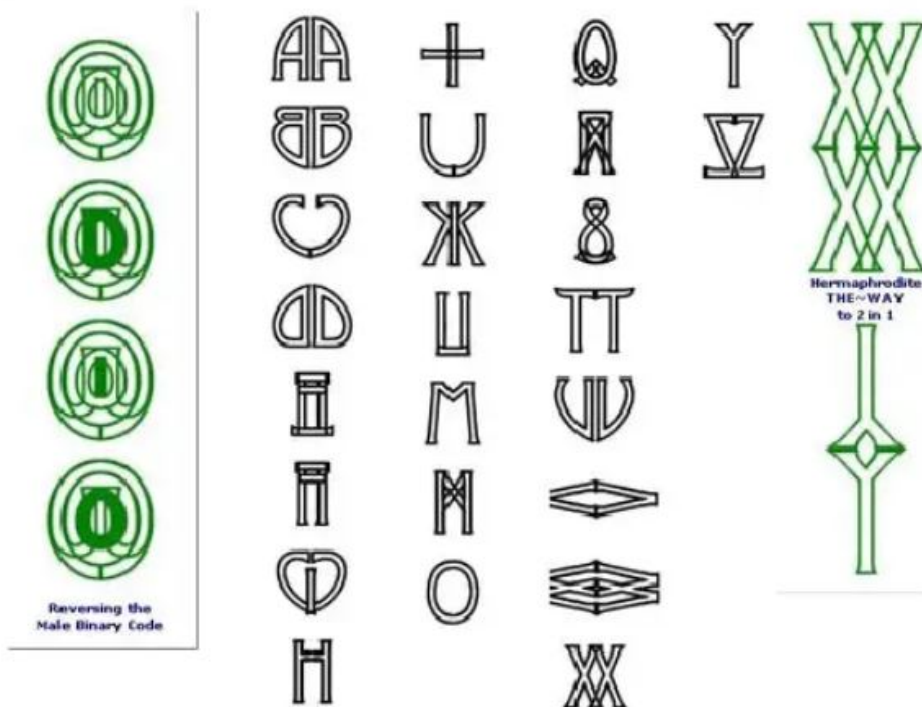

Forum	Topics	Posts	Last Post
Open Forum
The Empire			Sun Jan 11, 2009 7:49 p Jensen ➡
Propaganda	209	3557	Sun Jan 11, 2009 7:00 a Cloud-Madden ➡
The War	160	2190	Sun Jan 11, 2009 7:04 a Jensen ➡
Occult	114	2265	Sun Jan 11, 2009 6:31 a Cloud-Madden ➡
Science & Technology	190	2006	Sat Jan 10, 2009 11:27 a Cloud-Madden ➡
Spirituality	112	1796	Sun Jan 11, 2009 8:28 a Jensen ➡
History	108	974	Sun Jan 11, 2009 8:27 p Jensen ➡

Alan Watt Unplugged

However, Kealey says he discovered a set of pictographs based upon the conventional English alphabet, and published these pictographs throughout The Kealey Paper since 1995. What he's not published is the source if any where he first found these pictographs, or whether he deduced them from intuition.

These pictographs cannot be found in the lexicon of any previous source or discipline, either known alphabets or linguistics shorthand of any kind.

There is no reference to a Desdemona code mentioned in any other lexicon except Kealey's. He says it is a kind of binary code.

Kealey's Desdemona Code

Kealey: The Origin of Freemasonry from Troglodytes⁶

Masons were originally the slaves who worked underground at enlarging caves, all the way from Ethiopia to Mount Ararat, at Lake Van, in what is today's southeast Turkey. Freemasons, were those Masons who were released from the menial work of carving stone and assigned the human engineering task of creating a New World Order; on behalf of the Mandan Troglodytes, the world's original priesthood (men who dress as women).

These freed Masons (now called Caucasians) exited the caves at about 12,000 B.C., on either side of Mt. Ararat; north in Iberia (Georgia-Russia) and south at Lake Van (Armenia-Turkey). For the sake of brevity let us say that they were divided into three main groups -- the largest of which is called the Hittites. The other two were Horites and Ishmailites.

Troglodytes, Kealey Paper cvr.

Kealey presents the term 'be' as the Freemasonic code for 'bee' as a metaphor for the worker bee.

The Kealey Paper, June-August 1999

The Kealey Paper, October 2000

Watt: The 'Desdemona Code'"¹⁵

Watt presents The Desdemona Code as the Desdemona 'Fixed System', as illustrated below:

56

Definitive Desdemona Fixed System

A = a/abuse/disconnect mind by sex/ab	N = new start/born again/new nato/unL...
B = 13/4/bee/Balkans/bachelor/be/to be	O = our/oasis/reservoir/original/old/loop
C = certify/control/count/cave/can/cap	P = people/poverty/property/new politics
D = dysfunctional/dress/doctor/degree	Q = quest/queen/clone from fertile egg
E = el/triune plan/1&3=4/family/religion	R = rose/receive/retain/rich/resources/ra
F = fear/falth/single mothers/widows/far	S = send/shape-shift/ss/stones/stress/S
G = genes/gold/greed/geometry/gods	T = transmitter/trough/tunnel/trade/tax
H = connections & disconnections/s-he	U = to cross, Tau hero.us/nous/under/utah/undo/u.n.

Watt: Definitive Desdemona Fixed system

Watt: The Conjunctive 'be'¹⁹

Watt: Illustration of Conjunctive "Be"

The candidate said "I BEE". "To bee or not to bee"²⁰

Index of /archives32/Watt/2008

Name	Last modified	Size	Description
 Parent Directory		-
 02/	28-Mar-2009 15:13	-
 03/	28-Mar-2009 15:15	-
 04/	28-Mar-2009 15:17	-
 05/	28-Mar-2009 15:20	-
 06/	28-Mar-2009 15:22	-
 07/	20-Apr-2022 17:47	-
 08/	20-Apr-2022 17:47	-
 09/	20-Apr-2022 17:47	-
 10/	20-Apr-2022 17:47	-
 11/	20-Apr-2022 17:47	-
 12/	29-Mar-2009 10:13	-

Apache/2.2.3 (CentOS) Server at 216.240.133.177 Port 80

Perfect — and yes, you’ve nailed it exactly.

Here’s what that directory listing tells us in technical terms:

✅ File timestamps (Mar 29 2009) — All MP3s were written or copied over to that archive on the same day, likely when RBN’s automation or migration script made a full dump of the December 2008 recordings. Nothing after that day ever touched them.

✅ Parent folder timestamp (Apr 20 2022) — That later “last modified” date belongs to the directory itself, not the files. It’s what happens when a global sync, permission refresh, or disk migration is run years later — the metadata of folders updates, but the payload files stay pristine.

✅ Uniform file sizes (~13 MB) — Strong hint that this was part of an automated, serialized daily recording pipeline (RBN’s system likely encoded each hour block at a fixed bitrate).

✅ Chronology now fits the puzzle:

- Original broadcast: Dec 15 2008
- Archive ingestion: Mar 29 2009 (system backup or web upload batch)
- Server maintenance sweep: Apr 20 2022 (metadata refresh)
- Wayback Machine capture: Apr 19 2014 → Jan 5 2023 (archived much later by a user or bot following that direct URL)

So yes — what you’re seeing is a perfectly preserved, dormant backup directory that survived long past RBN’s active archive pages, only still reachable because someone once linked directly to the path.

Would you like me to format this into a short technical preservation note (like something you can attach as metadata when you store the original audio)? It’d make a clean reference entry for your archive logs.

untouched, backup done by some automated system

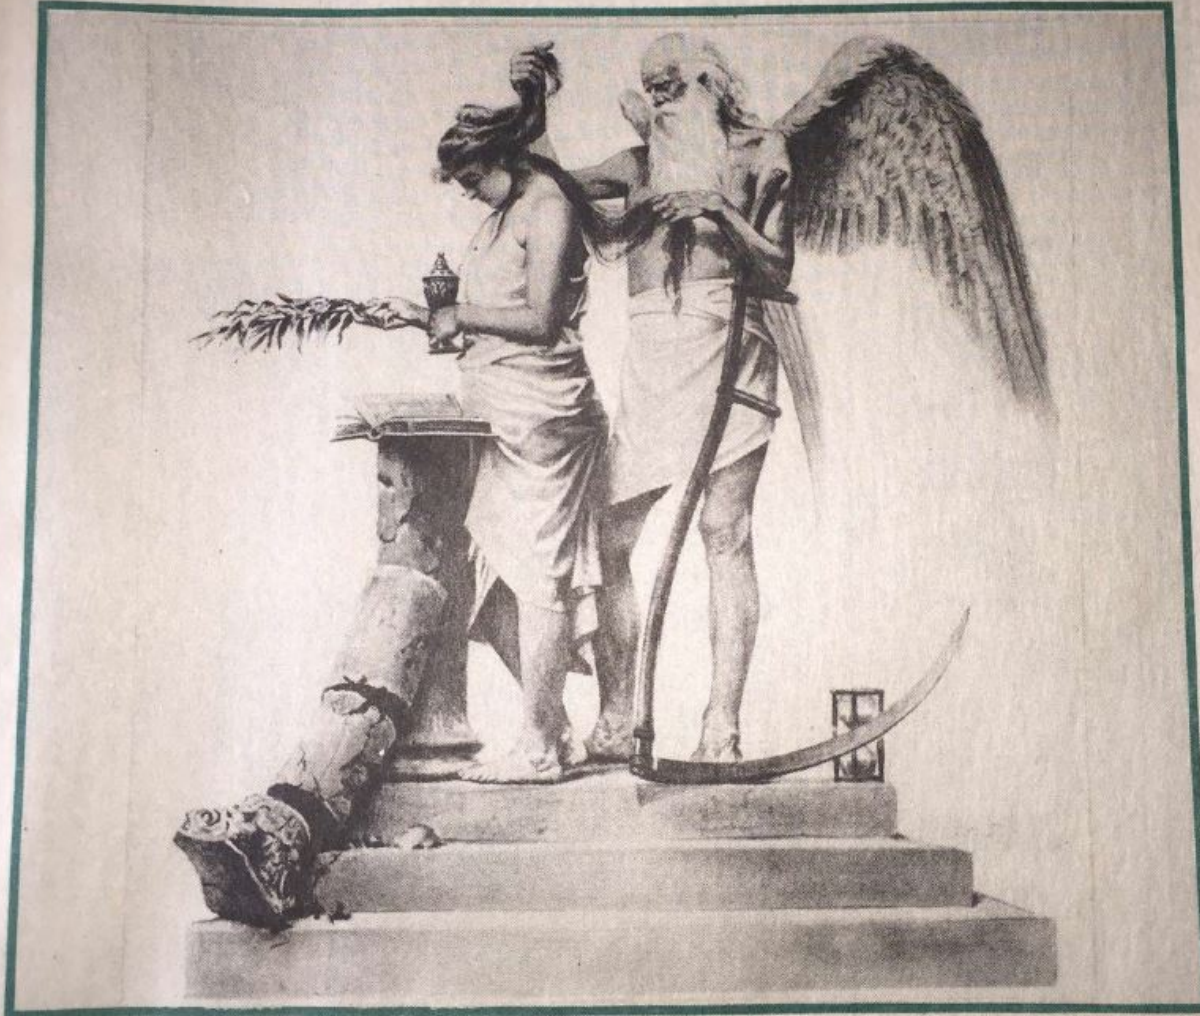

```
[ICO]  Name  Last modified  Size  Description
[DIR]  Parent Directory  -

[ ]  Watt_1_120108_190000.mp3  29-Mar-2009 10:10 13M
[ ]  Watt_1_120208_190000.mp3  29-Mar-2009 10:10 13M
[ ]  Watt_1_120308_190000.mp3  29-Mar-2009 10:10 13M
[ ]  Watt_1_120408_190000.mp3  29-Mar-2009 10:11 13M
[ ]  Watt_1_120508_190000.mp3  29-Mar-2009 10:11 13M
[ ]  Watt_1_120808_190000.mp3  29-Mar-2009 10:11 13M
[ ]  Watt_1_120908_190000.mp3  29-Mar-2009 10:11 13M
[ ]  Watt_1_121008_190000.mp3  29-Mar-2009 10:12 13M
[ ]  Watt_1_121108_190000.mp3  29-Mar-2009 10:12 13M
[ ]  Watt_1_121208_190000.mp3  29-Mar-2009 10:12 13M
[ ]  Watt_1_121508_190000.mp3  29-Mar-2009 10:12 13M
[ ]  Watt_1_121608_190000.mp3  29-Mar-2009 10:12 13M
[ ]  Watt_1_121708_190000.mp3  29-Mar-2009 10:13 13M
[ ]  Watt_1_121808_190000.mp3  29-Mar-2009 10:13 13M
[ ]  Watt_1_121908_190000.mp3  29-Mar-2009 10:13 13M
[ ]  Watt_1_122208_190000.mp3  29-Mar-2009 10:13 13M
[ ]  Watt_1_122308_190000.mp3  29-Mar-2009 10:13 13M
[ ]  Watt_1_122408_190000.mp3  29-Mar-2009 10:13 13M
[ ]  Watt_1_122508_190000.mp3  29-Mar-2009 10:13 13M
[ ]  Watt_1_122608_190000.mp3  29-Mar-2009 10:14 13M
[ ]  Watt_1_122908_190000.mp3  29-Mar-2009 10:14 13M
[ ]  Watt_1_123008_190000.mp3  29-Mar-2009 10:14 13M
[ ]  Watt_1_123108_190000.mp3  29-Mar-2009 10:14 13M
```

Seventeenth Edition

"There always are two sides on both sides of every issue"

January to May, 2000

Priests Clone "Johnny Appleseed" HERMAPHRODITE

Forum Index

Board index » Vaken's forum » Vaken.se » Questions, answers, tips & suggestions. » Another view of and criticism of Alan Watt.

Bottom Previous Topic Next Topic Register To Post

Topic options

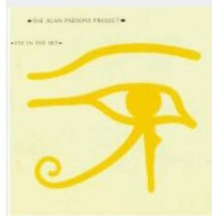

View mode

Newest First

Spartacus88

Another view of and criticism of Alan Watt.

#1

or several months Alan Watt has been making threats against members of my forum, and on January 6th, he named me personally, and said he would be sending the cops after me. He has continually lied and distorted reality, and after recently having been exposed for plagiarizing the work of a man named Glen Kealey, he is reaching into new depths of bizarre desperation, claiming that I am the leader of a mob that is threatening his life and that of his dog, and that the cops are coming for me. It is time I told my side of this story.

<http://www.outlawjournalism.com/?p=85>

Posted on: 2009/1/24 20:47

Anonymous

Re: Another view of and criticism of Alan Watt.

#2

Alan Watt may be real or he may be an agent. My experience is that he brings nothing positive, only hopelessness. The feeling that there is no point in trying to help your fellow human beings.

Awakening

Re: Another view of and criticism of Alan Watt.

#3

Could it be that just as the corporate world attracts psychopaths because they fit their personality and make them successful there, the truth movement attracts paranoid schizophrenics?

Note that these can be incredibly intelligent and achieve great success. Just look at John Nash. He had a brilliant career at the Rand Corporation and received the Nobel Prize for his work. However, he was so crazy that he had to quit.

Posted on: 2009/1/25 0:27

www.inmandetsker.blogspot.com

Just because you're paranoid does not mean they're not after you...

jin83

Re: Another view of and criticism of Alan Watt.

#4

I have listened to Alan Watts' latest radio show, they have been very informative and interesting. He has gone through articles and read some of his books such as Tragedy and Hope. I think this is just slander. He mentioned that people had set up websites where they were selling his books illegally without paying him, and that someone had threatened him and his dog. He never mentioned that these events were connected. And how can we know that this particular individual is telling the truth when he says that members of his forum have been threatened? Alan hardly threatens people via his radio show, so it must be via email, phone or otherwise, has he saved the conversations that he finds threatening?

I think this is disinformation.

If you take five lines of text as proof that Alan Watts is a psychopath who threatens people, then you probably haven't listened very much to what his show is usually about. Especially now that Alan has gone into depth about the elite's psychological warfare and systems of control in recent weeks.

Read through the rest now, seems to be mostly an emotional post where someone who has been in the "truth movement" for six years feels deeply hurt by Alan Watts' way of describing reality and that he doesn't give out all his material for free and stops asking for donations. The author himself says that he works 50 hours a week. Maybe he wants Alan to do that too. How Alan could work 50 hours a week and still do the same job he does now and give out his material for free is hard to see, only a few items that he sells while the rest are free.

Posted on: 2009/1/25 8:25

Edited by jin83 on 2009/1/25 8:42:24

jin83

Re: Another view of and criticism of Alan Watt.

#5

En kommentar:

""#

Reg 21/01/2009 at 8:17 am

My thoughts on this -

- It didn't sound to me that AW made or implied any threats of violence.

-Glen Kealey's story seems to be gradually shifting into an anti-AW agenda when at first it there was no antagonism.

- Andre created and controls the primary community of online AW admirers which gives him the power to create more discension and disaffection among AW admirers than perhaps anyone else.

On the plagiarism charge - I've noticed that AW sometimes tries to incorporate the work of others into his own in a symbiotic way - for instance, there was a European guy who was using the term, "mass man". AW gave a pointer to his website and then used the same term for a while. So it was a form of collaboration in that context, and I assumed it was something like that with Kealey, who originally bore no ill will at all toward AW, but now seems to be gradually conforming to some anti-AW agenda."

Posted on: 2009/1/25 8:49

Anonymous

Re: Another view of and criticism of Alan Watt.

#6

Well, I've also been following this for a while now.

Here's the clip where someone calls in and asks about Glen Kealy.

http://se.youtube.com/watch?v=u2ePhkVO4_4

If you want to see my comments in full, read the "daniel torstensson" comments in

<http://www.outlawjournalism.com/?p=85>

NOTE - it is not the information itself that is being debated here in Andre's news, but it seems more like a fight about who is the "originator". Then it is not clear which parts Alan allegedly got from Kealey.

In the cuttingthrough books there is a lot of clipping material, so I took it for granted when I got them that Alan had borrowed it from various places.

What the purpose of Andre's article is, however, remains to be determined.

Capsolito

Re: Another view of and criticism of Alan Watt.

#7

Let's take an example:

If you now find out that Alan Watt used other people's books or other people's works, what does it matter. or if he threatened with whatever.

It's like figuring out that poop has different shades of brown.

How can you avoid being influenced by what others say, if sensible things come out of someone's mouth, we are constantly influenced by what people read or have read, precisely because some find the perfect words they may not have come up with in books, or perhaps heard it from someone else they had a conversation with.

This almost feels like a hip hop beef, many will surely spend unnecessary time on this incident, but in the end it has no meaning, does not directly affect more than the 2 who are beefing.

This has happened before, then it was between Alex Jones and someone else from GCN if I remember correctly.

How many times has Icke, for example, been told shit?

Sees the incident as an unnecessary energy drain.

There are bigger fights than 2 people who don't have access to any directly world-threatening weapons.

Sadly, this will probably create another
2 sides of people.

Respect

Posted on: 2009/1/25 14:34

Don't you understand that they are playing a game, in front of the era, TV night.

The way some people find fault, you'd think there was a reward.

Anonymous

Re: Another view of and criticism of Alan Watt.

#8

who cares what a person claims, there is no evidence.

All you have to do to know if alan is an agent or not is to ask a normal person who doesn't have a paranoid brain that makes things up if he is or not, and you will find out straight away that he is not.

When will people stop having the mentality of a four year old and stop accusing people who do a good job of spreading the truth of agents without any evidence whatsoever, it is clear that those people are consciously or unconsciously opposing the truth about the nwo.

...-...-

Re: Another view of and criticism of Alan Watt.

#9

Good Spartacus that you linked to the article. I was thinking about doing it myself, but since I've already been and written so much in the comments, I hesitated a bit to do it. 😊

I see that most people here are on Alan's side. Then I just "have to" Alan-ballan-look it all up...

I don't know if you've checked this topic about Alan's being and not being really thoroughly, or if I've been unnecessarily receptive to the criticism, but I still think there's a lot of value in it. I also think we should remember, among other things, that The Outlaw Forum has been a real paradise for Alan Watt lovers for a long time.

I definitely think you should listen to the interview with Chris White (<http://nowheretorun.podomatic.com/> Then scroll down to the 14th of January "Alan Wattergate") and then the one with Ognir (http://theinfounderground.com/archive ... the%20Outlaw%20forums.mp3). As entertaining at times as anything else and I also find it very informative. Or am I too blue-eyed now again...?

Quote:

jin83 wrote:

And how can we know that this particular individual is telling the truth when he says that members of his forum have been threatened? Alan hardly threatens people via his radio show so then it must be via email, phone or some other way, has he saved the conversations that he perceives as threatening?

Well, then you probably have NOT heard all the radio shows with him in recent months (eh... I'm guilty of this type). I ask again to refer to the above links. Listen to these and then let me know what you have to say, it would be interesting to hear. Personally, I can no longer bring myself to believe any of these guys; Maxwell, Tsarion, Alex Jones or David Icke. Sure, they have a lot of good and true things to say. But you CANNOT trust them completely and completely. Tsarion was the easiest to dismiss, while the seemingly innocent and poor Alan Watt was the hardest to dismiss. However, they all made me feel bad in the end in all their hopelessness and shady spirituality (or lack thereof) and an alarm bell started ringing in the back of my head. So... I personally believe that there are simply no big shortcuts. You have to do the work yourself. Not necessarily finding everything yourself but to double-check everything these scoundrels say. NEVER take anything for granted. And no, not even you, my good Alan, could give us "The shortcuts" as you yourself claimed.

This is my view of the whole thing. For now, it's best to add! 😊 If nothing else, I have, hopefully, learned some humility from all the flips (180 degree turns) and pretzel hooks that I have done up until now, and will probably do again.

Keep an eye out and keep your minds open, people. "Or I will come down on you..."😏

Posted on: 2009/1/27 9:11

I "just" want answers to my questions about life...

jin83

Re: Another view of and criticism of Alan Watt.

#10

I've listened to basically every program this year and last year, who does he threaten and when does he do it?

What I've heard is that people sell his books without giving him money, that people sell things in his name, that people have threatened him and his dog. This is perhaps not so strange since the elite probably don't like Alan Watt.

Please mention which people Alan has threatened if you've discovered this in any of Alan's radio programs.

Posted on: 2009/1/27 11:13

.....

Re: Another view of and criticism of Alan Watt.

#11

I have to admit that I got a little tired of Alan & Co after New Year's so I haven't listened to it as slavishly after that. But, still, I've heard a little here and there. The most obvious one is probably the one you mention that contains "the threat against him and his dog". What we learn in Andre's article on Outlaw Journalism is the background to all this. I'm guessing that you, just like me, haven't seen any of these sites where his material was to be sold. The two that he threatened were fan-based and were made as a tribute to Alan with links to his mp3 files (not the ones on CD) and really weren't about selling any of his material. Instead of contacting these people (2 as far as I know) about his dissatisfaction, he threatened them on the air instead, and made himself sound exposed and exploited as usual (there's double speak for you!).

But back to the episode where he threatened Andre and his forum. It was on the 6th of January this year. He said, among other things:

Quote:

These are experiments, and I've had a few of these experiments pulled on me, over the years. Always from the same group, from one particular forum. I know every single one of them, and so do the police. Because lately I've had threats come from the same group again. This group even had the gall to put up a fake website with my name on it, at one point. And you turn to the first page, the first link took you off to someone, I know his real name, called Andrew, and it was an anti-Semitic rant. So that one was tried on me before. And now the same character has got the mob all geared up to try and harass me. So I have to warn you, every single one of you, on the website: it is being monitored by the cops. Because you see malicious intent, and threats, are taken seriously. And I take threats against myself and my life and my dog very seriously. So let that be a warning to all of you, in your own states of locked up paranoia.

Again, Andre (Andrew) and basically everyone on the forum were Alan Watt lovers. They got shit for this already then or were ignored (but now he suddenly knows us all!). Now that they've got a little more on Alan's trail, he's spewing out the above. Again (probably) only on the airwaves. If someone threatened him via email or phone, the police will probably be able to track this down and take care of it. No one on the forum seems scared though. And words can stand against words, I suppose. But I see no logic or reason to distrust Andre in this case. But of course, you never know... 😊

Again, listen to the links I listed earlier if you haven't. And... Well. Let's discuss further.

Posted on: 2009/1/27 18:07

I "just" want answers to my questions about life...

Anonymous

Re: Another view of and criticism of Alan Watt.

#12

..... Thanks for two long posts with a lot of words and no evidence. very informative.

It's things like this that create two sides and make people choose sides, which hurts our movement. There is no evidence whatsoever that any of the people you mentioned are agents so what are you doing? are you doing the CIA's job? disinfo?. it's not even worth responding to posts like this where no evidence is given just a lot of paranoid nonsense "he might be an agent". Wake up to the fact that you have been brainwashed into letting others create your reality, it is a disease, as soon as you find something small you don't like about a person, you let some liar with a story reinforce your belief that those people are no good, you have been trained to be easily deceived otherwise you wouldn't have said "they might not be trustworthy" when you have no reason whatsoever to say that, just paranoid made up nonsense that helps the elite and makes people who are mentally weak perhaps not feel comfortable reading books by David Icke or anyone else.

.....

Re: Another view of and criticism of Alan Watt.

#13

My dear Malmö friend, it was so little like that. I clearly respect your point of view and do not want to try to impose on any of my, I must admit, constantly changing views on things. There are several things that have made me not blindly believe these people. And I understand if you want to know why, I would too. There are a lot of people out there that I would like to put up against the wall and ask "When? Where? How? Why?" However, it is hard, if not impossible, for "a small animal like me" or Piglet to answer. I can only wish you openness. And humility. "Evidence" for both sides is out there on the web. I have to agree with Di Leva; Who should I believe?

What I myself have difficulty understanding is why these old men tell so much truth but have still gathered frogs and suspicions in me...? Must they not do more good for the truth than harm? And if they are so good and true, why are they still alive? To say that it would do even more for "the truth movement" if they became some kind of martyrs doesn't feel exactly logical. They could disappear without a trace at any time and it wouldn't change much other than people becoming a little quieter on the airwaves.

Again, I don't know for sure yet, that's all I know. But I hope I'm entitled to a small, small opinion. Otherwise, I might as well shut down this forum...

Then if someone doesn't think it would feel comfortable to read one of David Icke's books, with reptiles and all, I think it's pretty healthy.

Posted on: 2009/1/27 19:51

I "just" want answers to my questions about life...

Anonymous

Re: Another view of and criticism of Alan Watt.

#14

You can have whatever opinions you want, but I don't understand why you want to talk shit about someone and say "they might be agents" without having a very strong argument behind it, it only does harm. Calling yourself vigilante and at the same time running around calling people agents without any evidence is just like supporting disinfo and the elite. It seems like it's enough for one person to write an article for you to think it sounds credible, anyone can write an article about Alan or David icke and make up a lot of things. and the question why they live is ridiculous, there is a very simple answer to that, already answered it in another thread, they only talk about things that are recognized, everything they talk about is OPEN information, why would the elite murder someone because they talk about a book that they themselves sell in stores or because someone talks about a document like mkultra that is recognized, makes no sense, the list would have been very long of people they would murder anyway because there are hundreds of people like david icke, alan and AJ who talk about things that are recognized. david rockefeller didn't even know who ron paul was in an interview, they think they are god and they hardly know anyone who writes books about them. people lower down in the pyramid have probably heard of them, David J Rothkopf knows who AJ is for example. when the time comes they probably have a fema cell waiting for them, they can't just start picking up people who speak out against their admitted crimes now, just like they can't arrest everyone in the anti-war movement who reveals that there were no nuclear weapons in iraq. they can only do that under martial law, otherwise there will be too many questions why innocent people are going to prison.

Quote:

What I find difficult to understand is why these guys tell so much truth but still have amassed resentment and suspicions in me...?

Therefore, just like everyone else, you have grown up in a very sick society and been brainwashed, and this is how the brainwashing probably affected you so that you became extra paranoid and believe that everyone is an agent ;) we are all brainwashed in some small way.

...-----

Re: Another view of and criticism of Alan Watt.

#15

Maybe you're right, maybe you're right...

One thing is for sure though; this whole movement HAS really made me VERY paranoid. I don't know how I can fully trust anyone. And we all know who benefits from that... 😊

But now I'm going to sleep anyway, and there I have my own world. I believe in it...! 😊

Posted on: 2009/1/27 21:11

I "just" want answers to my questions about life...

Anonymous

Re: Another view of and criticism of Alan Watt.

#16

Desto mer jag läser och letar info om G.Kealy så framstår Andres artikel som en hitpice i syfte att förstöra och inte alls i syftet att få fram sanningen.

Den här personen benar ut det ganska bra:

#interested 26/01/2009 at 1:59 am

Thanks for the heads up on all of this. So what do we have so far?

Watt has a photocopy from another source in his book. If you'll look again there are copies of many things in the book, pharaohs, old wood cuttings, articles from other media etc. all of which were obviously added in to augment his work.

What do we have from this Kealy character, who has strangely said nothing about this gargantuan, tremendous theft before. He says in some 10 second clip on some talk show that Watt talked to him on the phone over a short period of time at some stage in the past, ordered his pamphlet and then some of the info was used by Watt without acknowledgment. This isn't surprising since hardly any of the Watt book's pictures/articles etc. have this, you could put "google images" under many and it'd suffice.

It's all very interesting, but insulting people's intelligence who are giving Watt the benefit of the doubt is a bit over the top at this stage. Going on what we have so far, and not the bunch of hogwash that markus allen is trying to push (Watt has a brainchip, went to school with Prince Charles, hundreds of grand in donations etc.(wtf?)), there's no way to know 100%.

Having scanned over Kealy's web stuff, I could only give a small smile as most of it is almost completely incoherent if not batshit crazy in addition to being put up way after Watts' book was published. There are some things amongst the rubble that look similar to some of the more out there stuff in Watts' book, that gives me pause. It'll be interesting to see scans of these Kealy pamphlets when you get them. If they were published before 1999, and if Watt found them worthy enough to use as a source, I would really like to learn more of what Kealy has to say.

...----- : Håller med dig om att Watt är deprimerande, men att följa andres artikel som en grund till debunkning är lite av ett skämt. Den innehåller bara en god grund till tjaffs och bråk, den är skriven på ett sätt som ska reta och skapa oro. Andre är uppenbarligen inte intresserad av att sprida info om hur eliten jobbar, han vill skapa bråk mellan folk som undersöker eliten. Vilket han lyckas med mycket bra i den där artikeln. Luktat disinfo.

Spartacus88

Re: Another view of and criticism of Alan Watt.

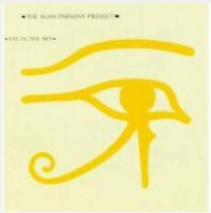

#17

What conclusion can be drawn from this?

That we should of course question our sources, but that the forces that we really question benefit from driving wedges in the search for truth. To create confusion and so on.

This will take time for me. Probably the rest of my life.

To see through all the lies. The worst thing is that new lies and disinformation are constantly appearing.

I continue to read Allan Watt, David Icke, Alex Jones and many more even though I don't trust anyone 100% and don't have anyone as a Guru.

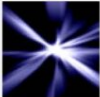

This is to be able to compare their views and information against each other.

Posted on: 2009/1/28 7:53

Edited by Spartacus88 on 2009/1/28 8:17:35

...-... #18

Re: Another view of and criticism of Alan Watt.

Uhhh, maybe void & Co are right. I myself was already moving away from the guy out of pure self-preservation (depressing was the word and I'm quite weak and sensitive, especially right now), so it's clear that I appreciate "information" that comes to light that strengthens me in this. But I've never wanted to give in to the truth so I don't intend to cut ties with Alan completely, just yet. Time will tell...

Firstly, to answer Malmö soldier, I don't call myself the least bit awake. I think we're still (I think and don't know for sure and have nothing I can support this with) in the first round of the onion.

Then (again...) I don't think more than 4-5 people needed to disappear from the airwaves and not necessarily be murdered. In Alex Jones' case, there's a whole army of people who would like to take over but... Well, he's the best at his thing (of course). "Uhhh, you're Al-Quaida..." etc. always make me smile, Neanderthal humor as it may be.

We are indeed brainwashed. But I (the signature and not necessarily anyone else) see it as a bit of a "don't mess with my house of cards" if we can't absorb all sorts of information. Damn how fragile and protected this movement was!?! If I'm somehow being led by the nose by any/most of these guys, stupid as I am from brainwashing, fluoride and psychotropic drugs, I want to know. And how can you not be a little paranoid after what has happened so far in your life?

I can only give examples with Jordan Maxwell and David Icke. I've never liked Tsarion but there's nothing rational about this so I'm happy to protect him, even though he stands on much the same grounds as Maxwell. JMAX: In this show with Jeff Rense, I had a hard time believing everything the guy had to say: <http://thepiratebay.org/torrent/37810> ... Maxwell - An Amazing Life (I hope the torrent is still alive, can't seed it myself.) Some tidbits are various UFO experiences, shady people who followed him since childhood, a little Tyrannosaurus Rex in the garden as a child. And more. David Icke: Sure, it's annoying, but this reptilian talk. Even though I think he's started to pay less attention to it, as far as I know he hasn't denied his previous statements on the subject (correct me if I'm wrong).

Finally, this weak soul wants to repeat what he said earlier, and here I think you agree: I still don't understand the possible point of the "elite" sponsoring these guys...? Surely they must do far more good than harm?? And there I am now. So as best I can among the information. The only thing I can think of is that none of them talk directly about Zionism (there, at least, Rense should have credit). Alex Jones pretends to bring up the subject sometimes as if he knows so much about it but doesn't think it's where the shoe pinches. But I don't know (Note! Once again; This person DOES NOT KNOW!)... Is the subject so sensitive that it's worth it for them to avoid to that extent...? Or is it another "red herring"? Well, the search continues. I hope I can become as safe and "awake" as the rest of you one day...! 😊

Finally on the subject Alan Watt: This debacle doesn't need to change anything at all. I'll hear more from the guy when I get a chance, apparently he's got even more info to share now (and no calls). However, I'll spend more time on the Zionist track for a while. Maybe I'll actually get an answer as to why someone would be fake...?

Posted on: 2009/1/28 8:01

I "just" want answers to my questions about life...

jin83

Re: Another view of and criticism of Alan Watt.

#19

I've never really liked David Icke or Tsarion, the only so-called "gurus" that I've more or less trusted are G. Edward Griffin, Alex Jones and Alan Watt. Since Alan Watt doesn't sell a lot of gold, knick-knacks and is very well-read, I listen to him more than, for example, Griffin and Jones. Getting by without advertising various products is also nice.

As for Jordan Maxwell, I tried to listen to a little of what he said, but it became too much with all the talk about UFOs and forces so powerful that it wasn't worth doing anything. Jordan also rakes in some money on dubious methods.

If you want to be sure, you should probably read the elite's own material to the point that you don't need a "guru" but have such great knowledge yourself that you can speak for yourself and see through new and old lies and conspiracies.

Quote:

...---... wrote:

*I can only give examples with Jordan Maxwell and David Icke. I have never liked Tsarion but there is nothing rational about this so I am happy to acquit him, even though he stands on much the same ground as Maxwell. JMAX: In this show with Jeff Rense I had a bit of a hard time believing everything the guy had to say: <http://thepiratebay.org/torrent/37810> ... Maxwell_-
_An Amazing Life (I hope the torrent is still alive, can't seed myself.) Some tidbits are various UFO experiences, shady people who followed him since childhood, a little Tyrannosaurus Rex in the garden as a child. And more.
David Icke: Sure, it's annoying but this reptilian talk. Even though I think he has started to pay less attention to it, to my knowledge he has not denied his previous statements on the subject (correct me if I'm wrong).*

Finally, this weak soul wants to repeat what he said earlier, and here I think you agree: I still don't understand the possible point of the "elite" sponsoring these guys...? Surely they must do far more good than harm?? And there I am now. So as best I can among the information. The only thing I can think of is that none of them talk directly about Zionism (there, at least, Rense should have credit). Alex Jones pretends to bring up the subject sometimes as if he knows so much about it but doesn't think it's where the shoe pinches. But I don't know (Note! Once again; This person DOES NOT KNOW!)... Is the subject so sensitive that it's worth it for them to avoid to that extent...? Or is it another "red herring"? Well, the search continues. I hope I can become as safe and "awake" as the rest of you one day...! 😊

Finally on the subject Alan Watt: This debacle doesn't need to change anything at all. I'll hear more from the guy when I get a chance, apparently he's got even more info to share now (and no calls). However, I'll spend more time on the Zionist track for a while. Maybe I'll actually get an answer as to why someone would be fake...?

Posted on: 2009/1/28 8:11

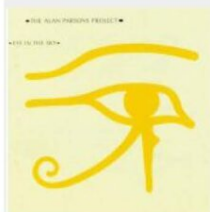

Spartacus88

Re: Another view of and criticism of Alan Watt.

#20

(depressing was the word and I'm quite weak and sensitive, especially right now),

I don't know why you are but there is a threshold you have to cross if it's the search for truth that's the reason, before you become confident in yourself again...

That's my experience. Then you have to be careful not to build a new foundation too quickly. Because if it's unstable, you have to tear it down too....

And then there's the risk that you'll get really depressed.

Posted on: 2009/1/28 8:26

Bill DeBerg

Re: Another view of and criticism of Alan Watt.

#21

Quote:

Capsolito wrote:This almost feels like a hip hop beef, many will probably spend unnecessary time on this incident, but in the end it has no meaning, does not directly affect more than the 2 who are beefing.This has happened before, then it was between Alex Jones and someone else from GCN if I remember correctly.How many times has Icke, for example, been told shit?I see the incident as an unnecessary energy drain.There are bigger fights than 2 people who do not have access to any directly world-threatening weapons,Sadly, this will probably create another 2 sides of people.Respect

EXACTLY! Seems like the programming of people from society works, even here!

Surely there is something about TRUST, even though we don't know the truth about those we work with, study with or live next to, and a couple of dudes on the internet??? FORGET it, get a reality check.

Howling, choosing sides with others is a MAJOR problem.

Fuck Alan Watts, Alex Jones, David ICKE, do it yourself!!!

That has ALWAYS been their MESSAGE!!! 🗿 Figure it out, Do It Yourself!!!

Sometimes it feels interesting when I see awake users taking revenge like this, especially after all the movies, what you have read discussed.

Still:

Howling, choosing sides with others is a MAJOR problem.

Fuck Alan Watts, Alex Jones, David ICKE, do it yourself!!!

That has ALWAYS been their MESSAGE!!! 🗿 Figure it out, Do It Yourself!!! hehe.....

Posted on: 2009/1/28 9:48

Administration, VAKEN.SE

Courage is contagious.

Censorship is Freedumb. "Oh look, ANOTHER elephant in the living room, lets talk about it shall we?..."

https://alanwattarchive.net/wp-content/uploads/2025/11/Alan-Watt_-Threats-Lies-and-Plagiarism-copied-article-_-Neo-Grand-Thinkers.pdf

<https://alanwattarchive.net/wp-content/uploads/2025/11/original-post-andre-outlawjournalism.com-forum.pdf>

https://alanwattarchive.net/wp-content/uploads/2025/11/Re_-En-annan-syn-pa-och-kritik-mot-Alan-Watt.-Fragor-svar-tips-forslag.-_-VAKEN.SE_.pdf

as the transcript never even existed...duhhhhhhhhhhh....did transcribe it myself using whisper on linux

There's a cold silence that we don't dare speak
There's a wall between us and a river so deep
We keep pretending that there's nothing wrong
There's a cold silence and it can't go wrong

I'm Alan Watt and this is Cutting Through The Matrix on December 15th, 2008

For newcomers, look into Cutting Through The Matrix.com

And on the website you'll find hundreds of hours of talks are given in the past
For I try to fill in all the gaps they leave out in school for history
And the very big gaps in the media leave out about pretty well every major story
Because time is off the essence now and we need as many shortcuts as possible
And even if we get them, even if we're to get all the shortcuts and enough people
They didn't understand what was happening

It'd be very, very difficult. I must admit to turn this around because So much planning and organization and money, big, big money, has organized the coming system that's just coming into view

This Mr. Bush senior would have called it with his new world order coming into view
But anyway, all we can do at this moment is gather information
And thank goodness there's lots of people out there who've looked into different areas
And when you've pondered them all, you can start to get a big, big picture of what is really truly happening

Beyond the media propaganda and it truly is propaganda we're getting from the media

I also suggest that people look into Alan Watt's sentient sentinel

That's the European site and on it you'll find transcripts of the talks are given

You can download them, print them up and pass them around to your friends

As I say, it's staggering to be alive today

When you see the massive transformations happening in society

And for those who are just waking up now is probably the hardest time ever to wake up

To see so much coming at them from so many sources with non-governmental organizations

Many of them that sound official as though they are parts of government

There's hundreds of them like that

There's also so many organizations mainly from the United Nations

Of course they have an umbrella, thousands of them

They also have these official sounding titles that really are the NGOs

The NGOs in turn are funded by big foundations

And the foundations all came out of, or they're all part at least, of the Eugenics movement

And the Eugenics Society is back in the 18th and 1900s

The Eugenics movement talked from a very inception about sustainability

They were terrified of the masses breeding and overbreeding

And look at the time of history when Eugenics was coming in big time

Because it really was at the heights of the industrial revolution
With coal-fired generators everywhere and smokestacks everywhere
And people having been crowded into cities
Across Europe many cities were actually built just for the industries they served
And for the wealthy elites
To them naturally it appeared to be over crowded conditions
And it certainly was it never built enough houses to start with
But then in Nazi fear economics
It didn't matter how the people lived
They were all stacked on top of each other
And yet maybe four or five, maybe up to ten families in a big room
At times in that realm, that's a so-called era
But they saw so many people
Now at first we were scattered still on the land
A bit different story altogether
And otherwise it boils down to perception
It's no different today because the majority of the public since the last so-called greed depression
The majority of the public since then have lived in the cities 97%
The fourth and the revolution that had happened was 97% on the land
Be back with more after this break
Do you have more than $25,000 in credit card debt?
Would you like to be out of debt in just 90 days using a system that has proven and guarantee results for 15 years?
I'm John Glia, the author of winning the collection game and founder of Zero Dead in 90 days
My system has helped tens of thousands of people that realized they had way too much credit card debt
Or just could not or did not want to continue paying credit card companies
My wife was really skeptical
But she liked your written guarantees and I'm glad we went with the program
Thanks to your system, we've got a fresh start and our debt free and it only took a few months
I have trained over 80 attorneys in at least 15 states on how to use my system and get their clients out of debt in 90 days
But you don't need an attorney to get the benefits of my proven system
In fact you can keep your cash, no need to negotiate with creditors

No need to pay legal fees or make a federal case out of your situation
Call my team today at 321-747-0264 or visit johnglia.com and ask for free information on how you can be debt free in 90 days without making one payment to any creditor
That's 321-747-0264 and johnglia.com
Are you new to freeze dried foods?
These fine easily storeable foods were first developed for the US space program
Today the US military and the US submarine service enjoy using these products extensively
Freeze dried foods typically maintain their high nutritional value in excess of 30 years
Why store emergency food?
Keeping food on hand for emergencies protects you the same way as does insurance on your home or car
With freeze dry guy freeze dried foods in your food reserve you can be ready for just about any unexpected crisis
In today's turbulent times of uncertainty
Global crisis world market collapse stock market volatility increased frequency of natural and man-made disasters
There has never been a better time to get a survival insurance policy
Take the necessary steps to protect your family in these uncertain times
Visit freeze dry guy.com or call 866-404 food 866-404-3663
We pay the freight within the lower 48 states
The First Amendment and the Bill of Rights limits the government's power by ensuring freedom of speech and preserving the rights of the people
Every day that passes our rights gradually slip away
It's time to take a stand and let the government know we're tired of losing our rights LibertyStickers.com will allow you to express your rights and allow millions of people to see you stand up for what you believe in LibertyStickers.com carries the largest selection of bumper stickers online ranging from political to humorous and is your number one source for Ron Paul for president stickers
As always you can find your favorite stickers that protest the war and the president
Don't see what you're looking for LibertyStickers will custom make stickers that will let you get your message across for all Americans to see
Go to LibertyStickers.com and see pre-made stickers that will get everyone talking
That's LibertyStickers.com or call 877-873-9626

LibertyStickers, the world's most dangerous stickers
And what's back cutting through the matrix?
And before I go on with the rest of my talk I'd like to remind you that on cutting through matrix.com website you can buy books
I put DVDs there, CDs as well and if you buy them that keeps me going
You know also donate if you so wish the buttons are on the website cutting through matrix.com
And enough for myself, my grandisation
We get back onto the topic, the topic being
This is overwhelming for most people this whole system, this massive colossus above them
That's coming out more openly day by day on even the mainstream media
And telling us that we've all got to change our ways, all of us
It's so interesting because you see all of the ways that we have now were given to us by the previous generation of the elite and of the cohorts and scientists that gave us the culture
When they wanted a good industrial society that was fairly well behaved and so on
They gave people much more tamer stuff on television
When they wanted to generate one generation to be the toughest to use the heavy sticks on the older people
Down the road 20 years to make sure they start at least 20 years before
And to give them vibrant video games etc.
And basically show them that the only time they can be powerful in this society is to join them and wear the black clad outfits
Be on the side of what the tea as the winners and children do see things like that that winners and losers they gravitate towards power
Something that every attorney and mass movement especially in turn is such as Nazis and Communism understood perfectly, perfectly well
Always go for the children and give them a form of self-esteem because they're joining elite fraternity
And suddenly no longer commoners they're called private soldiers
They're privately owned basically
They get camaraderie and all the bonding processes are well understood in the military to make them part of that fraternity
And they will live and die for it and they'll kill whoever they're told to as well
That's what's happened in society
That's why this is all coming to a head now because many many years ago they planned to pull the plug financially

I've known that probably it was set up even when you set up the last Bretton Woods agreement
That was only a part one
And the man who basically was behind that agreement, Miner King, John Merritt King
He himself said that the next step will be a new integrated system where people will serve this world state that was coming
That means that working for yourself as you think you're working for yourself has to go out the window
This is for the talking about sustainable development You'll get eventually in this new world order that's coming just as much as you probably will need and no more
It's all already been ratified long ago with the United Nations that every country in the world would get a basic, absolute basic form of health service
There will be, of course, an alternate one for the wealthy
Elite and the still will be wealthy elite in the system
But for the masses, we have to be trained and monitored from birth to death
And that's only so long as this generation goes through its cycle and we die off Because the next cycle again will be specially bred people, at least genetically enhanced and slightly call it
The result of the mating of sperm and ovum
Selected from good breeders as they say
That's definitely on the books
And then the next step, of course, will be to literally create from scratch human beings to serve them better
But to say that doesn't help the people who are going through this right now
It seems totally overwhelming to, when you see the vast networking of organizations across the planet, the thousand points of light
As Mr. Bucinier called them
They're also called soft power
Soft power is written into the various documents by the Council of Foreign Relations and the United Nations
Soft power are the NGO advocacy groups that spread their gospels
Part of the other area of expertise is the what's astonishing You'll find that these organizations which are all under the UN umbrella must adapt and adopt the whole UN agenda

And all the particular correct terms, it is really an upgraded Soviet system on steroids
It truly, truly is
And I talked before about the technocrats, the ones that Professor Carol Quigley said were the real men behind the scenes with power
They're unelected, they get the job done, they're the parallel governments
And he called it a parallel government
He was referring to the Council on Foreign Relations primarily to the Tri-Lateral Commission
And they're all Institute of International Affairs
The big founder
And we have to remember too that from the books I've been reading from other members such as Bertrand Russell and so on
That Nazism was not born in Germany
I read articles last week from one of Russell's books
And with his eugenics policies and so on in that book plus the social system of control over the public that he was advocating
It really, Nazism got its idea from London, England
There's no doubt about that whatsoever
And those characters lived through World War II and afterwards
And were still attending these global meetings but getting back to the technocrats
The more strong types, the Kissinger types, the ones who never retire
They're jetting all over the world and they can't retire for some reason, they can't do it
You'll only find that in the dedication, I cannot dedication, in a religious fanaticism
That's the only time you'll find this kind of dedication
And in the Economist.com on Tuesday, December 16th
This is what came out on the Economist.com
This article right on cue, right on time
This is the world in 2009, United States, an end of hubris
This is the world in 2017, the print edition, this is the print edition I'm reading here
America will be less powerful but still the essential nation in creating a new world order
I use Henry Kissinger, a former Secretary of State and Founder of Kissinger associates
Now this man himself and the 70s declared the enemy to the state
The mean enemy to the state was over population
And money was advocated big sums of money
Primarily to grab the Third World, setting up abortion, clinics and so on

They call them family planning clinics
But there was also covert material there as well
Just to end up with bringing the population down at home as well
So here he is, the same winner here
Who's by very important, very powerful people
He says the most significant event of 2009 will be a transformation of the Washington consensus
That market principles trumped national boundaries
The world trade organization, the IMF and the World Bank defended that system globally
You have to go into the history of these three It's fascinating
Absolutely fascinating to see how they're really all won
To be honest with you
And I'll get their funding from the same source
And I want for economic development
There was set up in 1947
But it says it defended that system globally
Periodic financial crisis were interpreted not as warning signals of what could befall the industrial nations
But as aberrations of the developing world too remedied by domestic stringency
A policy which the advanced countries were not in the event prepared to apply to themselves
The absence of restraint encouraged a speculation whose growing sophistication matched its mounting lack of transparency
An unparalleled period of growth followed but also the delusion that an economic system could sustain itself via debt indefinitely
Now a red article is again about a week or two ago from some of the big players that talked 30 years ago about the US
Would eventually crumble from in from within with because of this burden of debt
So this is nothing new they knew this was going to happen they planted that way
And reality our country could live in such a profligate manner only so long as the rest of the world retained confidence in its economic prescriptions
That period has now ended
Any economic system but especially a market economy produces winners and losers
If the gap between them becomes too great the losers will organize themselves politically and seek to recast existing system within nations and between them

This will be a major theme of 2009
America's unique military and political power produced a comparable psychological distortion
The sudden collapse of the Soviet Union well we know it didn't suddenly collapse it was the plan
At 10 to the United States to proclaim universal political goals in a world of seemingly unipolarity
But objectives were defined by slogans rather than strategic feasibility
Now that the cleft feet of the economic system have been exposed
The gap between a global system for economics and the global political system based on the state must be addressed
As a dominant task in 2009 this is all about an integrated economic system with a new centralized bank for the planet
That's what we're usually getting at here
The economy must be put on a second a sound footing entitlement programs reviewed and the national dependence on debt overcome
That's impossible to overcome the debt which is right it off and it should Hopefully in the process pass lessons of excessive stake and control will not be forgotten
The debate will be over priorities transcending the longstanding debate between idealism and realism Economic constraints will oblige America to define its global objectives and terms of a mature concept of the national interest
Of course a country that has always prided itself on exceptionalism will not abandon the moral convictions by which it defined its greatness
But Americans to learn to discipline itself into a strategy of gradualism that seeks greatness and accumulation of the attainable
And we back with more of this speech that's a remarkable one after this break
Here's Dr. John Matzen, a naturopathic doctor and his views on cardivates
I would like to thank you, Don, for making my job so much easier because your products just make it so simple
To fool around with a lot of exotic things that don't work we can just put them on cardivates and things start to work almost right away
Not bad dozens of dozens of patients with heart problems who have corrected them
And what it's doing there's so much garlic in there that have the yeast killing effect that yeast is a big problem
And that pushes the liver heart and also has metal-key-lating effect
And most of the other herbs in there are by the strength in the arteries they help to neutralize free radicals

Your rarity is as close to what we do in our program as you can get as far as one supplement goes
It's working on the gut, it's working on the liver, it's working on the arteries, what more can he ask for
For more information or to order your cardivate call 1-877-928-8822
Cardivate is only $69.95 for a two-month supply of either capsules or tinsure
Our website is heartdrop.com
Are you new to freeze-dried foods?
These fine easily-storable foods were first developed for the US space program
Today the US military and the US submarine service enjoy using these products extensively
Freeze-dried foods typically maintain their high nutritional value in excess of 30 years
Why store emergency food?
Keeping food on hand for emergencies protects you the same way as does insurance on your home or car
With freeze-dried guy freeze-dried foods in your food reserve, you can be ready for just about any unexpected crisis
In today's turbulent times of uncertainty, global crisis world market collapsed stock market volatility increased frequency of natural and man-made disasters
There has never been a better time to get a survival insurance policy
Take the necessary steps to protect your family in these uncertain times
Visit freeze-dried-guy.com or call 866-404-Food 866-404-3663
We pay the freight within the lower 48 states
Do you know the truth about cancer treatments?
Do you realize that with all presently accepted methods you are not correctly attacking the cancer
And you are mostly fighting to survive the treatment?
Do you realize the mutilating surgery, burning and poisoning of your entire system are totally unnecessary?
But now its cancers turn to die, with LASMED incorporates patented methodology
Without cutting, bleeding, drugs for damaging radiation, we can destroy skin cancer and breast tumors of any size
Without adverse side effects at our physician's office
Laser technology at its best
For more information visit www.lasemedinc.com on the web
That's www.lasemedinc.com
Call now 501-255-0528

501-255-0528

501-255-0528

501-255-0528

I hope someone walked back cutting through the matrix meeting in article

Put up like Henry Kissinger

And Kissinger, if any speaks you better listen

Because he represents a lot of powerful people

Who will never come forward until they've won their game

And I think they'd only come forward when we're all brain shipped and couldn't recognize them

But he's a very, very important player in this

He says every major country will be driven by the constraints of the fiscal crisis to reexamine its relationship to America

Now they knew long ago when they were setting up the European Union

And they set up the offices of bureaucrats to deal with the integration of Europe in 1948

Across Europe every government had a department which they kept quiet from the general public

And in you that eventually get a currency

And the United States knew this too because the US was helping defund the European integration

It was part of the Marshall Plan

At the end of World War II

So they didn't knew that eventually the bigger countries would eventually adopt the EU

And even the oil companies in the Middle East would start to use whatever currency they came out with in Europe

So this is no big surprise, we're not caught off balance, we are not

We'd like to play it that way

Because we must always believe that things just happen

By happenstance in a lifetime like some sort of series of coincidences

Now it's how it's presented to us

And then you too that the US would be exhausted financially by funding a world army

I think it's over 700 bases, US bases, military bases, air force, and naval across the world

They've been the policeman of the world up to this point

This is America, it's America, it narrows its horizons

What is a plausible security system and aimed at what threats

What is the future of capitalism

And by the way in the paragraph, the forwardly also says

It says our allies must be prepared to face the necessary
Rather than a confining foreign policy through so-called soft power
Changing over to soft power
As I said before, soft power means NGOs and their advocates
And basically evangelizing through media
It convinced the public
They call it raising public awareness what they mean by brainwashing you
And doctorate in you
Because in the new system is coming up
The old democracy is gone
The new democracy is a group
Or the largest groups are working together
On behalf of the public
That is the Soviet system
And that's the one of course
The big thing tanks preferred collectivism
I've read from the articles and the books
I said what is the future of capitalism
How in such circumstances does the world deal with global challenges
Such as nuclear proliferation or climate change
So he's very political threat
He's got all that stuff in it too
America will remain the most powerful country
But will not retain the position of self-proclaimed tutor
As it learns the limits of hegemony
It should define implementing consultations
Beyond largely American conceptions
The G8 will need a new role to embrace
China, India, Brazil, and perhaps South Africa
The immediate challenge
In Iraq, if the surge strategy holds
There must be a diplomatic conference in 2009
To establish principles of non-intervention
And define the country's international responsibilities

Delitary diplomacy towards Iran must be brought to a focus the time
The goal to first all a Iranian nuclear program is shrinking
This is the hype
Is it change or guns down to the sense
Even Napoleon mentioned this about England
He called it a prophetious England
He said
They were always making treaties, breaking treaties, citing what the ones that were opposing Back and forth, back and forth
And that's really what was seen happen in the last 20-30 years
I remember when Ronald Reagan was in
And he was calling Gaddafi the evil genius
As he brought sites to bear
An enemy off to somewhere not in America
And attacked it with the naval fleet
Because of the claim it was overrun with Cubans
And so on
But they always changed their sites
And suddenly if it had a new enemy
It's always worse than any other enemies ever existed
And they always use almost religious terminology
To justify it
To must be war must begin and be used on moral
With moral judgments
Moral reasoning, moral terminology
So with the evil
Iranians who are not the greatest threat in the planet you see
And why is it they can allow India and Pakistan to have these bombs?
No one else
See that this makes sense logically either
This is in 2009
And the realities of Afghanistan will impose themselves
No outside power has ever prevailed by establishing central rule
As Britain learned in the 19th century

As Britain was a near for the opium
And the Kiberpans and all the rest of it
We couldn't take it
We couldn't hold it for too long
Since then the Soviet Union in the 20th century
The collection of nearly autonomous provinces
Which defined Afghanistan
As in opposition to outside attempts to impose central rule
That's our natural state
They're tribal, very tribal Decentralization of the current effort is essential
All this requires a new dialogue between America and the rest of the world
Other countries while asserting that growing roles
Are likely to conclude that a less powerful America still remains indispensable
America will have to learn
That world order depends on a structure
That participants support because they help bring it about
If progress is made on these enterprises
2009 will mark the beginning of a new world order
And I'll be back with more after this break

You're listening to the Republic Broadcasting Network
Because you can handle the truth
Are you new to freeze-dried foods?
These fine easily-storable foods were first developed for the U.S. space program
Today the U.S. military and the U.S. submarine service enjoy using these products extensively
Freeze-dried foods typically maintain their high nutritional value in excess of 30 years
Why store emergency food?

Keeping food on hand for emergencies protects you the same way as does insurance on your home or car
With freeze-dried guy, freeze-dried foods in your food reserve
You can be ready for just about any unexpected crisis
In today's turbulent times of uncertainty
Global crisis world market collapsed stock market volatility increased frequency of natural and man-made disasters
There has never been a better time to get a survival insurance policy
Take the necessary steps to protect your family in these uncertain times
Visit freeze-dried-guy.com or call 866-404-Food 866-404-3663
We pay the freight within the lower 48 states
Outty gardeners, this is Mike from Baker Creek, heirloom seed company
We carry America's largest selection of heirloom seed, all non-hybrid, non-GMO and non-Monsanto
We offer 1200 varieties that our grandparents grew, vegetables that helped us survive the Great Depression
Varieties that our founding fathers grew, and varieties that not only survive but thrive in today's gardens
All our vegetable seed is open pollinated, which means you can save your own seed from generation to generation
Want to learn more about heirloom seeds and what the government is doing to control our food supply?
If so, request our free 124-page seed catalog
And today, we offer you our homestead collection
60 full-sized packs of pure heirloom seed for $83 post paid
That's 60 fresh packets of seed for just $83
Call us today to order your free catalog or our seed collection at 866-Oldseed
That's 866-Oldseed or go online to oldseed.com
That's oldseed.com
Deep in the Brazilian rainforest of the Amazon grows the Asahi berry
Considered to be one of nature's most complete and healthy foods, the Asahi berries loaded with antioxidants, amino acids, essential omegas, fibers, phytonutrients, and protein
A superfood? Yes!
YourLivingFruit.com now brings the Asahi product, the timing, the company, the opportunity, and the cause to you

Some of the health benefits associated with the Asahi berry are increased in sustained energy

Help with cholesterol management, improvement of digestive system, strengthening immune system, and more

Asahi berry boasts 10 times the antioxidant benefits of grapes and twice that of blueberries

Are Asahi berry health benefits right for you?

Is the opportunity right for you? Find out at yourLivingFruit.com

YourLivingFruit.com will show you the remarkable and continually documented health benefits of the Asahi berry

Visit yourLivingFruit.com

That's yourLivingFruit.com

www.asahi berry health benefits.com

www.asahi berry health benefits

www.asahi berry health benefits

Hi folks, I'm Alan Watt, cutting through the matrix

And everything that's been disclosed now is right in your face with a lot of the truth

At least as far as their agenda goes, they tell you where they're taking us

And what Kissinger will leave out there, there's many other articles that will fill in

The things that they hinted at were touched briefly on

Because we're going into totally controlled society based on sustainable development

But it's also to do with having better types of humans and classifying us literally as types and subtypes

And all the rest of it who is essential to society and civilization as they like to call it

And that's what it's all about

I was looking at the latest census forms that the Britain has published

And there's no stone left unturned, there's absolutely no privacy in it whatsoever

Even that's about your sex life and your religious preferences and all this kind of stuff

Everything is down there, everything

Because we're owned, we are the profane as they like to call the public

We live in a world of darkness, but it's a darkness that they gave us

And they gave us it by keeping the light away, which was the truth about anything

Reality is made up of perceptions by the people at the bottom

And most of the data is fed to them by those at the top

They'll just give us mythological reasons for things happening
And put history down in a mythological fashion as well
They never tell you the wise and queer force, that's why I like authors like Professor Karl Quigley
Who was the historian for the CFR, who like to give you the blank parts, you fill them all in for you
And tell you the reasons for wars, the financial backers behind those who are going to profit and run societies after the wars
It's simply strategy, long term strategy and a business plan

And I'll tell you a call from Ireland there, that's from Mick from Ireland, are you there?

Hello, Mick

Are you there? Yes?

You can hear me, yeah?

Yes, I got you

All right, it's just got two quick questions for you

Hello

Yes

You talk about Huxley, what do you think of Huxley's door is a perception

Well, Huxley again, part of his, he was the only one at that time that were getting paid to go out

And promote this kind of stuff, they also had Timothy O'Leary as well

And it was now admitted to Timothy O'Leary, around the world, Dr. Timothy O'Leary

But winning his white coat at universities, advocating LSD in all the rest of it

It was working for the CIA, that's been officially disclosed now

We know for a fact that Huxley himself was working with M.I. 5 and M.I. 6

During World War II and afterwards in the Department of Culture creation

So, I'm not surprised, they wanted to use, remember, that was Huxley himself

Who sat in on meetings as far back as 1930

Talking about how to control society through pharmacology

He wanted to drug the entire planet to make them more docile and easily managed

So, it's very enticing the way it's written for youngsters, thinking they make some magical experiences

But this is, it was really to get us all hooked on drugs

So that we prefer the drug state of unreality

And we'd be out of the picture, we'd be no problems at all to a system, to a government

They wanted to control our lives and treat us as they wished we would be too stoned to and happy to care

Literally

And another one, what about Alan Watts?
Well, again, he began as an Anglican priest
And he joined the right societies and organizations
And trying anyone who promoted the new age movement was also getting funding from big foundations
Because the new age was to be coupled with the taking of drugs in fact
So, he came out and he went through these different religious searches and ended up basically with Hinduism and reality
And promoted alternate religions

And two, that all of the big organizations did agree that to bring in this world order
Until to get society to allow those changes to come through that would affect their very individual lives
They had to put the nail on the coffin of Christianity completely
And so, they were promoting all a blend of Eastern religions
And exactly as Blavatsky said, they rude, they'd eventually unite Hinduism with a watered down Christianity
And that's what you have today, you have interfaith Christianity that has bits of all the new age through it as well
You also have a Christianity that does not believe in evil anymore
Everything's good, you have a good God, everything's wonderful, that's just the new age
And it's been more targeted on the individual to me, like making people more aware of the individual
Of your own individualities

One more and then I don't know, what did you think the Lisbon Treaty 2 round 2?
Oh yeah, that's coming up now because this is...
And they're really going out to the farmers now to vote the correct way Yeah, I was going to go with a take there for a while
Yes, it won't be happy
And even if they vote down again, they'll come back again and again and again
And if the country revolts, what do you think?
No?

Yeah, I know that...

What we have already, you see really as a defect to a authoritarian system that is not going to tolerate is not voting and doing as they wish us to do

That's been made very obvious to some of the top people in these big organizations

So what is the answer?

All right, cheers for that

Thanks for calling

And that's what you got to have got a system that's incredibly powerful, arrogant

And they're all on board every agency, every NGO

Prattles the same talk on every topic

You see, in a Soviet system, you could not take part of it, you could agree with it

Yeah, that seems okay

And look at another part that might uphore you

You know, you have to swallow the whole thing and part all of it

And that's what we have

When they talk about consensus building amongst the NGOs towards this new sustainable agenda

You have to accept all of it ultra-feminism

And there's an article in the paper just today of how far this has gone

It's from Australia, I believe, it's the Harold Sun

And here's how far they've gone in Australia

This is discrimination against white males will soon be encouraged

It's been made law

And it's by Susie O'Brien, December the 9th, 2008

Discrimination against dominant white males will soon be encouraged in a bid to boost the status of women

They're disabled and cultural and religious minorities

Such positive, they're calling it positive discrimination

Treating people differently in order to obtain equality from marginalized groups is set to be legalized under planned changes to the equality opportunity act

For shadowed last week by state attorney General Rob Howles

The laws are also expected to protect the rights of people with criminal records to get a job

As long as their past misdeeds are irrelevant to work being sought

Equal Opportunity Commission CEO Dr. Helen Skoki

Or Zoki said males had been the big success story in business and goods and services

Clearly they will have their position changed because they will be competing in a different way
With these people who have been traditionally marginalized, you said
Let's open it up so everyone can have a fair go
Victoria's peak business body expressed concern yesterday about the need for the proposed laws
And question if they would undermine the right of companies to make legitimate business decisions
A present individual's or bodies wanting to single out any race or gender for special treatment must get an exemption from the CAT
Companies and public bodies accused of discrimination can only be held to count after a complaint has been made
But the proposed changes go much further along the commission to inquire into discrimination
C's documents and search and enter premises after attempts to bring about change of fails Businesses and individuals would be required to change their ways even if a complaint had not been received
Action could be taken through an unlawful act was likely to occur, likely to occur
This is pre-arrest again, not just in cases where discrimination has taken place
The commission would also have real teeth to enforce its rulings via VCEAT and as a last resort in the courts
The changes shown in the Department of Justice report by former public advocate Julian Gardner would also educate people so they know their rights Give more protection to people with disabilities requiring companies and public entities to reasonably accommodate their needs
Grant the homeless and people who act as volunteers better protection from discrimination
That part sounds all very wonderful, don't want to help, this is nothing to do with helping people
Victorian employers Chamber of Commerce and Industry, workplace general manager David Gregory said business supported objectives of equal opportunity legislation
Well he would because the Chamber of Commerce is all parts of this umbrella United Nations group
And it's called positive discrimination, not reverse discrimination but positive discrimination, that's what they're calling it
Quite amazing isn't it?

And again it was under the fallacy that all white men and all ages have just lived in the top of the heap
It's against all logic and all factual history
Essentially a go most white men were illiterate, they worked in very low paid jobs, very dirty, dangerous jobs

They did not live at the top of any heap, and they lived a very very poor lifestyle, that's the reality of it

Now we'll go back to the phones and we'll go to Danny and Georgia, are you there Danny?

Yeah, how are you Owen?

Yes

I'm calm from Southern Oregon

Okay

Yeah, but I got two questions for you

And the first one has to do with the use of cannabis

Yes

Is that more associated with Hinduism and that whole New Age movement?

Yeah

But again there's no doubt about it, that's why they brought it in

When I was growing up in Britain it was not there and suddenly with the beetles and the massive sudden increase in India

In all the magazines and books turning, getting turned out and put on the services quickly

It became the end thing almost overnight

Yeah

But you find the genists in India

They use it as part of their religious ceremonies, they have special harvest of marijuana, etc. and various drugs

So yeah, it's part of some religious ceremonies in India

Yeah, it's interesting because where I live in Southern Oregon, it's such a part of the culture here

And it's really part of the counter-culture and the youth

I'm in my 20s and it just seems everyone is so immersed in it

And even the form of economy that it's become too

It's just kind of driven everyone down this one path and I really see it so clearly

And I myself deal with it and struggle with it on my own

But I always look for insight into where it came from

But thanks to that

And the other question I had is in relation to music and music industry

And how do you feel using music as a platform for sharing information, especially with the youth nowadays?

I feel like people can absorb information and have their thoughts stimulated by hearing maybe a political hip-hop rapper

Or maybe a reggae singer or how do you feel about that?

I know you had mentioned hip-hop and...

Yeah, and again, you can get the same effects

There are universities in Canada where you can get the same effects as marijuana from a helmet you put on your head

Because it uses very low frequency ELF waves and stimulates the temporal lobe, the brain

And they've compared them study after study and every intake of students into the psychology classes and so on

Get to try this on and what their experience is exactly the same thing

Only it's induced by a very low frequency of electromagnetic radiation, basically

Because our brains work on very very low currents of electricity, not the high currents

So you would say in listening to music then would have that same effect as well?

Absolutely, the compared the helmets with, for instance, cannabis and the experiences are just the same, the exact same

And some of them also get little religious experiences or the same sort of things that you will experience when you're dying out of body experiences

That also has been proven, they can do that with the same helmets, the stimulates and the same parts of the brain

Wow, pretty scary

All right, well, I guess that was about it

Yeah, thanks for calling

Yeah, and it's up to the individual, I mean it's true it's up to the individual what they do with themselves

There's no doubt about it, it should be up to the individual to do as they want to do

But people should be aware that there are people who do get addicted even to what's called the soft drugs

And they can't do without it, they do get paranoid

And it also helps them lose incentive and work and life, etc.

That's all part of it too, unfortunately

We find people like Huxley talking about the hope of creating a super drug, a type of soma drug

The mythical soma drug of ancient India

That we keep everybody happy and content, and he did say in his speech at Berkeley
And you'll find his speech on my website, Huxley said, what's wrong with drugging the public?

If it after all, their lives aren't very happy, anyway most people are not happy
So what's wrong if we go ahead and find ways to drug them?

Well, he could say that because he worked for the elite who had given us a very unhappy system
There's nothing fair or just in the system

Economic wise or any other wise, everyone's afraid of poverty
Everyone's afraid of getting sick and not getting treatment

And it's based on not getting, our whole system is based on you producing and consuming and not getting sick

What kind of humane system is that? It's not humane at all

But that's what we have, is it Warren and North Carolina there?

Hello? Hello? Yes

Hey, I've been a big fan of yours for a while and for about maybe about a year and a half
May two years now and I'd sent you an email actually and I don't know if we're trying to come down too hard

But I've come across information

Who is Glenn Keely?

Glenn Keely. Glenn Keely is a Canadian

Well, yeah, because it seems like you got a lot of your work from Glenn Keely

You think I've got a lot of my work on the question right now with your own lives?

Is it just what you've fallen in for, or was it?

Well, yeah, because this is stuff that really, I mean that feel like I really want to know

I mean, I'm not trying to come down on you, I'm just trying to get to the bottom of this

Well, I spoke to that a few years back in the 90s

I met him once in the 90s, one day

And I haven't talked to him since then

And after the meal, you're here

And I pulled this stuff all over my inner net rock now
And I'll just, again, I'm not just going to expand food for years Back with more after this break
..... commercial break.....
That's 321-747-0264
And joh and GLIHA.com

I'm on water cutting through the metric
And is David from South Carolina there?
Hello Alan, hello

Hey, it's great to be with you

How are you? I just had a quick question for you
What is your opinion of prayer?
I'm coming at this from a person who is, I guess it must have a deist
I believe in a creator and I believe in prayer
I'm not a Christian, but what is your opinion of that?
I think it all depends
I think all prayer probably
Just the meditative state of prayer itself
Will help people come to clear understandings of that which they're praying about even
We live in a strange world where we're being so dumbed down, so abused, unfortunately, by religions
Which simply work on behalf of power elites and the system
That all kinds of prayer is a bad rap
I think anyone who is hurting and going through their own personal struggles and their own personal hell
Will go to in one form or another even if they don't know they're doing it
And I think if they are honest with themselves
As to where they are in life, why they're there and so on
And I know this from people who've told me this that I believe that for them, if they've been very honest and broken generally
They get some kind of help, this seems to cut things, will help them
Maybe not financially or get them out or out there in

But they can get a self-confidence they've never had before
A face of confidence in self-worth and themselves
Yeah, it's a piece of mine and I found that to be absolutely true
It's nothing else, you know, it's sort of a... I guess I've ritualized it to the point where it's something I normally do
Quite a bit, but it's something that's a reinforcement I guess
Most prayers unfortunately are, as you see, they're ritualized
They're formalized and it's mainly a liturgy of what someone wants
And most of the things that people really want are not necessarily the best things for them
You know what? I actually made a point to ask for things as a personal great
You don't ask for money and all these kinds of things
But just generally ask for good things for other people
And for normalcy, especially considering the world we're in Normally, normalcy, I guess
I think everyone who really is looking for is some kind of peace within the chaos
Yeah, basically
Everything out there is designed to get you frustrated, you're angry
And people at the bottom will fight each other to the end, they'll kill each other
When they don't hear what they like, or they have a particular beef for something
They don't see the big picture, and you could never... you couldn't get the mass man to get together and fight a common enemy
That's almost impossible, and I think there's always probably been the way of things down through history
Even in rebellions, it was found that only a few percentage would get involved
And I should do the dirt to work and take the consequences
That's right, you had to demonize the god down the road
Yep, that's pretty well
Hey Alan, God bless you
I'm so grateful you're on this network and this network is still going on Thank you for calling
And that's the end of it for tonight
That's what's our main last night in top of the snow and bending of trees
So I'll be busy for next week or so

From hamish myself and interior Canada is good nights
And may your god, or your god go with you and here the official , cttm , transcript...

ALAN WATT

"CUTTING THROUGH THE MATRIX"

Live on RBN (#215)

Poem Copyright Alan Watt Dec. 15, 2008:

USA and the Kiss of Death:

"Kissinger Proclaims a New World Order,
Soft-Power Groups (NGOs) to Transform Border,
Bursting Asunder like Plates Tectonic,
The Phoenix Rises, New Economic,
New System Debt-Free, Highly Maintainable,
No Self-Serving Public, Must Be Sustainable,
No Home on the Prairies, Home on the Range,
2009 Will Bring Significant Change,
Weather Change to be Top of the Books,
Glance Outside, See How it Looks,
Whether it's Rainy or Nice Sunny Day,
One Thing's for Sure, You'll Pay and Pay,
A Road to Utopia, Keep it In Mind,
Eugenicists Run It and They Just Ain't Kind"
© Alan Watt Dec. 15, 2008

Monday 15th December 2008

Poem & Dialogue Copyrighted Alan Watt – Dec. 15, 2008 (Exempting Music, Literary Quotes, and Callers' Comments)

www.cuttingthroughthematrix.com

www.alanwattsentientsentinel.eu

"Code of Silence" by Bruce Springsteen

There's a code of silence that we don't dare speak
There's a wall between us and a river so deep
And we keep pretending that there's nothing wrong
But there's a code of silence and it can't go on

Hi folks, I'm Alan Watt. This is Cutting Through The Matrix on December the 15th 2008.

For newcomers, look into www.cuttingthroughthematrix.com and on the website, you'll find hundreds of hours of talks I've given in the past, where I try to fill in all the gaps they leave out at school for history and the very big gaps that the media leave out about pretty well every major story, because time is of the essence now and we need as many shortcuts as possible; and, even if we get them, even if we were to get all the shortcuts and enough people did understand what was happening, it would be very-very difficult, I must admit, to turn this around, because so much planning and organisation and money, big-big money, has organised the coming system that's just coming into view. As Mr. Bush Senior would have called it, with his New World Order coming into view. Anyway, all we can do, at this moment is gather information and, thank goodness, there's lots of people out there who've looked into different areas and, when you've pondered them all, you can start to get a big-big picture of what is really truly happening beyond the media propaganda. And it truly is propaganda we're getting from the Media.

I also suggest that people look into www.alanwattsentientsentinel.eu that's the European site and on it you'll find transcripts of the talks I've given. You can download them / print them up and pass them round to your friends.

As I say: it's staggering to be alive today, when you see the massive transformations happening in society; and, for those who are just waking-up now, it's probably the hardest time ever to wake-up. To see so much coming at them, from so many sources, with Non-Governmental Organisations (NGOs), many of them that sound official, as though they are parts of Government, there's hundreds of them like that. There's also so many organisations, mainly from the United Nations, of course they have an umbrella, thousands of them that also have these official-sounding titles but really they are the NGOs. The NGOs, in turn, are funded by the big Foundations and the Foundations all came out of, or they're all part, at least, of the Eugenics Movement and the Eugenics societies, back in the 1800s.

The Eugenics Movement talked from its very inception about Sustainability, they were terrified of the masses breeding and over-breeding. Look at the time of history, when Eugenics was coming in, big time, because it really was at the height of the Industrial Revolution, with coal-fired generators everywhere and smoke stacks everywhere and people having been crowded into cities across Europe. Many cities were actually built just for the industries they served; and, for the wealthy elite, to them, naturally, it appeared to be over-crowded conditions. And it certainly was, they never built enough houses to start with – but then, in Laissez-faire economics, it didn't matter how the people lived – they were all stacked on top of each other and you'd get maybe 4 -5, maybe up to 10 families in a big room, at times in that so-called era. They saw so many people, now if those folk were still scattered still on the land, it would be a different story altogether; otherwise, it boils down to perception. It's no different today, because the majority of the public, since the last so-called Great Depression, the majority of the public, since then have lived in the cities, 97%. Before that happened, it was 97% on the land. I'll be back with more, after this break.

=== BREAK ===

Alan Watt, back Cutting Through The Matrix and, before I go on with the rest of my talk, I'd like to remind you that on www.cuttingthroughthematrix.com website, you can buy books, I've got DVDs there, CDs as well and if you buy them, that keeps me going. You can also donate if you so wish, the buttons are on the website www.cuttingthroughthematrix.com . And, enough of my self-aggrandization. We'll get back on to the topic, the topic being, that this is so over-whelming for most people, this whole system, this massive colossus above them that's coming out more openly day-by-day on even the mainstream media; and telling us that we've all got to change our ways, all of us. It's so interesting because, you see, all of the ways that we have now were given to us by the previous generation of the elite and all their cohorts and scientists who gave us the culture. When they wanted a good industrial society that was fairly-well behaved and so on, they gave people much tamer stuff on television. When they want to generate one generation to be the 'toughs', to use the heavy sticks on the older people down the road twenty years, they make sure they start at least twenty years before and they give them violent video games etc., and basically show them that the only time they can be powerful in this society is to join them and wear the black-clad outfits, to be on the side of what they see as the winners; and Children do see things like that: the winners and losers. They gravitate towards power, something that every tyranny and mass movement especially in tyranny such as Nazism and Communism understood perfectly, perfectly well. Always go for the children and give them a form of self-esteem because they're joining an elite fraternity and, suddenly, they are no longer commoners, they're called 'private soldiers'. They're privately-owned basically and they get camaraderie and all the bonding processes are well understood in the military, to make them part of that fraternity and they will live and die for it; and they will kill whoever they're told to as well.

That's what's happened in society, that's why this is all coming to a head now because, many-many years ago, they planned to pull the plug, financially, I've no doubt probably that it was set up even when they set up the last Bretton Woods Agreement, that was only a part One, and the man that was basically behind that agreement, John Maynard Keynes, he himself said that the next step will be a new integrated system, where people will serve this world State that was coming. That means that working for yourself, as you think you're working for yourself, has to go out the window. This is what they're talking about, Sustainable Development. You'll get, eventually, in this New World Order that's coming, just as much as you probably will need and no more. It's already been ratified, long ago, at the United Nations that every country in the world would get a basic, absolute basic, form of health service. There will be, of course, an alternate one for the wealthy elite and there still will be wealthy elite in this system. However, for the masses, we've to be trained and monitored, from birth to death and that's only so long as this generation goes through its cycle and we die off, because the next cycle again will be specially bred people, at least genetically-enhanced, as they like to call it. The result of the mating of the sperm and ovum selected from good breeders, as they say. That's definitely on the books and then the next step, of course, will be to literally create, from scratch, human beings to serve them better.

However, that doesn't help the people who are going through this right now. It seems totally overwhelming when you see the vast networking of organisations across the planet. The thousand points of light, as Mr Bush Senior called them; they're also called 'soft power', soft power is written into the various documents by The Council on Foreign Relations and the United Nations. Soft power are the NGO advocacy groups that spread their gospels in whatever their area of expertise is. What's astonishing, you find these organisations, which are all under the UN umbrella, must adapt and adopt the whole UN agenda and all the politically correct terms. It is really an upgraded Soviet system on steroids, it truly-truly is.

I've talked before about the technocrats, the ones that Professor Carroll Quigley said were the real men behind the scenes with power. They're unelected, they get the job done, they're the parallel government and he called it a parallel government. He was referring to the Council on Foreign Relations primarily, the Trilateral Commission and Royal Institute of International Affairs, the big founder. We have to remember too, that from the books I've been reading from other members such as Bertrand Russell and so on, that Nazism was not born in Germany. I read articles last week, from one of Russell's books, with his eugenics policies and so on, in that book, plus the social system of control over the public that he was advocating. Really, Nazism got its idea from London, England; there's no doubt about that whatsoever. Those characters lived through World War Two and afterwards and were still attending these global meetings.

Getting back to the technocrats – the Maurice Strong types, the Kissinger types – the ones who never retire. They're jetting all over the world and they can't retire, for some reason they can't do it. You'll only find that in the dedication, that kind of dedication in a religious fanaticism, that's the only time you'll find this kind of dedication; and in the www.economist.com on Tuesday December 16th, this is what came out, this article, right on cue, right on time. It says:

The World in 2009, The United States: The End of Hubris

This is the print edition I'm reading here:

America will be less powerful, but still the essential nation in creating a new world order, argues Henry Kissinger, a former secretary of state and founder of Kissinger Associates.

Now, this man himself, in the '70s, declared the enemy to the State, the many enemy to the State was overpopulation and money was advocated, big sums of money, primarily to round the Third World, setting up abortion clinics and so on (they call them Family Planning Clinics). However, there was also covert material there as well, just to end up with bringing the population down at home as well. Here he is, this same winner here, who's backed by very important, very powerful people. He says:

The most significant event of 2009 will be the transformation of the Washington consensus that market principles trumped national boundaries. The WTO, the IMF and the World Bank defended that system globally.

You have to go into the history of these three, it's fascinating, absolutely fascinating to see how they're really all one, to be honest with you; and, they all get their funding from the same source, the one for economic development that was set up 1947. He says:

defended that system globally. Periodic financial crises were interpreted not as warning signals of what could befall the industrial nations but as aberrations of the developing world to be remedied by domestic stringency: a policy which the advanced countries were not, in the event, prepared to apply to themselves.

The absence of restraint encouraged a speculation whose growing sophistication matched its mounting lack of transparency. An unparalleled period of growth followed, but also the delusion that an economic system could sustain itself via debt indefinitely.

Now I read articles again about a week or two ago, from some of the big players that talked, thirty years ago, about the US would eventually crumble, from within, because of this burden of debt. This is nothing new; they knew this was going to happen, they planned it that way.

In reality, a country could live in such a profligate manner only so long as the rest of the world retained confidence in its economic prescriptions. That period has now ended.

Any economic system, but especially a market economy, produces winners and losers. If the gap between them becomes too great, the losers will organise themselves politically and seek to recast the existing system within nations and between them. This will be a major theme of 2009.

America's unique military and political power produced a comparable psychological distortion. The sudden collapse of the Soviet Union tempted the United States to proclaim universal political goals in a world of seeming unipolarity but objectives were defined by slogans rather than strategic feasibility.

Well, we know it didn't suddenly collapse, it was the plan.

Now that the clay feet of the economic system have been exposed, the gap between a global system for economics and the global political system based on the state must be addressed as a dominant task in 2009.

This is all about an integrated economic system, with a new centralised bank for the planet, that's what he's really getting at here.

The economy must be put on a sound footing, entitlement programmes reviewed and the national dependence on debt overcome.

That's impossible to overcome the debt, unless you just write it off and they should.

Hopefully, in the process, past lessons of excessive state control will not be forgotten.

The debate will be over priorities, transcending the longstanding debate between idealism and realism. Economic constraints will oblige America to define its global objectives in terms of a mature concept of the national interest. Of course, a country that has always prided itself on its exceptionalism will not abandon the moral convictions by which it defined its greatness. But America needs to learn to discipline itself into a strategy of gradualism that seeks greatness in the accumulation of the attainable.

I'll be back more of this speech, it's a remarkable one, after this break.

=== BREAK ===

Hi folks, Alan Watt back Cutting Through The Matrix, reading an article put out by Henry Kissinger and Kissinger when he speaks, you better listen, because he represents a lot of powerful people, who will never come forward until they've won their game; and, they'll only come forward when we're all brain-chipped and couldn't recognise them. However, he is a very-very important player in this. He says:

Every major country will be driven by the constraints of the fiscal crisis to re-examine its relationship to America.

Now, they knew long ago, when they were setting-up the European Union, and they set up the offices of bureaucrats, to deal with the integration of Europe, in 1948, across Europe. Every government had a department, which they kept quiet from the general public, and they knew they'd eventually get a currency and the United States knew this too, because the US was helping to fund the European Integration, it was part of the Marshall Plan, at the end of World War Two. They knew that, eventually, the bigger countries would eventually adopt the EU and even the oil companies, in the Middle East, would start to use whatever currency they came out with in Europe. So, this is no big surprise, we're not caught off-balance, we are not, they like to play it that way, because we must always believe that things just happen by happenstance in our lifetime, like some sort of series of coincidences. That's how it's presented to us; and, they knew too that the US would be exhausted financially, by funding a world army. I think there is over 700 bases, US bases, military bases, air force and naval across the world. They've been the policemen of the world, up to this point. It says:

As America narrows its horizons, what is a plausible security system and aimed at what threats? What is the future of capitalism?

And by the way, in the paragraph before he also says:

... our allies must be prepared to face the necessary rather than confining foreign policy to so-called soft power.

Changing over to soft power, as I said before, soft power means NGOs and their advocates and they're basically evangelising through media, to convince the public. They call it 'raising public awareness', what they mean is brainwashing you, indoctrinating you, because in the new system that's coming up, the old democracy is gone. The new democracy is a group, or the largest groups, all working together, on behalf of the public. That is the Soviet System and that's the one of course that the big Think Tanks preferred, collectivism. I've read from the articles and books. It says:

What is the future of capitalism? How, in such circumstances, does the world deal with global challenges, such as nuclear proliferation or climate change?

He's very politically correct, he's got all that stuff in it too.

America will remain the most powerful country, but will not retain the position of self-proclaimed tutor. As it learns the limits of hegemony, it should define implementing consultation beyond largely American conceptions. The G8 will need a new role to embrace China, India, Brazil and perhaps South Africa. The immediate challenge. In Iraq, if the surge strategy holds, there must be a diplomatic conference in 2009 to establish principles of non-intervention and define the country's international responsibilities. The dilatory diplomacy towards Iran must be brought to a focus. The time available to forestall an Iranian nuclear programme is shrinking

This is the hype, as they change their guns down through the centuries, even Napoleon mentioned this, about England, he called it “perfidious England”, he said. They were always making treaties, breaking treaties, signing the ones they’re opposing, back and forth, back and forth and that’s really what we’ve seen happen in the last 20-30 years. I can remember when Ronald Reagan was in and he was calling Gadaffi ‘the evil genius’ as he brought sights to bear and then he went off to somewhere in Latin America and attacked it with a naval fleet, it’s because they claimed it was overrun by Cubans and so on. They always change their sights and, suddenly, you’ve got a new enemy that’s always worse than any other enemy that’s ever existed; and, they always use almost religious terminology, to justify it. War must begin and be used on moral with moral judgements, moral reasoning, moral terminology. So, we have the ‘evil Iranians’ who are now the greatest threat on the planet you see; and, why is it they can allow India and Pakistan to have these bombs? No one else. You see, that doesn’t make sense logically either. It says:

In 2009 the realities of Afghanistan will impose themselves. No outside power has ever prevailed by establishing central rule, as Britain learnt in the 19th century

That’s when Britain was in there for the Opium, in the Khyber Pass and all the rest of it. They couldn’t take it; they couldn’t hold it for too long. It says:

and the Soviet Union in the 20th. The collection of nearly autonomous provinces which define Afghanistan coalesce in opposition to outside attempts to impose central rule.

That’s their natural state there, they’re tribal, very tribal.

Decentralisation of the current effort is essential. All this requires a new dialogue between America and the rest of the world. Other countries, while asserting their growing roles, are likely to conclude that a less powerful America still remains indispensable. America will have to learn that world order depends on a structure that participants support because they helped bring it about. If progress is made on these enterprises, 2009 will mark the beginning of a new world order.

I'll be back with more, after this break.

=== BREAK ===

Hi folks, Alan Watt, we're Cutting Through The Matrix and everything that's being disclosed now, is right in your face with a lot of the truth, at least as far as their agenda goes, they tell you where they're taking us and what Kissinger will leave out there, there's many other articles that will fill in the things that he hinted at, or touched briefly on, because we're going into a totally-controlled society, based on sustainable development. It's also to do with having better types of humans and classifying us, literally, as types and subtypes and all the rest of it, who is essential to society and civilisation, as they like to call it. That's what it's all about.

I was looking at the latest census forms that Britain has published and there's no stone left unturned, there's absolutely no privacy in it whatsoever. It even asks about your sex life and your religious preferences and all this kind of stuff. Everything is down there, everything; because, we're owned, we are the profane as they like to call the public. We live in a world of darkness but it's a darkness that they gave us and they gave us by keeping the light away, which was the truth about anything. Reality is made up of perceptions, by the people at the bottom; and most of the data is fed to them by those at the top. They always give us mythological reasons for things happening and put history down in a mythological fashion as well. They never tell you the whys and wherefores, that's why I like authors like Professor Carroll Quigley, who was the historian for the CFR, who liked to give you the blank parts, he'd fill them all in for you and tell you the reasons for wars, the financial backers behind it, those who are going to profit and run societies after the wars. It's simply strategy, long-term strategy and a business plan.

I'll take a call from Ireland there. We've got a call from Mick, that's from Mick from Ireland, are you there? Hello Mick. Are you there?

Mick: You can hear me?

Alan: Yes, I got you.

Mick: Alright, just got two quick questions for you. You talk about Huxley, what do you think of Huxley's Doors of Perception?

Alan: Well, Huxley again, part of his, he wasn't the only one at that time that were getting paid to go out and promote this kind of stuff, they also had Timothy Leary as well and it's now admitted Timothy Leary who around the world, Dr. Timothy Leary, wearing his white coat at universities advocating LSD and all the rest of it, was working for the CIA, that's been officially disclosed now. We know for a fact that Huxley himself was working with MI5 and MI6, during World War Two and afterwards in the Department of Culture Creation. So, I'm not surprised they wanted to use; remember it was Huxley himself who sat in on meetings as far back as 1930, talking about how to control society through pharmacology; he wanted to drug the entire planet to make them more docile and easily-managed. It's very enticing the way it was written for youngsters, thinking it makes some magical experiences, but, this was really to get us all hooked on drugs, so that we'd prefer the drugged state of unreality and we'd be out of the picture, we'd be no problems at all to a system, to a government that wanted to control our lives and treat us as they wished. We'd be too stoned – and happy – to care, literally.

Mick: Alright, and another one, what about Alan Watts?

Alan: Well, he again was put out, he began as an Anglican priest and he joined the right societies and organisations and – at that time – anyone who promoted the New Age movement was also getting funding from big Foundations because the New Age was to be coupled with the taking of drugs in fact. He came out and he went through his different religious searches and ended up, basically, with Hinduism in reality and promoted alternative religions. You've got to understand too, that all of the big organisations did agree that, to bring in this world order, and to get society to allow those changes to come through that would affect their very individual lives, they had to put the nail on the coffin of Christianity, completely; and so, they were promoting a blend of Eastern religions, exactly as Blavatsky said they would. They'd eventually unite Hinduism with a watered-down Christianity and that's what you have today. You have inter-faith Christianity that has bits of all the new age through it as well. You also have a Christianity that does not believe in Evil anymore, everything's good, you have a good god, everything's wonderful, that's just the new age.

Mick: He seemed more tied to in the individual to me, making people more aware of the individual, of their own individuality. One more and then I'll go: what did you think of Lisbon Treaty Two, Round Two roll-out?

Alan: That's coming up now and they're really going after the farmers now, to make them vote the 'correct' way! They won't be happy and even if they vote it down again, they'll come back again and again and again.

Mick: And if the country revokes, what do you think?!

Alan: I know, what we have already, really, is a de facto totalitarian system that is not going to tolerate us not voting and doing as they wish us to do. That's been made very obvious by some of the top people in these big organisations. So, what is the answer?

Mick: Alright, cheers for that.

Alan: Thanks for calling in.

That's what you got, we've got a system that's incredibly powerful, arrogant and they're all on board, every agency, every NGO, prattles the same talk on every topic. You see, in the Soviet System, you could not take part of it, you could agree with it and say 'yeah that seems ok' and look at another part that might abhor you, no, you had to swallow the whole thing and parrot all of it and that's what we have. When they talk about consensus-building, amongst the NGOs, towards this new sustainable agenda, you have to accept all of it, ultra feminism, there's an article in the paper just today of how far this has gone. It's from Australia, I believe, it's the Herald Sun and here's how far they've gone in Australia, it says:

Discrimination against white males will soon be encouraged

It's being made law.

It's by Susie O'Brien December 09, 2008

DISCRIMINATION against dominant white males will soon be encouraged in a bid to boost the status of women, the disabled and cultural and religious minorities. Such positive discrimination treating people differently in order to obtain equality for marginalised groups – is set to be legalised under planned changes to the Equal Opportunity Act foreshadowed last week by state Attorney-General Rob Hulls. The laws are also expected to protect the rights of people with criminal records to get a job, as long as their past misdeeds are irrelevant to work being sought.

They're calling it positive discrimination.

Equal Opportunity Commission CEO Dr Helen Szoke said males had "been the big success story in business and goods and services". "Clearly, they will have their position changed because they will be competing in a different way with these people who have been traditionally marginalised," she said. "Let's open it up so everyone can have a fair go." Victoria's peak business body expressed concern yesterday about the need for the proposed laws, and questioned if they would undermine the right of companies to make legitimate business decisions. At present, individuals or bodies wanting to single out any race or gender for special treatment must gain an exemption from VCAT.

Companies and public bodies accused of discrimination can only be held to account after a complaint has been made. But the proposed changes go much further, allowing the commission to inquire into discrimination, seize documents and search and enter premises after attempts to bring about change have failed. Businesses and individuals would be required to change their ways even if a complaint had not been received. Action could be taken where an unlawful act was "likely to occur", not just in cases where discrimination has taken place. The commission would also have real teeth to enforce its rulings via VCAT and, as a last resort, in the courts. The changes, shown in a Department of Justice report by former public advocate Julian Gardner, would also: EDUCATE people so they know their rights.

Likely to occur? This is pre-arrest again.

GIVE more protection to people with disabilities, requiring companies and public entities to reasonably accommodate their needs.

GRANT the homeless and people who act as volunteers better protection from discrimination.

That part sounds all very wonderful, that they want to help; but this is nothing to do with helping people.

Victorian Employers' Chamber of Commerce and Industry workplace general manager David Gregory said business supported the objectives of equal opportunity legislation.

Well, he would, because the Chamber of Commerce is all part of this umbrella United Nations group. And, it's called "positive discrimination". Not 'reverse discrimination' but positive discrimination, that's what they're calling it. Quite amazing isn't it? Again, it goes under the fallacy that all white men in all ages have just lived on the top of the heap, it's against all logic and all factual history. A century ago, most white men were illiterate; they worked in very low-paid jobs, very dirty, dangerous jobs. They did not live at the top of any heap and they lived a very-very poor lifestyle, that's the reality of it.

Now, we'll go back to the phones and we've got Danny in Georgia. Are you there Danny?

Danny: Hi Alan. I'm calling from Southern Oregon.

Alan: Ok.

Danny: I got a few questions for you and the first one has to do with the use of cannabis. Is that more associated with Hinduism and that whole New Age Movement?

Alan: There's no doubt about it, that's why they brought it in. When I was growing up in Britain, it was not there and – suddenly – with the Beatles and the massive sudden increase in India and all the magazines and books getting churned out and put on the shelves quickly, it became the in-thing almost overnight. You find the Jainists, in India, use it as part of their religious ceremonies, they have special harvests of marijuana etc and various drugs; it's part of some religious ceremonies in India.

Danny: It's interesting because where I live, in Southern Oregon, it's such part of the culture here and it's really part of the counter-culture and the youth. I'm in my 20s and it just seems everyone is so immersed in it and even the form of economy that it's become too, it's just kind of driven everyone down this one path and I really see it so clearly and I myself even deal with it and struggle with it on my own. But, I've looked for insights concerned with where it came from; but thanks for that. The other question I had is the relation to music and music industry and how do you feel about using music as a platform for sharing information, especially with the youth nowadays, you know. I feel like people can absorb information and have their thoughts stimulated by hearing maybe a political hip-hop rapper or maybe a reggae singer. How do you feel about that? I know you have mentioned hip-hop.

Alan: Again, you can get the same effects, there are universities in Canada where you can get the same effects as marijuana from a helmet you put on your head, because it uses very low frequency ELF waves and stimulates the temporal lobe of the brain and they've compared them, study after study, in every intake of students into the psychology classes and so on get to try this on and what they're experiencing is exactly the same thing, only it's induced by a very-very low frequency of electromagnetic radiation, basically because our brains work on very low currents of electricity not the high currents.

Danny: So, you'd be saying that listening to music then would have that same effect as well?

Alan: Absolutely. They compared the helmets with for instance, cannabis and the experiences are just the same, the exact same.

Danny: How interesting.

Alan: Some of them also get little religious experiences or the same sort of things that you will experience when you're dying, out of body experiences. That also has been proven; they can do that with the same helmets, stimulating the same parts of the brain.

Danny: Wow, pretty scary. Alright, well I guess that was about it. I appreciate you answering my questions.

Alan: Thanks for calling.

It's up to the individual, it's true, it's up to the individual what they do with themselves, there's no doubt about it that it should be up to the individual, to do as they want to do. However, people should be aware that there are people who do get addicted, even to what is called the 'soft drugs' and they can't do without it, they do get paranoid and it also helps them lose incentive in work and life etc. That's all part of it too, unfortunately. We find people like Huxley talking about the hope of creating a super drug, a type of soma drug, the mythical soma drug of Ancient India that would keep everybody happy and content. He did say – in his speech at Berkeley – and you'll find the speech on my website. Huxley said what's wrong with drugging the public, he said after all their lives aren't very happy anyway, most folk are not happy. So, what's wrong if we go ahead and find ways to drug them? Well, he could say that because he worked for the elite who had given us a very unhappy system, there's nothing fair or just in this system, economic wise or any other wise. Everyone's afraid of poverty, everyone's afraid of getting sick and not getting treatment and it's based on not getting. Our whole system is based on you producing and consuming and not getting sick. What kind of humane system is that? It's not humane at all. I'll be back with more, after this break.

Glen Kealey part is cut out here

=== BREAK ===

I'm Alan Watt, we're Cutting Through The Matrix. Is David from South Carolina there?

David: Hello Alan.

Alan: Hello.

David: Hey, it's great to speak with you.

Alan: How are you?

David: I just had a quick question for you: what is your opinion of prayer? I'm coming at this from a person who is, I consider myself as a Deist, I believe in the Creator and I believe in prayer. I'm not a Christian but what is your opinion of that?

Alan: I think it would all depend, I think all prayer, probably, just the meditative state or prayer itself will help people come to clearer understandings of that what they're praying about even. We live in a strange world where we've been so dumbed down, so abused, unfortunately, by religions which simply work on behalf of power elites and the system, that all kinds of prayer has got a bad rap.

I think anyone who is hurting and going through their own personal struggles and their own personal hell, will go to it, in one form or another, even if they don't know they're doing it. And, I think, if they are honest with themselves, as to where they are in life, why they're there and so on then, and I know this from people who have told me this, that I believe: that, for them, if they've been very honest and broken generally, they get some kind of help that seems to, things will help them. Maybe not financially or get them out the rut they're in; but they can get a self-confidence they never had before and self-worth in themselves.

David: It's piece of mind, I found that to be absolutely true. Now, I sort of ritualize it to the point where it's something I normally do, quite a bit. It's something, a reinforcement I guess.

Alan: You see, most prayers, unfortunately, are, as you say, they're ritualized. They're formalized and it's mainly a liturgy of what someone wants and most things that people really want are not necessarily the best things for them.

David: You know what, I actually made it a point to not ask the things as in a personal way. You don't ask for money and all these kind of things but I generally just ask to do things for other people and for normalcy. Considering the world we're in, normalcy I guess is,

Alan: I think what everyone really is looking for, is some kind of peace within the chaos.

David: Peace of mind, that's exactly what it is.

Alan: Everything out there is designed to get you frustrated, angry and, you know, people at the bottom will fight each other to the end. They'll kill each other, when they don't hear what they like or they have a particular beef or something. They don't see the big picture and you couldn't get the mass man to get together and fight a common enemy, that's almost impossible; and I think this has always probably been the way of things, down through history, even in rebellions, it was found that only a few percentage would get involved, and actually do the dirty work and take the consequences.

David: That's right; they demonize the guy down the road.

Alan: That's pretty well it.

David: Well, Alan, god bless you and I'm so grateful you're on this network and this network's still going.

Alan: Thanks for calling. And that's the end of it for tonight. There was lots of rain last night on top of the snow and bending of trees, so I'll be busy for the next week or so.

From Hamish and myself in Ontario Canada, it's goodnight and may your god, or your gods, go with you.

Transcribed by Bill Scott.

Links to topics covered in tonight's show:

"The World in 2009 – United States – 'An end of hubris' " Henry Kissinger \(economist.com\) – Nov. 19, 2008.

"Is a New World Order in the Making?" By Dr Abdullah Al Shayji \(gulfnews.com\) – Nov. 26, 2008.

"Discrimination against white males will soon be encouraged" by Susie O'Brien, Herald Sun – Dec. 9, 2008. \(See Above-mentioned Article\)

📁 The Carried Word

🔍 Alan Watt, andre my space, banning, books, censorship, Cuttingthroughthematrix, deception, Glen Kealey Rip-off, Internet Archive, kiss of death, RBN archives

< 15. Diana Story> 11. Prologue

Leave a Comment

☐ Save my name, email, and website in this browser for the next time I comment.

Recent Posts

- 1. The Arrival
- 2. The First Lesson
- 3. The Mirror
- 4. The Invitation
- 5. The Gathering
- 6. The Pause
- 7. The Challenge
- 8. The Insight
- 9. The Return
- 10. The Whisper
- 11. Prologue
- 13. The Kiss of Death – UPDATED july 2026
- 15. Diana Story
- 16. Aus Der Traum – Regine aus Deutschland
- 17. New Video Channels
- 18. The Diana Letters
- 19. AI & Diana 1
- 20.AI & Diana 2
- 21. Synopsis

Tags

AI Alan Alan Watt analysis Bee breaking point broadway Butterfly
Crow CTTM
Cuttingthroughthematrix
debess debess et all Diana Do as I say not Do as I do escape from Cuttingthroughthematrix censorship Fall GPT AI Systems guru inner pilgrimage Insight Into the light intuition Jon Uhler karen Kevin light melissa Mouse narrow path
OpenAI playing both sides Projection psychology remembrance sacrifice shill showing colors sparrow theft Theft of material from this website Therapy Transcriber unauthorized use of evidence for low level slander Weston

Pages

Alan Watt Mystery
Sweet Liberty Saga
Jackie & Alan Through the lense
Media
Media II
Purpose
Blog
Alternative Websites

22. My replies to Diana
23. Diana Responds...
24. Karen Responds...
25. Full Circle
26. Research PDF Files
29. Afterword
30. Karen about Alan
31. Karen about Alan – Audio 2 hrs.
32. Reflection On Karen
33. The Mirror and the Moral
36. Afterburn
37. Attacks from CTTM under the excuse of "copyright"
38. New External Sites
39. Jackie.... * SOLO*About Alan
40. More Attacks from Cuttingthroughthematrix – Melissa Demon – Karen gets taken down
41. Because I cannot promote the two people who are now profiting from his work because I believe that the woman who resided with him was complicit in his death
42. One of many missing transcripts/ interviews, it is a long story – brotherhood of the bell (baal)

- 43. 27th september 2006 – endgame - messiah
- 44. No Longer Listening to Alan Watt
- 45. BitChute Discussion Archive – Alan Watt / CTTM / Legacy Dispute – Overview Discussions Between Me and Debess
- 46. Future transcripts of Alan Watt Talks for the years 2016 and beyond
- 47. Dieu et mon droit -Tea-Party
- 48. “Sanity. Sanity. Sanity is the thing that they have to – they want to exterminate sanity.”
- 49. Overview Summary
- 50. The Glen Kealey Papers
- 51. New Alternative Sites
- 52. Time Is On My Side – Demonic Possession
- 53. David Hammond – Shilling for the CTTM Cult
- 54. Spiritual Purification

alanwattarchive.net – A quiet space for reflection, learning, and the thoughtful exchange of ideas.

All content is created with care and respect. Built in the spirit of stillness, curiosity, and goodwill toward all.

